HALT WAR, CHINESE TO U. S.

WISCONSIN ONLY STATE TO ASK FEDERAL DOLE

No Pleas from Other Legislatures.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—While the movement for a federal dole for the unemployed is coming to a head in the senate, it transpired today that only one state—Wisconsin—has asked for such legislation.

EDW. P. COSTIGAN. [U. & U. Photo.]

In support of their bill providing for the distribution of 375 millions of dollars by the national treasury to the states for unemployment relief, Senators Robert M. La Follette [Radical Rep., Wis.] and Edward P. Costigan [Dem., Colo.] presented appeals for federal aid from several hundred mayors of cities and civic organizations but none from governors or legislatures.

For Loans and Road Work.

Nor has any different showing been made in behalf of the Democratic leaders' substitute proposing the distribution of 750 millions, half for road construction and half for loans to the states for direct relief. This phenomenon has raised a number of questions, such as the following:

What states, if any, are incapable of relieving the wants of the unemployed within their borders? What states, if any, deliberately are ignoring their responsibilities in this matter and relying on the central government to furnish the relief?

The legislatures of eight states—Kentucky, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, South Carolina and Virginia—are in regular biennial session this winter. None of these legislatures has appealed to congress for a gift or even a loan from the national treasury for unemployment relief. So far as congress is officially informed, the destitution in each of these states is being adequately cared for by state and other local agencies.

Call Five Special Sessions.

The legislatures of five states—Illinois, Arizona, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and Wisconsin—have been called in special session to provide for unemployment relief. The Illinois legislature provided 20 millions of dollars. Pennsylvania adopted a relief program. The Arizona and Tennessee legislatures adjourned without taking action. None of these four legislatures appealed for federal aid. The Wisconsin legislature voted millions for relief and also addressed a memorial to congress urging passage of the La Follette-Costigan 375 million bill.

The legislatures of 35 states are not in regular session this winter. So far as congress is officially aware, the relief requirements in these states are not of sufficient magnitude to exhaust local resources or to cause their governors to call their legislatures into special session to consider the situation.

In the light of this showing, various critics of the pending bills have been moved to characterize them as pork barrel schemes to raid the treasury in the name of charity.

Reluctant to Let World Know.

Various efforts have been made to account for the fact that only one state has asked for the dole. Senator Costigan said that governors "are reluctant to advertise to the world the respective needs of their states," but he thought federal relief legislation would act "as a magnet to the states and municipalities to come to the aid of their stricken peoples." He also asserted that 34 states are inhibited constitutionally from extending credit for relief of individuals.

Organized labor today abandoned its opposition to doles in connection with a memorial presented by the Federation of Labor to President Hoover and congress urging enactment of the La Follette-Costigan bill, which, however, the memorial asserted, does not provide for a dole.

Can't Explain to Hungry.

"No explanation," said the petition, "can be made to hungry people and their sympathetic friends which would satisfy them as to why congress voted billions to aid banks and corporations and would refuse to appropriate even a moderate sum to be used for the purpose of assisting the states and communities in supplying food, shel-

THIS CHINESE FINDS TIME BETWEEN WAR TO MAKE COFFINS

SHANGHAI, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A deathlike silence hung over the Hongkew no man's land late this afternoon as the battle between the Chinese and Japanese lulled.

Suddenly the grating screech of an unoiled saw split the silence of the empty streets. A correspondent came upon a Chinese coolie calmly sawing rough boards into six-foot lengths.

"What are you doing?" the coolie was asked.

"Making coffins," he said.

TUNNEL BLAST 125 FEET DOWN INJURES 2 MEN

Two workmen employed by the city were critically injured early this morning when a stick of dynamite was exploded accidentally as they were digging in a water tunnel 125 feet underground at Lake street and Central Park avenue.

They are John Mucci, 48 years old, 927 South Marshfield avenue, and Enrico Pisarelli, 38 years old, 151 East 116th street. Both were taken to the Garfield Park hospital.

From other workmen employed in the tunnel Lieut. Thomas Duffy of the Fillmore street police learned that dynamiters had been at work earlier in the evening and apparently had left an unexploded stick imbedded in the rock. It was set off when Mucci's pick struck it. Pisarelli was behind him.

The tunnel is being dug from Chicago avenue to Fillmore street along Central Park avenue.

Sells 10c Milk from His Herd; Death Threat

A death threat to Stanley MacClintock, 29 years old, independent Glen Ellyn milkman, was under investigation yesterday by State's Attorney Chauncey W. Reed of Du Page county. MacClintock is being guarded in his home at 163 East road, Glen Ellyn.

The threat was made by two hoodlums to MacClintock's wife Sunday morning while he was out delivering his milk. They told Mrs. MacClintock her husband must stop selling milk within three days or he would be "put under the sod." The gangsters said they had been sent from Chicago.

When Mrs. MacClintock replied that her husband had no other way to support her and their two babies, one of the hoodlums replied: "Better a live man walking the streets looking for a job than a dead one."

Appeals for Protection.

MacClintock appealed to Prosecutor Reed. He told of his trouble with the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers' union, which operates as far west as Wheaton. Twice in the last six months, he said, the union has forced dairies to stop selling him milk. He formerly delivered milk for Borden's in Glen Ellyn, but was laid off in July. He then bought milk from Carlson Brothers Dairy company of Geneva and sold it to his Glen Ellyn customers.

MacClintock said that Al Richardson, business agent for the union, made several visits to the Carlson dairy, urging that no milk be sold to him. MacClintock said he then bought milk from the Farmers' Dairy company of Cicero and that Richardson threatened to call a strike on the dairy if it continued to sell milk to him.

Buys His Own Herd.

Rather than cause trouble for the dairy, MacClintock said he stopped buying milk and purchased 12 head of Guernsey and Jersey cattle and rented a farm near Glen Ellyn. He began selling his own milk at ten cents a quart.

Richardson has warned him six times to stop selling his own milk, according to MacClintock. After receiving the death threat, he said, he called Richardson and was told the union had nothing to do with the hoodlums who talked to his wife.

Prosecutor Reed ordered an investigation, saying, "No citizen of this county is going to be deprived of his right to an honest livelihood. I will offer every protection of my office. If the guilty are discovered a conspiracy indictment will be pressed against them."

PRESIDENT HOOVER CALLS A HALT ON HIS WHOLESALE GREETING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—President Hoover will be unable to participate in formal receptions to groups and conventions visiting Washington during the next few months, it was announced at the White House today.

Faced with the prospect of 160 organizations planning to hold conventions in Washington in the coming months, and with scores of requests for receptions by the President already received at the White House Mr. Hoover, it was explained, has been forced to call a halt on further wholesale handshaking.

He will, however, it was said, receive committees from the various organizations. And Mrs. Hoover is not included in the change of rules. She will still receive callers whenever she is able.

GERMAN FINANCE CRISIS IMPERILS LONDON BANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—[Wednesday.]—A number of London financial houses are so involved in the German financial crisis that the British treasury may be forced to come to their assistance and rush a bill through parliament to save them from disaster.

According to this morning's Daily Herald, a number of financial houses possess German bills greatly in excess of their capital, and if, as it is feared, the "standstill" agreement on German commercial debts breaks down, $190,000,000 of British money will be involved. The London acceptance houses, which have guaranteed the bills, then will be called upon to pay, and in the present financial situation they will be unable to do so. They would be forced to apply to the Bank of England for aid.

It is learned on high authority that before giving such assistance the bank will be forced to approach the treasury with a special emergency bill to deal with the situation and which will have to be rushed through parliament.

It is also stated that Montagu Norman, who returned to England last night from Basel, foresaw this danger when he urged a private meeting of bankers at Basel and asked that international credit to Germany be prolonged three months. France refused and the credit was prolonged one month only. The British bankers fear that either France may refuse to continue her share of the 100 million dollar credit advanced to the Reichsbank by the Banks of England and France, the Federal Reserve bank of New York, and the world bank, or Germany will default in her reparations. Either, it is pointed out, will bring the "standstill" agreement to an end.

LEAGUE POUNCES ON CHINA FOR HER SOS CALL

Council President Assails Delegate.

BULLETIN.

GENEVA, Feb. 10 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, chief of the Italian delegation, told the world disarmament conference today that Italy rejects the French theory of the necessity of security to precede disarmament and that his government is willing to abolish capital ships, submarines, aircraft carriers, heavy artillery, tanks, bombing aircraft and chemical warfare weapons, and to revise the laws of war to protect civilian populations.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Feb. 9.—China in desperation tonight forced the league of nations' council to listen again to her plea that the Japanese be brought to time and she paid for her temerity by catching the devil from Joseph Paul-Boncour, president of the body.

The French president of the council said that as far as the Sino-Japanese war is concerned the council would be forced to wait upon the action of the powers who are good enough to intervene. But China, it seems, has not strictly abided by the rules laid down for parties who think themselves attacked and appeal to this society for help.

Assails Chinese Delegate.

"I would like to remind the delegate from China that the statement he has made does not replace the full statement of his case with all the relevant facts and papers which are required under article XV. of the covenant, the article under which he himself appealed to the council," Paul-Boncour said.

He was very severe about it and protruded his chin in the direction of the unhappy Dr. W. W. Yen.

"I say this because as president and on behalf of my colleagues on the council I am anxious to maintain the presige of the league in spite of suggestions made in certain quarters that it seems powerless under certain circumstances," the council president said.

He stressed the fact that the league had appointed its commission to investigate the Shanghai conflict within 24 hours. The first report showed, he revealed, that apparently there is a misunderstanding between the Chinese and the Japanese and that "if this misunderstanding is removed it may possibly result in the restoration of better relations between the two parties."

Dr. Yen humbly said he would get his report in right away.

Hops on Japan's Delegate.

Paul-Boncour then surprised the Japanese delegate, Naotake Sato, who had expressed the hope that hostilities cease "soon" by virtue of a new set of instructions to the Japanese, by pinning this statement definitely on him and then expressing the same hope.

Dr. Yen apparently thought there was nothing else to do tonight and let Paul-Boncour bring down the gavel. Then up jumped Dr. Liu, Chinese minister to Berlin, and Yen and the council caught theirs.

"You other powers are siding with Japan," he cried, "because you are afraid of being kicked out yourself. You want your share of the trade. If

Seize Woman as Embezzler of $52,000

For more than ten years Miss Katherine V. Carroll, who is now 37 years old, was a trusted employé of a railway supply concern with the nominal title of secretary. She dressed modestly for her office routine and the business world in which she moved believed she lived on her salary of $175 a month.

Last night Miss Carroll was taken into custody by Policemen Sweeney and Kecsig of the Town Hall station at her home, 429 Melrose street. Specifically she is charged with forgery to obtain $612.37. But according to her former employer, Constant C. Hopkins, president of the Hopkins-Benedict company, 80 East Jackson boulevard, her peculations amounted to $52,000, most of them in the years 1927-1930.

Tells Her Change of Rôle.

And, Mr. Hopkins added, the quiet Miss Carroll changed her rôle when she left the office. She became a woman of fashion, he said.

"Our investigation showed, after her disappearance in July, 1930," Hopkins said, "that she spent more than $10,000 for beautiful clothing in State street stores. I am told that she had a box at the opera, that she took riding lessons and that she joined the Illinois Woman's Athletic club."

Further allegations made by Mr. Hopkins indicated that Miss Carroll had dealt in the stock market during the boom days and that she had also speculated in real estate.

First Employed in 1919.

Her connection with the railway supply company dated back to 1919. She told the management when she asked for a place that she had attended Northwestern university. Her businesslike demeanor won her promotion, and she became private secretary to the president. In the last city directory her name appeared as secretary-treasurer of the company, but Mr. Hopkins declared that she never had any such authority.

About ten years ago, the president asserted, it was discovered that she was short $10,000 in her accounts. On her plea of poverty and helplessness, he said, she was not prosecuted and was allowed to retain her position on a promise to make restitution. A part of her salary was taken to make up the shortage.

New Auditor Called In.

In July, 1930, Mr. Hopkins decided that something was wrong with the office accounts, he said. He called in a new auditor. Miss Carroll saw the examination being made.

"She went out," Mr. Hopkins related, "leaving her hat and coat behind. She has been missing since. A warrant was sworn out then and she was traced to some place in Indiana. But the trail was lost and we just learned that she was living on Melrose street. The present warrant was taken out on Monday."

Miss Carroll, in her cell at the West Chicago avenue police station last night, was defiant.

"It is absurd," she said, "to say that I took all that money. I never took any. This is a plot against me. I never spent any large sums of money and it will all come out that I am innocent."

She declined to talk about the case in detail on the ground that her attorneys had told her to remain silent. She remained in jail in default of bonds of $5,000. A hearing on the case will be held in the Felony court today.

Youth Arrested as a Thief Escapes from Police Patrol

Frank Kissel, 15 years old, 1988 South Union avenue, and Joseph Krugel, 15 years old, 2019 Allport avenue, were arrested yesterday afternoon in a garage at 5516 Harper avenue as they were trying to take merchandise from a truck. From the Hyde Park police station they were sent to the Juvenile Detention home in a patrol wagon. As they were being led up the steps Kissel broke away from the police and fled.

SHANGHAI TRADE LEADERS SEND PLEA TO POWERS

Deadlocked Battle for City Goes On.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 10 (Wednesday).—(U.P.)—A Japanese sea captain was shot and killed at Chinese military headquarters at Lunghua today after his capture while his vessel was operating in the Whangpoo river off Lunghua. Lunghua is about six miles up the river from Shanghai.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Feb. 10 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Twenty-five students at the Imperial university were arrested today for participating in a demonstration in which handbills were distributed urging the people to "stop this imperialistic war!" The demonstration was believed to be the first protest against the military operations in China since the Manchurian campaign began.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 10 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Leading Chinese commercial and banking organizations today sent cablegrams to Secretary of State Stimson at Washington, and to British, French, and Italian officials urging them to attempt to settle the Sino-Japanese dispute "in accordance with the ideals of the league of nations, the Kellogg pact, and the nine power treaty."

The messages said that unless the conflict was settled soon it was likely to "drift into the actuality of a world catastrophe."

The messages were also sent to Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, Premier Laval of France, and Premier Mussolini of Italy.

Battle of Shanghai on Again.

The sun shone for the first time this week through the lifting fog. Immediately the battles of Chapei and Woosung flared up again. Four Japanese airplanes came up to Chapei from the lower Yangtze river. Two flung bombs on the Chinese lines while the others flew over wide areas, including the international settlement, despite repeated protests from the foreigners that all airplanes keep away from the foreign quarter. Both Chinese and Japanese batteries roared afresh at the appearance of the airplanes.

Chinese cavalry were reported to have ridden on Japanese machine gunners in the Kiangwan area of Chapei in a deadly saber attack today, only to be beaten off by bullets. These reports lacked eyewitnesses to verify them, but it was said the horsemen inflicted severe casualties before they were driven off.

Claim Cavalry Was Japanese.

(Another dispatch from Shanghai said: "The Chinese officially declare the Japanese landed cavalry last night, but when an attack began Chinese soldiers rolled scores of empty cement barrels down the slopes, throwing the cavalry into wild disorder. Fully a third of the Japanese were killed or wounded out of a total of 1,000, it was claimed.")

Meanwhile the Japanese naval command was reported to be landing additional bluejackets at Woosung, while vernacular newspapers said the Chinese also were adding to the troops on both the Chapei and Woosung fronts with a determination to resist Japanese operations on a more extensive scale.

Chinese machine gunners still protected the banks of Woosung creek against the invaders, who labored incessantly to throw up a bridge across a stretch 200 to 300 feet wide.

Japanese Explain Failure.

The failure of Japanese forces to occupy Woosung and Chapei was attributed by the Japanese admiral, Shimada, to a desire to keep the Japanese casualties to a minimum.

"The Japanese are withholding their defensive movements unless they can be accomplished without material loss of life," he said. "We could occupy the Woosung forts any time we pleased if we were willing to sacrifice the lives.

"But there is no need for immediate capture. The forts have been silenced, preventing for the time being at least further molestation of Japanese shipping in the Whangpoo river.

"Our main object at Woosung has been accomplished with the silencing of the forts. Our intention now is to clear the area of all Chinese soldiers, thereby averting the possibility of future attacks on Japanese lives and property from that quarter."

Chinese troops have converted Woosung village into a fortress, which we intend to take when the occupation is possible without foolhardiness," the admiral said.

The Japanese plan, he said, was to weaken the Chinese positions at Woosung by bombarding them from warships and airplanes, following up with shore forces when the attackers thought the time was ripe.

He denied widespread reports that Japanese bluejackets were intent upon razing Chapei. Instead, he said, they continued to bombard Chapei in an effort to clear out the Chinese troops concentrated there. He admitted that the destruction of property in that devastated area had been "heavy."

"Our aim is to protect Japanese lives and property and this will not be accomplished until the Chinese are forced back a safe distance from the borders of the international settlement," he said.

"The Japanese policy concerning Chapei is similar to that in Woosung—namely: the restricting of operations to an extent in which Japanese casualties are held to a minimum."

Admiral Shimada said Japanese naval officers were unaware of any truce negotiations, thus contradicting reports that peace parleys between the Japanese and Chinese were going on and were likely to culminate shortly in a cessation of hostilities.

Commenting on Washington reports that the Japanese were willing to withdraw into Hongkew if the Chinese withdrew 20 miles from Chapei, he said: "Any truce presupposes a Chinese withdrawal from areas immediately surrounding Shanghai."

Report Plane Shot Down.

There were unconfirmed rumors today that a Japanese bombing plane had been disabled over Chapei by machine gun fire in a battle with a Chinese pursuit plane.

Shells and bullets from the Chapei battle area continued to fall in the international settlement. Bullets thudded constantly against the walls of the Shanghai municipal police station on Dixwell road, in no man's land of Hongkew, and the station was ordered evacuated.

The Blackhawk, United States destroyer tender, arrived today from Manila with large quantities of supplies for the American 31st infantry, on patrol duty in the slums of Shanghai. The United States destroyer Smith-Thompson left for Nanking.

Vets Growl as Usual.

The 31st seemed to enjoy its job of soldiering. The men built bonfires, for they haven't had time to become accustomed to the Shanghai cold, and the veterans of the world war growled—as veterans are supposed to—about everything in general.

The Japanese command announced that instructions had been given to all land and naval forces to avoid friction with American and other foreign troops. Most friendly relations with all foreign garrisons were stipulated in these orders.

Persons arriving in Shanghai on passenger vessels reported that the Japanese warships at Woosung were observing the amenities whenever a foreign warship went by. The Japanese, they said, ceased firing at the forts and saluted the noncombatant vessels. That attended to, they got busy on the forts again.

Americans Draft Protest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 10 [Wednesday.]—The wounding of Mrs. H. D. Robertson, British wife of a local police official, by the fragments of a shell yesterday, and the arrival of Japanese regular troops, has intensified the apprehensions of the foreign residents of Shanghai.

Ten Americans today drafted a resolution which will be cabled to Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, as soon as 100 signatures are obtained. The resolution reads:

"American citizens living in Shanghai strongly protest against Japanese violence against noncombatant civilians and their property. We gravely fear that if Japan is permitted to be successful in the present aggression there will again be a reliance upon armed force and the cause of disarmament will lose all the ground gained since the world war."

Fostered by Missionaries.

The resolution was fostered by missionary organizations, which have been particularly affected through the closing of their schools. Japanese armed forces are also searching and closing certain missionary institutions, while others have been struck and damaged by shell fire and airplane bombs.

The local American Daily Evening Post, which has been demanding that the powers compel the Japanese to withdraw their armed forces from the international settlement, today felt the strength of Japanese animosity when it was unofficially warned against continuance of the campaign on the grounds that it is violating the local municipal regulations under the emergency status prohibiting the circulation of material likely to aggravate the situation.

JAPAN RECANTS PLAN TO SET UP 'NEUTRAL ZONES'

Withdraws After Powers Express Opposition.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Japan today officially disclaimed to the British government any intention of proposing the formation of neutral zones round Chinese ports. It was reported yesterday that such a suggestion was to be Japan's answer to the recent British and American proposals for a settlement of the Shanghai situation. The British now believe the scheme was put out unofficially by Japan as a feeler, and was withdrawn when the powers expressed opposition to it.

Great Britain is now frankly pessimistic about the possibility of doing anything to check Japan in Shanghai, although she is still hoping that something will result from the diplomatic activities of the British Vice Admiral Howard Kelly. At the same time officials here declare quite frankly that there is nothing that can be done if Japan is determined to continue. The only powers considered capable of stopping Japan are America and Great Britain, and it is not expected that either will go to the length of war to protect China.

Fear Invasion of Settlement.

The greatest danger envisaged by the British is that the Japanese, having failed to make a landing at Woosung, north of Shanghai, will insist on landing troops in the international settlement of Shanghai and that the Chinese will then invade the settlement to oppose the landing. If that happens, it is feared the settlement is doomed to destruction, with great loss to foreign interests. Americans and Britishers would be the chief losers.

The futility of the league of nations was exposed today by a series of questions and answers in the house of commons. George Lansbury, Labor leader, asked Stanley Baldwin, acting premier, what Great Britain was doing to prevent Japan from using the British section of the international settlement as a base for attack on the Chinese. Baldwin replied that the whole object of the British troops in Shanghai was to protect the settlement.

League Given "Ha Ha."

Lansbury then pointed out that if this meant that the British troops were to resist the Chinese from entering the settlement, while protecting the Japanese who were using the settlement as their base, it would mean that Great Britain would be ranged on the side of Japan.

"Is there no power in the league of nations or the nine power treaty to persuade Japan to use some other part of China from which to attack the Chinese?" Lansbury asked.

The entire house joined in a roar of laughter, in which Baldwin's answer was imperfectly heard, but he seemed to say that Britain was doing all in her power to bring about a peaceful settlement.

Japanese Cite U. S. Precedent.

TOKIO, Feb. 10.—[Wednesday]—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman today cited what he said was an American precedent for Japan's proposal to demilitarize and neutralize zones around the principal commercial centers of China, a plan on which Washington officialdom has looked with disfavor.

He recalled that the United States government had proposed on Feb. 4, 1927, that Chinese war lords in Shanghai at that time be excluded from the zone of hostilities.

The American proposals was evoked by the northward drive of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist armies then sweeping through Chekiang from Kiangsi and threatening an early capture of Shanghai, which Chang Tsung-chang and Chang Tso-lin were defending. The proposal failed because the war lords rejected it.

(1) Stationed at Shanghai or along the Whangpoo river between Shanghai and Woosung are the cruiser Houston, flagship of Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, and the following gunboats and destroyers: Isobel, Barker, Whipple, Truxton, Edwards, Paul Jones, Borie, Pearry, Pope, and Blackhawk.

(2) At Nanking is the destroyer Simpson, and the Bulmer, Parrott, and Smith-Thompson are en route there from Shanghai.

(3) The destroyer Edsell is at Wuhu.

(4) The destroyer McCormick is at Foochow.

(5) The destroyer Stewart is at Amoy.

(6) The destroyer Pillsbury is at Swatow.

(7) The destroyers Tracey and McLeish are at Manila, ready to sail.

In addition to the naval units, a large body of marines and 1,200 men of the 31st American infantry are on guard in the international settlement of Shanghai. America also has marines and the 15th infantry at Peiping and Tientsin.

ASSASSIN KILLS EX-CABINET CHIEF ON TOKIO STREET

Mild Policy to China Believed Motive.

TOKIO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Junnosuke Inouye, eminent financier, liberal statesman and leader of the Minseito (opposition) party's campaign for the general election, Feb. 20, was assassinated tonight by a youth indirectly connected with the reactionary "patriotic" elements responsible for most of the political murders that have blackened Japan's recent history.

While the Manchurian campaign was in full swing, especially during the latter part of 1931, it was generally believed that both Inouye and Baron Shidehara, then foreign minister, were opposed to the use of military force. Both of them were said to be in danger of their lives.

Shot Leaving Automobile.

Inouye, 63 years old and three times finance minister of Japan, was killed as he alighted from his motor car in front of a primary school house in the Hongo ward of northern Tokio, where a Minseito rally was to be held.

A small figure in a shabby kimono and a dirty black felt hat emerged from the shadows of the schoolhouse gate and fired three times. All three shots struck the former minister in the left breast and he fell to the pavement dead.

Bystanders seized Tadashi Konuma, 23 years old, who comes from a farming district in the Ibaraki prefecture northeast of Tokio. Police said he fired the shots.

The body was taken to the nearby Imperial University hospital. In a short time the former minister's wife arrived. Dignified and dry eyed, she received condolences, saying she had prepared herself for such a tragedy while her husband was in the cabinet, but had hoped that the danger was over.

Hold Youth for Murder.

The police, who held Konuma for murder, declared he had committed the crime because he blamed Inouye for financial policies that had put Japanese peasants in a desperate plight.

Police learned that the assassin, since his arrival in Tokio last December, had lived at the home of Inajiro Terada, member of the famous Kokuryukai, the "Black Dragon society" made up of the most reactionary "patriotic" zealots in Japan.

Inouye was finance minister in the short lived "earthquake cabinet" formed by Admiral Count Gombei Yamamoto immediately after the great Tokio quake of 1923. He first took his place among most important leaders of the nation when he joined the Hamaguchi ministry in July, 1929.

Baron Kijuro Shidehara, former foreign minister of Japan and close colleague of former Finance Minister Inouye, is seriously ill of cerebral anemia, his physicians announced today.

WE'RE UNARMED—BERLIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 9.—The fog over Geneva turned into snow today and the fog over the disarmament conference lifted slightly to reveal more clearly its difficulties after Germany, following upon the United States, had spoken her piece.

With moderation that excited the admiration of the French, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening presented Germany's demand for equality in armaments, which means to all practical purposes that Germany be relieved of restrictions imposed at Versailles and that she arm up to France, or that France be true to pledges also made at Versailles and arm down to her.

Pleads for Fairness.

"Let's finish with the tendency to maintain on one side one's own military forces at a level as high as possible and reduce on the other side as far as possible those of a neighbor," said the slim, bald and gold spectacled chancellor of the reich.

Behind the stiff glossy figure of the chancellor many could not help but see a little man with a mustache and the swastika emblem of the Nazis.

So far as Bruening is concerned, Adolf Hitler might never have existed. He spoke with such cool restraint that some of his delegation were most surprised and inclined to worry lest the reaction at home be bad.

Not that Bruening did not say plenty. He emphatically said "the German government and the German people demand that their own disarmament be followed by general disarmament."

While the German chancellor's speech brought into view one, if not the chief, stumbling block of the conference, American Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson's nine point program of disarmament threw into relief many bases of possible agreement.

Speaks with Calm Detachment.

The ambassador, who put his stamp on the massive "draft convention" which Washington asked be used at least as a basis for discussion, stood trimly on the rostrum in a morning coat, his graying hair brushed impressively into place. He spoke with calm detachment.

The delegates listened with tremendous interest. Andre Tardieu, French minister of war, scanned his copy of the speech, pencil in hand. Maxim Litvinoff, Russia's foreign commissar, sat in the back row hunched into immobility before the earphones, which looked like a barbaric headdress.

Dino Grandi of Italy looked vaguely disappointed and just as though he had been going to say the same thing tomorrow. Sir John Simon of Great Britain kept his small head cocked at attention and he nodded his approval when Mr. Gibson indicated that further reductions in naval ratios, of course, were contingent upon France and Italy joining the London treaty.

The possibility of not only prolonging the Washington and London agreements but of a reduction within the ratios, the establishment that there is a distinction between effectives necessary for the maintenance of internal order and effectives necessary for defense, and the idea of a budgetary limitation as a means of blocking the race for quality in equipment, once quantity has been restricted, were the features of the American program exciting the most comment.

The French, of course, expected the plea for a ban on submarines, but they were gratified by Mr. Gibson's expression of "open mindedness to all proposals." They took this to mean that their insistence on strengthening the league of nations can be left for the league members to argue and will not prevent the Americans from going into the actual disarmament issues.

GENERAL INSISTS CHINA FIGHTS TO PRESERVE PEACE

Says Japan Is Defying All Treaties

BY GEN. TSAI TING-KAI.

Commanding 19th Chinese Army.

[Written for Kuomin News Agency.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 9.—[U. P.]—Immediately after the European war a weary world cried for peace. The bitter memory of lives lost and properties destroyed was consoled only by thoughts of the future.

The league of nations, brought forth by the great powers, loomed as a milestone of the millennium that was to be. Uncontented with this international instrument alone and with a view to translating its principles into realities, the initial step was taken to remove the greatest possible menace to world peace when the United States government called the Washington disarmament conference to discuss the far eastern question, then threatening the relations between China and Japan.

Peace Pacts Are Result.

The resultant nine power treaty was hailed throughout the world as a solemn guarantee not only of the integrity of China but of the amity of nations.

Not belittling the importance of European tranquility, the American government once more took the initiative with France to outlaw war as a means of settling international disputes. The Kellogg-Briand pact against war marked a step further toward realization of world peace.

China, dominated by her traditional desire for peace with the world, unhesitatingly became a signatory to all these solemn engagements and has since striven to adhere not only to their letter but also to their spirit.

Says Japan Breaks Peace.

Unfortunately, her peaceful intentions lately have been defied by her island neighbor, Japan.

Violation after violation of her territorial integrity and these international treaties revived our bitter memory of the last world war. Rather than suffer such an eventuality to pass, China, although far inferior in military armament, has dedicated herself and her people to the defense of these instruments evolved for universal peace.

OLD EMPRESS OF CHINA DIES IN PEIPING OF SHOCK

PEIPING, China, Feb. 9.—[U. P.]—The death last Friday of the Dowager Empress Yi, stepmother of the "boy emperor" of China, was revealed officially today. The old empress died of shock, the report said, suffered last October when the former emperor, now Henry Pugi, was taken to Manchuria by the Japanese as part of an alleged plot to restore the Manchu monarchy at Mukden.

Henry Pu-yi's adopted mother, or stepmother, has been separated from him since he was ousted and forced to flee from Peiping several years ago. His real mother, the Empress Tsu-hsi, died in 1905. The youth, not yet 30, fled to Tientsin, where he lived under the protection of the Japanese and within the confines of their concession there. The Japanese disavowed any connection with a plot to restore him.

HAMBURG, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Hamburg is undergoing a "beer strike." Of the city's four thousand saloons, 2,100 have agreed not to sell beer in protest against a decree by Carl Goergeler, the nation's price czar, ordering a price cut.

RUSSIA BEHIND CHINA WAR, SAYS RICH JAPANESE

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Defending his country's military actions in China, Dr. Fusanobu Isobe, official of the Mitsui Mining company, Ltd., of Japan, and a graduate of the Indiana university chemistry school, today blamed soviet Russia for the hostilities between China and Japan. He asserted that Russia's hand is back of China's warlike measures and the boycott of Japanese goods. It was Russia, he said, that caused the Manchurian trouble, and now, he continued, Russia has coveted Mongolia. Dr. Isobe declared that Japan is ready for a clash with Russia.

GENEVA, Feb. 9.—The only disorderly house known to be open at Geneva was closed by police today and a bevy of French girls imported in defiance of the league of nations' white slavery convention, were evicted and sent across the border. The proprietress insisted she had a special license for the duration of the league of nations' disarmament conference from the town council, which had kept the lid tight on the birthplace of Calvinism up to this time.

CHICAGO COUNTED OUT IN PENNSY'S HUGE PROGRAM

$159,000,000 Loan to Be Spent in East.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The $5,000,000 a month the Pennsylvania railroad is seeking to borrow from the government will be spent in the east. Chicago is still just the other end of the road and will remain so until traffic volume increases "sufficiently to justify large expenditures."

A. J. COUNTY. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The loan to be sought from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which may total considerably more than $100,000,000, is specifically for use in insuring the continuation of the $250,000,000 electrification program begun 18 months ago between Washington and New York. The money, if obtained, will not be available for electrification of the Chicago terminal despite the fact that a lot of the money in the finance corporation's coffers came from the central states.

Officials Are Noncommittal.

The above information was obtained after a canvass of the executive offices of the Pennsylvania system here yesterday and today. No one cared to give a yes or no answer to the question of whether any of the millions would find their way back to Chicago. They choose to point out the indirect benefits which would fall to Chicago.

"I cannot tell you yes nor no," said A. J. County, vice president, finance and corporate relations, "but I can say there will be no electrification program for Chicago. We have not obtained the loan yet—have not even applied for it, although we will soon—and do not know how much we will be able to get.

"By obtaining this money for electrification and terminal improvements we will be enabled to do more routine work, such as the putting down of heavy rails, building of bridges, parts of stations, grade crossings, and such necessary jobs in the middle west. I cannot name specific projects, for I would immediately get into deep water."

Chief Publicity Shy.

Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, declined to see THE TRIBUNE reporter. His secretary explained that Gen. Atterbury "does not like to be interviewed and never sees reporters on such short notice." The general, however, it developed was not adverse to personal publicity, as it was admitted that he recently had submitted himself to the magazine sketch writers and that two articles were either on the news stands or about to arrive there.

Mr. County, the finance vice president, endeavored to answer questions and for the most part was as direct as one could desire.

"We have had a couple of years during which we have had to curtail our expenditures," said Mr. County, "and we might have worn crêpe and long faces but that would not have helped. If you can get money for constructive spending it is a great thing for the country and for yourself.

"The Pennsylvania likes to carry on a big program of improvement everywhere. It has paid a cash dividend for 85 years. Its credit is good, but the public says no when offered bonds. The insurance companies already have big holdings. The banks decline, explaining that the people are not paying them. Where shall we go for money for improvements. Naturally to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Plans Big Expenditure.

"Goods must be ordered, produced and consumed to have prosperity. We intend to set this cycle to work if we get the loan. We want to complete our electrification project from Washington to New York first and then from Washington west. The program is already 18 months old and we have spent $150,000,000. We need $159,000,000 to complete it and should spend $100,000,000 on it this year. If we can get $5,000,000 a month we can carry on and if business should get better for a period we could use our own income and then go back for more money only as it became necessary.

"The completion of electrification in the congested sections of the east means increased speed in freight and passenger transportation and that means as much to Chicago as the east. We used to have a four day freight haul from Chicago. Now we are putting freight into New York on the third morning. We hope for a two day delivery.

"Passenger service also will be speeded up. The failure to run trains faster than on the 20 hour schedule between New York and Chicago is due for the most part to the failure of the roads to earn enough to put in the available faster equipment. This will be changed some day. The Pennsylvania already has put down the heaviest rails all the way into Chicago. That is the beginning."

Hits at Waterways.

Mr. County said all the Pennsylvania wanted in regard to lake or natural waterway competition was an equal chance with the ship companies. He said he considered the construction of artificial waterways for transportation purposes "an absolute waste of funds."

The pleasure automobile and the long distance telephone, he said, had done a lot to cut down passenger traffic. The future of the railroad passenger business, Mr. County believes, lies in stimulation of patronage by a home to office service everywhere. He would make it the railroad's job to pick the passenger up at his home in a bus, speed him to a terminal by rail, and then take him to or near his office.

"I'll give you the answer as to why we are planning no electrification project for Chicago," said Mr. County. "It is a business man's answer. First, the money is not available. The sum we are after for the present electrification and terminal work is only half what we really need.

"Secondly, the traffic volume is not there to justify it. There is no suburban traffic such as that of the Illinois Central for us. In the third place it is necessary to have a full load before electrification becomes financially desirable. The moment it becomes justifiable, the Chicago territory will be electrified."

The ten per cent wage cut agreed to by the rail unions, Mr. County said, means more jobs rather than more money for major improvements.

Hoover Retreat on Arms Plan Proves Surprise to Capital

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The Gibson disclosure at Geneva that the Hoover administration had reversed its position on the question of budgetary limitation of armaments and was now willing to limit national defense expenditures for warships and war materials was received with surprise in congressional and national circles.

FRED A. BRITTEN. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

The other American disarmament proposals, calling for extension of the Washington and London naval treaties, the abolition of submarines and poison gas warfare, the placing of a ban on aircraft bombing of civilian populations, and the slashing of army equipment, caused scarcely a ripple of excitement. In most instances congressmen and service officers summed up their comment with the conclusion that after all nothing will be accomplished at Geneva while Japan is at war with China.

Little Immediate Comment.

With few exceptions national defense advocates in congress said they would make a further study of the Hoover disarmament program prior to deciding whether they would make any official comment. Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], who proved the most bitter opponent of the London treaty, indicated he would have something to say tomorrow. Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], former chairman of the house naval committee, specifically criticized the Hoover statement that this government would be willing to consider limiting its budget expenditures for army and navy war materials.

"I am opposed to budgetary limitation for the same reasons the navy is against it," Mr. Britten said. "I see no reason why congress should be deprived of the right to spend what it pleases on its warships. As for the provisions calling for abolition of poison gas and submarines it makes little difference whether they are approved by the powers or rejected."

Cites Fate of Treaties.

"Agreements to abolish submaries or chemical warfare," Britten continued, "would be merely scraps of paper. They would be broken just as soon as war was declared. Look at Japan. In the last few months she has broken every treaty obligation that interfered with her campaign in China and Manchuria. The nine power treaty was just a scrap of paper so far as she was concerned."

Just a few days before the delegation sailed the navy general board, the highest naval authority on naval policy, went on record flatly against application of the budgetary system to the navy. It is known also that the highest war department officials voiced objections to the budgetary method in discussions with the various members of the delegation. From all indications President Hoover and Secretary Stimson paid no more attention to the army and navy experts in preparing the American proposals than was paid the navy general board by Secretary Stimson during the London conference. At that time, it was recalled today, the board fought reduction of American 8 inch gun cruiser tonnage.

Unfair to United States.

War and navy department officials today said they preferred to await more definite information regarding the exact American position on limiting expenditures before making any comment. In arguments before the American delegation the army and navy experts stated that the budgetary system was impractical, open to evasion, unfair to the United States because of this country's higher standard of living and higher labor costs and likely to freeze American national defense forces in a position of inferiority to other powers which have been expending large sums on armaments in recent years.

BOY SCOUTS PIN MERIT MEDALS ON CIVIC LEADERS

Honor the Memory of Pastor.

The order of medal presentation was reversed last night at the annual meeting of the Chicago Council of Boy Scouts. Heretofore men prominent in civic life have placed on the khaki uniforms of young scouts special recognitions of merit.

Last night Thomas Du Bois, 13 years old, a member of Troop 868, lined up twenty-four civic leaders in a row before an assembly of 200 attending the meeting in the Merchandise mart and pinned upon them, for the first time in the 22 years of Chicago scouting, the award of the silver beaver.

After reading in full the official certificate signed by President Hoover as honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, and the Scouting officials, Thomas called attention to the special service given by each recipient. Assisted by other Scouts, representing the National Scout council and the Chicago council, he then presented the medals to the following:

Moritz Bendheim	Homer D. Jones
E. L. Bost	Arthur R. Lowe
George E. Diersen	Ernest H. Noyes
James H. Douglas Jr.	Mason Phelps
Harvey G. Ellerd	Laurence B. Robbins
Dr. H. W. Gentles	Philip P. Sachs
Howard F. Gillette	William M. Scudder
Alfred W. Stern	C. E. Gordon
Leroy T. Steward	R. Douglas Stuart
Samuel O. Gorsline	Rev. E. W. Symonds
Stephen Y. Hord	W. J. Tomkins
A. S. Irvine	Barrett Wendell Jr.

The same recognition was accorded posthumously to the Rev. Raphael Asherden, who was killed in an automobile accident several months ago while on his way to a scout meeting.

R. Douglas Stuart was reëlected president of the Scout council; James B. Forgan, Alfred W. Stern, and Laurence B. Robbins, vice presidents; A. Watson Armour, treasurer, and Samuel G. Gorsline, Scout commissioner.

State Closes Its 'Gas' Tax Fraud Case Against Allen

The prosecution closed its case yesterday against Abe Allen, former owner of the Midway Refining company of South Holland, who is charged in Judge John Prystalski's court with evading the state gasoline tax. Assistant State's Attorneys John Hampton and John O'Hora called several witnesses, who said they had paid the tax to Allen. Previously the state had introduced evidence to show that Allen had not paid any tax to the state. The defense will present its side of the case today.

19 SUBMARINES LURK OFF HAWAII TO "SINK" FLEET

U. S. Navy "Put on Spot" in War Maneuvers.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Feb. 9.—Nineteen submarines, lying in the depths of the ocean in a forty mile ring around the island of Oahu, are waiting to smash the attack of the "blue" fleet from the United States, in the war games now in progress here. The joint army and navy maneuvers so far indicate that the major technical plan of the "blues" is the destruction of the "black" air defense, and when these have been worn down sufficiently to attack in force with capital ships. The main fleet of the attacking "blues" has not been located yet, but is believed to be gradually closing in.

An effort was made by the "blues" today to put the "black" army planes out of commission. It resulted in failure. The planes were supposed to be hidden away on emergency fields on the island, but the army outguessed the "blues" and early today sent the entire group of 78 planes away in the air.

Air Defense Intact.

When the attackers came and bombed the emergency fields no planes were there. Several "black" scout planes were lost, but the main air defense is still intact.

The umpires' decisions now give a loss of fifteen planes for the "blacks" and 53 for the "blues." The "blacks" claim to have destroyed 77 "blue" planes. The chief claims of the "blacks" lies in an attack made late yesterday at Hilo, which was taken by the "blues" because it was not defended and is being used by them as an air base.

Take "Blues" by Surprise.

Thirteen attacking planes, each armed with five machine guns and bombs, left here at 1:15 p. m. yesterday and flew to Hilo and back, a distance of 500 miles, under weather conditions in which commercial planes would refuse to fly. The attackers landed safely at their home base at sunset.

When they reached Hilo they found 30 seaplanes in the harbor. They flew low over the "blue" base and sprayed the seaplanes with machine guns and also dropped bombs on them. The umpires gave the "blacks" credit for only six casualties, but the "blacks" claim 30.

Capone Lawyers Stake Hopes on One Law Point in Appeal

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday listened for three hours to arguments on a single technicality in the conviction of Al Capone. Capone was not in court and not once during the arguments was he mentioned by name. Just before the appeal was taken under advisement Judge Evan A. Evans raised a question as to the court's power to grant a reversal, citing a section of the judicial code forbidding new trials on technical grounds.

Capone is in the county jail, awaiting action by the higher courts on his conviction and sentence to eleven years' imprisonment for income tax evasion. Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler, Judge Will M. Sparks, and Judge Evans, who heard the arguments, frequently entered into discussion with counsel, more particularly with Defense Attorneys Michael Ahern and Albert Fink.

Call Indictment Too General.

The sole defense contention was that the indictment against Capone merely stated the offense in the generic terms of the statutes, and did not set forth the particulars necessary for the preparation of a proper defense. Assistant United States Attorney Jacob Grossman argued not only that the indictment was sufficiently particular, but even if it were not, the defense had a remedy in its right to request a bill of particulars, which it forfeited.

"The indictment does not comply with a single fundamental requirement of an indictment," said Attorney Fink. "It charges him with attempts to evade and defeat taxes, but it does not state means by which the alleged offense was committed. It does not identify and distinguish the offense from any other similar offense. Had the defendant been acquitted, he could be tried again on the same charge."

No Surprise to Capone.

"The indictment contains all the ingredients of the offense," replied Mr. Grossman. "The means by which the offense was committed are not matters for an indictment, but for the evidence. An indictment is concerned only with the ultimate fact of an offense. This is not a game. The defendant was not surprised, nor were his rights prejudiced, and that is the only question involved here."

In response to Mr. Grossman's arguments that the defense waived its right for a more specific indictment by not pressing this point on demurrer, Mr. Ahern said the right was a constitutional one and could not be waived. Mr. Grossman retorted that the right of a trial by jury is a constitutional one but still may be waived.

"If the right of a particularized indictment may be waived, then section 269 comes in," said Judge Evans. "That section forbids us from reversing on technical grounds." Section 269 provides that new trials shall be granted only on the record as a whole, without regard to technical errors which do not affect the substantial rights of a defendant.

CONFIRM TARIFF BOARD MEMBER; ROUT RADICALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—For the first time in nearly three years the senate went into secret executive session today over the confirmation of a presidential nomination.

The name under consideration was that of Ira M. Ornburn, Democrat, of Connecticut, for the place on the tariff commission left vacant by the death of Alfred P. Dennis. An attack by Senator George W. Norris, radical Republican of Nebraska, on Mr. Ornburn's fitness for the office precipitated a sharp clash between Senator Norris on the one hand and Senators Bingham [Rep., Conn.] and Moses [Rep., N. H.] on the other.

Charges and counter charges which previously had been made more or less under cover were alluded to by Senator Norris. On his refusal to make the names of Ornburn's accusers public Senator Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority floor leader, called for the secret session.

The outcome, with a vote taken in the open, was a complete rout for the radicals. Mr. Ornburn was confirmed, 70 to 9, on a roll call vote.

Gets Six Months in Jail for Mortgaging Bungalow

Circuit Judge Craig Hood yesterday sentenced Walter Molek, 4738 South Harding avenue, a machinist, to six months in the country jail for contempt of court. Molek, arraigned on an attachment issued a week ago, admitted in court that he had violated the permanent injunction which Judge Hood had granted restraining him from placing a mortgage on the bungalow which he and his divorced wife, Eleanor, owned in joint tenancy.

Advice to the Loveshorn

Feb. 14, when Cupid is all set to shoot a lot of smart new love-darts, is the time to stand up and assert yourself!—says columnist on love problems.

Q.—"The girl I love thinks I am just a 'dumb cluck.' What shall I do?" Misunderstood.

A.—Keep her supplied with Stevens' "Personality" Perfume, and she'll think you are another Clark Gable. Choose from nine different "personality" odors—for blondes, brunettes, redheads and others. Now available in dram bottles, per dram, $1. Another potent love charm is Stevens' "C'est Ca," dram, $1.50.

PERFUMES, FIRST FLOOR

Q.—"How can I increase My S. A.?" Aspiring Annie.

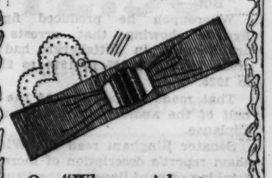
A.—One way is to increase your "sox appeal" by concentrating on lots of Delmar Ingrain Chiffon Hose. They've just arrived in all their spring glory, including several new beiges that are wonders to behold. Pair, $1.65. 3 pairs, $4.70.

HOSIERY, FIRST FLOOR



Q.—"When a girl gets a crush on a young man, how should she show it?" Inexperienced.

A.—She might try wearing a very smart new belt that has just come in, called the "Kid-Krush." This one is a Patou copy—enough of a recommendation. In new colors, $3. Other crushed kid belts, $2 and $2.25.

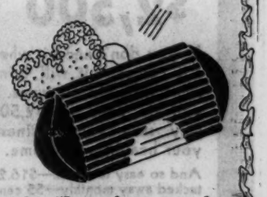
BELTS, FIRST FLOOR

Q.—"What should I give my fiancee, who has the most beautiful neck in all the world?" Perplexed.

A.—Inasmuch as you think so much of her neck, you'd best give her the smartest necklace of the new season. This is of antique carved ivory* and gold beads* (non-tarnishable)—in the new 22-inch length. Exclusive with Stevens, $5. Also in choker length, but don't take that literally.

*Simulated.

JEWELRY, FIRST FLOOR



Q.—"I ought to settle down and marry the girl of my dreams, but I am really just a vagabond at heart. What do you advise?" Wanderlust.

A.—Better give her this terribly smart new Vagabond Pouch and she'll go straight to Vagabondia with you. It comes in Calf or the new Fawn Suede, with modern ornamentation. Several fashionable colors. $8.50.

DRY SENATOR CALLS CAPITAL RUM SANCTUARY

Howell Demands a Law to Search Homes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The District of Columbia is a sanctuary for the storage of liquor, Senator R. B. Howell, radical Republican of Nebraska, declared today in urging passage of his bill to permit search of private dwellings in the district. To the senate District of Columbia committee he asserted that "high class bootleggers" in Washington, "seem to lead a charmed life."

Individuals with diplomatic privileges, he claimed, receive unlawful shipments of hundreds of thousands of quarts of intoxicants, while hotels are "hot beds of liquor violations with never a raid." Young girls could be given liquor without punishment to the giver, because there is no law against furnishing drinks to minors, he stated.

Tydings Opposes Bill.

Senator Tydings, ardent Maryland wet; Rufus Lusk, vice commander of the Crusaders, and Miss Elizabeth Harris of the District council of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, all opposed the Howell bill, which is similar to the one which was sidetracked in the senate last year.

In the senate office building wet cheers and dry cheers rang out in loud conflict as wet inquisitors and dry witnesses tussled over opinions and statistics for and against the Bingham bill to legalize 4 per cent beer.

Lips that never touch liquor opened to yell approbation when Whiting Williams, writer on problems of industry, appeared before the Metcalf subcommittee to assert that prohibition had brought better times to the laboring classes. Particularly, said he, it had brought more clothes to the poor children of Pittsburgh.

When Dry Clamor Subsides.

"The audience enjoyed that good news," remarked Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], author of the bill, when the dry clamor had subsided.

"But——"

Whereupon he produced figures figures showing that arrests for drunkenness in Pittsburgh had increased from 20,567 in 1914 to 28,669 in 1925.

That made it the turn of the wet half of the audience to break out in applause.

Senator Bingham read the Wickersham report's description of increased drinking of hard liquor in the Pennsylvania anthracite region.

"I do not agree with that," remarked Mr. Williams.

Never in Anthracite Regions.

"But have you ever been in the anthracite regions?" inquired Senator Bingham.

"I have not," Mr. Williams admitted.

E. S. Bradford, consulting economist of the City college of New York stepped to the witness chair and announced that the workingman was drinking more milk these days.

"Particularly, in the anthracite regions, I suppose," Senator Bingham interjected.

"I don't know much about the anthracite regions," the witness declared.

"No, neither did Mr. Williams," Senator Bingham remarked.

Eighty-five per cent of the milk consumed in this country is drunk by women and children, Senator Bingham asserted.

How Much Do Calves Drink?

"I think the calves have something to say about that," Economist Bradford retorted sagely.

Mr. Bradford testified to the dwindling brewing industry before the war and the increase in the soft drink and confectionery industries since that time. Modification of the Volstead act, he estimated, would create jobs for less than 100,000 men.

Senator Bingham introduced statistics showing increased arrests for drunkenness in all sections of the country since prohibition. The dry professor disparaged the figures.

"Now you're dodging the question and that is the trouble with you prohibitionists, you're always dodging the question," Senator Bingham said in exasperation.

"And you wets," Mr. Bradford told Senator Bingham, "should open your minds wide and keep them open."

Both wets and drys in the room applauded.

"The standard of enforcement has risen," Mr. Bradford claimed. "When I was a student at Wisconsin the boys would go down Saturday night and get drunk."

"Probably at your college, too," he added.

What Senator Sees at Yale.

"Let me tell you that at Yale," said the senator, "I never saw more than one or two drunken students a year."

There were jeers in the hearing room.

"The record of arrests for drunkenness do not, in the opinion of economists, mean very much," Mr. Bradford said.

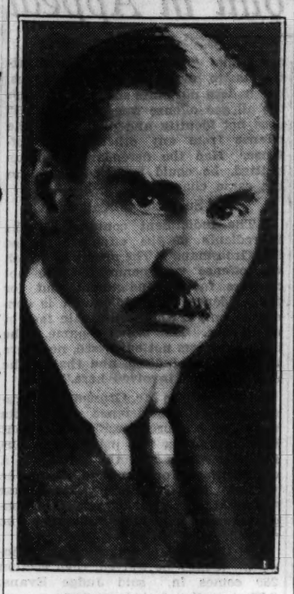
"In other words, you don't like the statistics when they are against you," Senator Bingham replied.

"You're trying to get me as an economist to qualify as an authority on criminal statistics," Mr. Bradford protested.

"Of course, if the economist can't qualify as an authority on statistics, what chance has the poor layman?" Senator Bingham asked.

Gustave Hafer, another New York witness, read a statement to the committee in which he outlined the advantages which would result to the grain industry should modification be effected.

Named Ambassador



JOSEPH C. GREW.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Joseph C. Grew, one of the Harvard group at the state department in the days when they virtually controlled foreign service appointments, was named ambassador to Japan today by President Hoover. He succeeds W. Cameron Forbes, of Boston, who submitted his resignation some weeks ago.

Ambassador Grew was assigned to Turkey as American ambassador in 1927 after he had served as undersecretary of state under Frank B. Kellogg. During the last few years he served as undersecretary of state, Mr. Grew was chairman of the foreign service personnel board.

The new ambassador to Tokio was born in Boston and educated at Harvard. Entering the foreign service in 1904 he served successively at Cairo, Mexico City, Petrograd, Berlin, Vienna, Paris, Denmark, Switzerland, and Turkey. He represented the United States abroad on numerous commissions.

It is expected Mr. Grew will take over the Tokio post within the next few weeks. Mr. Forbes has desired to retire for several months. He will come direct to Washington for conferences prior to returning to his home in Boston.

Alleged Attacker of Girl, 14, Is Placed on Trial

The state is to ask life imprisonment for Clarence Erickson, 31 years old, 1365 North Leavitt street, who was placed on trial yesterday in Judge Rudolph Desort's court on a charge of attacking a 14 year old girl. Assistant State's Attorney Albert Woll is prosecuting the case. The girl's father, who is to be tried on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of his daughter, has jumped his bond, and a search is being made for him.

SURVEY SHOWS MANY VIOLATING PARKING LAWS

Endanger Both Autoists and Pedestrians.

The operator of a vehicle shall not stand or park such vehicle in a roadway other than parallel with the edge of the roadway, headed in the direction of traffic, and with the curb-side wheels of the vehicle within six inches of the edge of the roadway.—CHICAGO TRAFFIC CODE.

BY HAL FOUST.

A cruise through the streets of Chicago yesterday indicated that a conspicuous if not a large portion of the motorists are ignoring the statutes and common courtesy in parking their cars. On the north side, west side, and south side automobiles were parked at illegal angles, parked double, and parked near the middle of the street, blocking travel and endangering pedestrians as well as drivers.

Driving south in Michigan avenue, in the early afternoon, eight taxicabs were seen at the west curb between Monroe and Van Buren streets. Near Harrison street was standing a chauffeur driven limousine with 1932 license 2020. The secretary of state has not as yet published names of the 1932 license holders.

In front of 1220 South Michigan avenue was an automobile with 1931 license 1-260,198, issued to Charles Holland, 620 North Michigan avenue. The front of the car was projecting into the street at a forty-five degree angle from the curb.

Violation of Traffic Code.

In Cottage Grove avenue, near 43d street, a car with 1931 license 1-170,231, issued to R. W. Englart, 7927 Langley avenue, was parked double and facing against traffic. Near 47th tr.et, there were a dozen cars, mostly taxicabs, parked at an angle, which is a violation of the municipal traffic code, according to attorneys for the Chicago Motor club. More angle parking was found in Stony Island avenue just south of Jackson park, forming a bottle neck in this through route.

In the 5200 block of Cornell avenue, a sedan with license 1-187-593, issued to Robert Sherwood, 5241 Cornell avenue, was parked double, notwithstanding the fact that there was plenty of available space at the curb. Twelve taxicabs and two private cars were seen at 2 p. m. beside "no parking" signs under the Illinois Central railroad viaduct in 53d street.

In Lake Park avenue and in 63d street there was general parking opposite street car loading zones, a practice condemned by safety experts as a major hazard to car line patrons.

In Cottage Grove near 63d street were three cars parked double. The 1931 license numbers and the persons to whom they were issued are as follows: 859-075, Maurice N. Freund, 5201 Greenwood avenue; 857-831, Joseph R. Sheffer, 6222 Cottage Grove avenue, and 848-058, John P. Bergstrom, 1843 East 79th street.

On the North Side.

On the north side, conditions were no better. In Surf street, a one way street, a car with 1931 license 368-409, issued to Fanchion E. Long, 420 Surf street, was parked facing traffic. This was at 4:05 p. m. In front of the Park Lane hotel, in Surf street at Sheridan road, was a chauffeur driven limousine, 1932 license 352-863, parked dobule.

In the 4400 block of Broadway, a double parker carried 1931 license 1-277-197, issued to H. C. Schultz, 4611 North Campbell avenue. A little farther north in Broadway, south bound traffic was held to the street car tracks under the elevated structure because of a double lane of loitering taxicabs.

In Sheridan road between Leland and Montrose avenues, where signs read no parking between 4:30 and 7 p. m., these 1931 license numbers were noted on cars standing at the curb between 4:45 and 5 p. m.: 235-499, issued to Helen L. Kasbeer, 813 Forest avenue, Evanston; 736-128 S. N. Amado, 4933 North Avers avenue; 1-155-726, Charles C. Purden, 941 Lafayette Parkway; and 925-270, Dr. Albert C. Barber, 4753 Broadway.

Block Roosevelt Road Traffic.

On the west side, angle parking was blocking traffic in Roosevelt road, between Albany and Crawford avenues, and in Madison street west of Crawford avenue. In the west side car line street, parking opposite street car loading zones was also found to be common practice.

As hazardous were the parking conditions noted on the west side boulevards during the evening rush hour, after dark. The curbs are posted with notices that parking is prohibited from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m. In the 1800 block of Washington boulevard at 5:30 p. m. the following 1931 licenses were noted on unlighted cars standing at the curb: 1-215-449, issued to William Clemens, 435 South Oakley boulevard; 660-666, Jack Weiner, 1812 Washington boulevard; 1-120-056, Irving Katzewitz, 1515 South Avers avenue, and 589-221, B. T. Foster, 3233 Maypole avenue.

In Jackson boulevard, there were also unlighted parked cars, although not as many as in Washington boulevard. These 1931 licenses were noted in the 2000, 2100 and 2200 blocks: 1-247-898, issued to Clarence Crosby, 2211 Jackson boulevard; 1-341-796, Frank Piner, 7352 West Grand avenue, Elmwood Park, and 1-263-866, Irene C. Battaglia, 3111 Franklin boulevard.

THIS BUSINESS IS A HEADACHE TO PROSECUTORS

They Try to Trace Deals of 7 Who Swap Things.

Prosecutors and investigators of the state's attorney's staff were afflicted with headaches last evening, they said, as they concluded the first day of efforts to unravel the trading activities of seven men who had been arrested as a "big real estate forgery ring." The inquiry started when Bohimul Jirmasek, 3401 South Oakley avenue, a furrier, and others complained that they were holding deeds to property which never existed.

Harry McGregor, 7020 Eggleston avenue, who has desk room at 35 South Dearborn street, was pictured as the leader of the gang. It was reported that he made a trip to Chicago every week from Kansas City, Mo., with a large bag of fake bonds and mortgages. When he was taken to the state's attorney's office it was found that he was a man of 31 years who could hardly remember what happened the day before. He had a little black bag.

Mr. McGregor Explains.

Assistant State's Attorneys Jo Calvin Webb and Henry Samuels questioned McGregor while Investigator Barney Dworsky looked through the bag. Dworsky found a miscellaneous collection of medals, coins, gold mine stocks and bonds, and deeds to real estate all over the country. McGregor was asked to explain.

"I am an old man and my memory is not so good," he said. "Maybe I traded some lots in California for that stock, and I believe I gave a farm in Indiana for one in Tennessee. Maybe those bonds were what I was given for that Cicero property."

The investigators came to the conclusion that McGregor and some of the other prisoners traded anything for anything and sometimes they came out ahead and sometimes they did not.

Jirmasek Does Some Trading.

Jirmasek, whose complaint started the investigation, traded three fur coats, a collection of old coins, seven mounted elk heads, an antique clock, some mounted butterflies, a group of oil paintings, some bear rugs and a few other things for property which he now declares does not exist but was supposed to be somewhere in Missouri.

The investigators found that the swap was made through a real estate concern, which dealt through other traders, and at the end of the chain was found the U. S. Realty company, owned by Andrew B. Scowley and his son, Andrew A. Scowley, at 10 North Clark street. The Scowleys have already been indicted.

When the prosecutors recover from their headaches and unravel some of McGregor's dealings they will decide what to do with the prisoners, and at the same time determine who was the winner in the long run.

Those under arrest beside McGregor and the Scowleys are John R. Stephens of Milwaukee, Thomas Powers of 2607 South Union avenue, and members of the real estate concern who dealt with Jirmasek but whose names are being withheld pending the outcome of the inquiry.

SCHOOL AVERAGE IS $6,868 A YEAR FOR CUSTODIANS

Records Show Overtime Boosts Salaries.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Chicago has at least 30 engineer-custodians in the public schools whose income from the board of education averaged $6,868.75 last year. The straight salary of 29 of these is $5,640 a year. The salary of the thirtieth is only $5,340, but his total income from the board was the largest of the thirty.

The high man is Michael P. Sullivan, engineer-custodian of the Wendell Phillips High school. The board paid a total of $8,847 last year, $5,340 salary for his regular time, $2,607 in overtime and $900 for operating the school during evening classes.

$8,202 at Schurz High.

The engineer-custodian of the Schurz High school ranked second in payments recived from the board of education. During 1931 three men at various times held the position, Patrick Winn, H. Peck, and Nicholas Lies. The three received an aggregate of $8,202.83 from the position of engineer-custodian.

Frank McAdams, engineer-custodian of Englewood High, received $7,916.25, according to the school board books. The fourth man is Arthur McCracken of the Tilden High school, who received $7,896. F. O. Anderson of Crane High received $7,822.50. The sixth highest man is Joseph H. Tully of the Austin High school, who was paid $7,653.75.

This is the first time data of this character has been compiled and it required five days to get it collected and correlated. The citizens' tax warrant sales committee headed by D. F. Kelly, has criticized the pay of these engineer-custodians. In his original statement to the board, urging economies, Mr. Kelly passed on the information given him in this form:

"Practically no prerequisite qualifications are necessary to take the examination for engineer-custodian."

The representatives of the engineers' union, however, have repeatedly represented to the board that they hold responsible positions.

Kelly May Reply Today.

Mr. Kelly did not reply yesterday to the school board's letter rejecting most of the committee's suggestions for economies. He said he hoped to have the reply ready today. It is said the school board is disposed to adopt the budget in its present form at its meeting today, but Mr. Kelly said the trustees would be asked to defer action to give time for the consideration of further economies.

As it now stands, the 1932 budget calls for the expenditure of $90,045,140. Mr. Kelly in his first letter to the board suggested that $1,000,000 or more be trimmed from the cost of operating the public schools. The compensation paid engineer-custodians is part of that cost. In one of his summarizing statements Mr. Kelly said: "The janitors and engineers employed in heating, cleaning, dusting and sweeping Chicago's school buildings are better paid than the teachers and principals."

A Table of Earnings.

U. S. TAX BILL MUST RAISE $1,241,000,000 TO BALANCE BUDGET

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—On the basis of revised estimates by the treasury department the new tax bill now under consideration by the house ways and means committee must raise a total of $1,241,000,000 in additional revenue if the budget is to be balanced by the end of the fiscal year 1933.

This was disclosed today by Representative Crisp [Dem., Ga.], acting committee chairman, following the receipt of new estimates from Acting Secretary of the Treasury Mills. The treasury tables show that instead of bringing in 920 million dollars in new revenues as figured in November, the treasury program for tax increases probably would not bring in more than 786 million.

Furthermore, due to the same general shrinkage in sources of federal income, it was found that 321 million in addition to the 920 million already figured on, must be raised to balance the budget in 1933, exclusive of the debt funding requirements.

As a result the committee expects to find it necessary to broaden the tax base to a far greater degree than had heretofore been contemplated. The imposition of a general sales tax of some sort is considered well within the realm of possibilities.

The estimates of the treasury, as presented today to the ways and means committee, had been reduced drastically all along the line. The November estimates for the income from the customs and internal revenue for the current fiscal year were reduced from a total of $2,094,000,000 to $1,977,000,000. The estimated total from the same tax sources for the fiscal year of 1933 was changed from $2,168,000,000 to $1,847,000,000, or a reduction of 321 million.

It was on the basis of these estimates that the treasury reduced the prospective total to be derived from the proposed new taxes from 920 millions to 786 million dollars, or a difference of 134 million dollars.

POLICEMAN, HID IN STORE, KILLS ARMED ROBBER

His Pal Escapes After Terrorizing Women.

Policeman Philip Igoe, a world war veteran and former crack shot in the marine corps, was standing guard in a National Tea store at 2458 West 69th street last evening when two robbers entered. The policeman fired once, killing one robber. The other escaped.

The dead man was identified through finger prints as Charles Eakins, 31 years old, whose last known home was at 6117 Kenwood avenue, with a police record for larceny and rape. His companion's identity was not learned.

Store Robbed Six Times.

Igoe reported for duty at the store at 4:15 p. m. under instructions from Capt. Thomas Kilroy of the Chicago Lawn district to stand guard until the place closed at 6 o'clock. The store had been held up six times in the past two years. The last time was a month ago.

At 5:45 p. m. the robbers entered, both drawing pistols as they crossed the threshold. One took command of the front of the store, waving to the wall the manager, Miss Ann Skuzinski, 25 years old, 4601 South Mozart street, and her assistant, Miss Elizabeth Pocius, 23 years old, 6810 South Rockwell street. No customers were in the place.

Policeman Opens Fire.

The second strode towards the cash register in the rear, barking an order for the girls to "keep 'em hoisted." As he reached for the till Policeman Igoe stepped from his hiding place in the rear and fired, the bullet penetrating the robber's chest.

Both gunmen fled, the first escaping down an alley while Eakins collapsed on the sidewalk. He died as he was being lifted into an ambulance and his body was taken to the county morgue.

Four other National Tea stores were held up last night. In the holdup of the store at 5101 Diversey avenue, George Brown, street car conductor of 5040 Diversey avenue, lost his semi-monthly wages of $80.

Work Is Stopped

D. F. Kelly, chairman of the citizens' committee which is trying to sell tax warrants of the city and school board to large taxpayers, agreed yesterday at a conference with trustees of the sanitary district to include the district warrants in the sales campaign.

President T. J. Bowler of the sanitary district headed the group of trustees who presented a picture of the district's plight to Mr. Kelly. Some employés of the district have not been paid since Nov. 15, some 200 of them have been discharged, all construction work has been suspended, and the district has defaulted on bond and interest payments, he was told.

"The closing of the schools and the police and fire departments," President Bowler asserted, "would not be so serious as the shutdown of the sanitary district. If the district were to shut down for any reason, the streets would be flooded and disease of all kinds would spread through the city within three days."

Kelly to Speak Tomorrow on City's Financial Ills

D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store, will speak tomorrow at the weekly Chicago assembly luncheon in the Hamilton club on "The Cause, Effect and Remedy of Chicago's Financial Difficulties." Mr. Kelly is chairman of the citizens' committee engaged in the sale of tax anticipation warrants to large taxpayers, and also heads another committee which is urging budgetary economies on the local governments of Chicago and Cook county.

Knife Blade Removed from Brain, Patient Is Cured

Linus Larson, 59 years old, 10112 Avenue M, who lived for thirty years with a knife blade two and a half inches long in his brain, left the Illinois Research hospital yesterday. The knife was removed a little more than two weeks ago by an operation performed by Dr. Eric Oldberg. According to the physician, attacks of epilepsy, from which Larson suffered, have ceased since the removal of the knife, which was broken off in his head during a fight.

COUNTY BOARD FIXES BUDGET AT $42,157,743

Expect Majority to Vote Approval Today.

A tentative budget totaling $42,157,743 was drawn up last night by the county board and will be voted upon today. The budget last year totaled $40,493,301. Several commissioners have indicated they will vote against the budget today, but the majority will vote for it in its present form, according to indications.

The apparent increase of $1,664,422 over last year's budget is more than balanced by increased expenses which must be met by the county this year, the proponents of the proposed budget say. Elections this year will cost the county approximately $1,800,000 and last year's deficit of $975,000 must also be met. The present budget therefore represents an actual decrease of $1,110,558 in comparison with the 1931 figure, say the budget makers. Most of this saving was effected in slashing the wages of county employés.

A table showing the items which make up the budget and a comparison of the 1931 and 1932 figures follows:

	1931.	1932.
Corporate fund	$20,046,733	$21,495,052
Highways	13,560,521	12,845,835
Bond and interest fund	3,855,565	4,786,375
Trust fund	2,350,481	2,350,481
Employes' annuity fund	600,000	600,000
Totals	$40,493,301	$42,157,743

Commissioners Amelia Sears, Frank J. Kasper and Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb have voiced opposition to the 1932 budget. Miss Sears declared that 389 jobholders should be discharged inasmuch as a survey had showed they were unnecessary to the efficiency of the county's work. Kasper and Mrs. Plumb were opposed to wage reductions for employés getting less than $150 a month.

The budget must be adopted today, however, because the law requires that 100 copies of it be printed and distributed for public scrutiny by Feb. 12. The public is invited to make complaints and offer criticism during a ten day period. The budget may then be revised and must be passed in final form by the last day of February.

Unions Balk at 5 Days' Pay.

Labor leaders visited the commissioners at an afternoon session and gave notice that union men would not work six days a week for five days' pay. This plan has been adopted by the commissioners as the best means of cutting employés' salaries.

More than 1,000 union workers are employed by the county. The other 3,800 county employés, who are not organized, will bear the brunt of the economy move if the unionists make good on their threat. The union men, according to their representatives, will work only five days a week if the pay cut is ordered.

"The unions are unanimous in their refusal to work six days for five days' pay," said James W. Close, president of the Sheet Metal Workers' union. Other speakers declared that the union men considered the county no different from a private contractor and pointed out that the proposed plan would not be accepted by union men working for a private contractor.

When Golfer Turns Fisher a Wondrous Tale Unfolds

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—A golfer topped his drive into the tidal creek at the 15th hole at the Clearwater Country club today and was startled by the terrific splashing that followed. Grabbing the steel flagpole out of the nearby 16th hole, he speared a 63 inch tarpon, stranded after an abnormally high tide.

JACOBS PONDERS OFFER OF JOB AS ASSESSOR

J. L. Jacobs, efficiency engineer for the city and county, agreed yesterday to reconsider the offer of an appointment to be assessor of Cook county after he had declined the offer earlier in the day. President Emmet Whealan of the county board, who, with Gov. Emmerson, will name the new assessor, under the provisions of the Kelly act, declined to accept Jacobs' first refusal to take the job.

"I'll think it over," Jacobs promised President Whealan. "In view of the financial crisis of the city and county, it seems necessary that some one make a personal sacrifice to take the job. The assessors' office and assessment system is in bad shape now. There are various problems and difficulties there in which I have been interested in the past."

Jacobs' reluctance to accept the appointment, his friends say, is because it will probably entail his dropping the management of his efficiency engineering company which he has built up over a period of twenty years.

ILLINOIS C. OF C. FIGHTS FEDERAL RELIEF FOR POOR

The Illinois chamber of commerce yesterday sent an urgent protest against proposed federal poor relief, which it called "an indorsement of the dole system," to the state's senators in Washington. The protest was voiced by C. G. Ferris, executive vice president of the association.

The protest said in part: "In our judgment the states and local communities are able, even under these trying conditions, to largely handle their own problems. The Illinois legislature has just passed legislation making $20,000,000 available for poor relief.

"While in principle we are opposed to government, either state or national, launching a policy which is in effect an indorsement of the dole system, we realize that in emergencies the states may be warranted in coming to the rescue temporarily. However, if federal legislation is passed the gates will be let down and there will be no end to the demand. We cannot let people starve to death but let's keep the federal government out of it."

ASSEMBLY NEAR A RECESS UNTIL AFTER PRIMARY

Program Endangered by Doldrums.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Conferences between Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, Senator Richard J. Barr, President Pro tempore, Speaker David E. Shanahan, Representative Roger F. Little, majority floor leader, and Representative Homer J. Tice, another administration wheel horse led to unanimous predictions tonight that within 24 hours the special sessions of the 57th Illinois general assembly—all three of them will recess until April 19.

In other words, the big Republicans of the state organization, determined today that if they attempt to keep the more than 200 members of the two chambers here until the remaining purposes of these extraordinary meetings are accomplished they will fail completely, attendance will dwindle away, the net results will be nil and they will be condemned.

Both Houses Mark Time.

Both houses today quit only until tomorrow but the opinion heard in the hotel lobbies without exception is that tomorrow there must be a recess until after the primaries of April 12.

The necessity for this shift became obvious to the leaders of the assembly and the governor, it is said, when the ship of state came into a dead calm early in the day. It was expected that the sponsors of the doctrine that the 1930 Cook county tax levy should be funded would have a definite plan to present today. They said they were not ready.

The senate, as it does frequently, marked time, waiting for the house. And the house found itself confronted with the necessity of doing something with the retrenchment program about which there has been so much conversation.

It advanced a number of bills to third reading, where they may have to be voted on tomorrow. But even in what was expected to be the perfunctory work of advancing the measures from second reading, there was sufficient opposition in sight to lead gallery observers to say that when the about to die whose salaries are threatened get busy, the pruning shears will not be used except cautiously.

Lose First Two Proposals.

This conclusion was based on the fact that the retrenchers lost their first two battles. An effort to cut from $12,000 to $10,000 the salary of the governor—and it would not be effective until Gov. Emmerson's successor is installed—was defeated, 32 to 50. And a bill to abolish the jobs of county superintendent of highways—transferring the duties to the county boards—was laid to rest when its enacting clause was stricken out by a vote of 72 to 17.

5 TO 10 PER CENT CUTS ORDERED IN ELGIN SALARIES

Reductions ranging from 5 to 10 per cent in the salaries of all Elgin city officials and employés will become effective for one year beginning March 1. This was announced yesterday by Mayor Myron M. Lehman.

Employes receiving $1,500 or less annually will be cut 5 per cent; salaries of $1,500 to $2,000 will be cut 7½ per cent; and salaries of more than $2,000 will be cut 10 per cent. Mayor Lehman said that a deficit in the city's finances and a reduced budget for the current year were reasons for the action.

Under the reduction plan, the mayor's salary will be reduced from $3,500 to $3,150, while the salaries of four commissioners will be cut from $3,000 to $2,700. Policemen and firemen will receive $138.75 a month instead of $150.

COMPANY TO BUY $1,000,000 POOR RELIEF NOTES

Advance Bids Made; Drive On Today.

With the drive to sell $18,500,000 of state tax anticipation warrants for use by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission as authorized by the legislature not scheduled to open until 1 o'clock this afternoon, advance applications received yesterday indicated that the campaign to sell the warrants will be a success.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company of New York yesterday requested $1,000,000 worth of the securities. The amount of only one other advance application was disclosed by Frank M. Gordon and Frank McNair, bankers in charge of the drive. That was Mayor Cermak's application for $5,000 worth of warrants. However, there were other requests, the amounts of which were not revealed.

A Chance for Investors.

"We are greatly elated with the order from the Metropolitan company," Mr. Gordon said. "Insurance companies are careful investors and this order shows what they think of this security. This drive will not be an appeal—it is an opportunity. Any person with hoarded money cannot dare to disregard this chance to purchase tax exempt securities, paying 6 per cent, and with the entire resources of their state and community behind them. This is the first time in this generation that the state of Illinois has offered a 6 per cent security as an investment opportunity to its citizens."

Following two luncheons of business and industrial leaders and of bankers and bond house representatives at noon today the drive will open and the warrants will be offered to the public. Almost a thousand volunteer salesmen will present the warrants. No salesmen will receive commissions on their sales, not a single bond house will profit by the issue and not a cent will be paid for printing or handling the securities, according to Mr. Gordon. Every penny will go to poor relief.

Under the general direction of James E. McKeown of the Joint Emergency Relief fund, twenty men, chairmen of the special gifts group of the drive completed last fall by the Joint Emergency Relief fund and 25 trades and industries groups of the same drive, will start the campaign. They will be aided by many stock and bond salesmen.

Approved by State Officials.

The sales campaign was approved yesterday by State Treasurer Edward Barrett and State Auditor Oscar Nelson at a meeting with Mr. Gordon and Mr. McNair in the First National bank. Gov. Emmerson has also approved the sales method.

Mr. Gordon and Mr. McNair emphasized that, despite th expected rush of investors, all applicants would be able to obtain part of the issue.

"There will not be a priority of application," Mr. Gordon said. "If we receive a 200 per cent application every applicant will be given 50 per cent of the amount he has asked for. We desire to state specifically that this is an opportunity for the small investor."

The warrants will be issued in denominations of $50,000, $25,000, $10,000, $5,000, $1,000, $500, and $100. The plan is to retire them this fall by a bond issue. December 1 is the date for the first redemption of the warrants, after 15 days' public notice, at par and accrued interest under this plan. To make the warrants safe as investments, the law provides that if the bond issue is not approved by the electorate the warrants are to be redeemed by a special tax to be levied for 1932.

In the applications to be given out this afternoon the applicant must signify one of five banks through which the securities will be transmitted. They are Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, First National bank, Central Republic Bank and Trust company, Harris Trust and Savings bank, and the Northern Trust company.

The applicant must signify the amount and denomination of the warrants he wants and accompany the application with 10 per cent of the amount represented. The balance will be due on Feb. 25. The right is reserved to allot a smaller amount of notes on any subscription than the amount applied for.

SIX LEGISLATORS DENY SANITARY PAY ROLL STORY

Protest Before Assembly It's Not True.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Publication in Sunday's TRIBUNE of a list of legislators reputedly connected with the "come-and-get-it" days of the Chicago sanitary district—names furnished the state's attorney from various sources—stirred a hornet's nest in the house of representatives today.

TRUMAN A. SNELL.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The air was thick with denials as half a dozen members rose, on points of personal privilege, to say that they had never been on the pay roll during the district's halcyon days, nor had they sponsored any employés.

One Democrat, Charles Franz of Freeport, said he didn't even have any appointees on the state pay roll, to say nothing of the Chicago taxing bodies.

Snell Starts Complaints.

Truman A. Snell, Carlinville Democrat, who filed for the nomination for attorney general last Saturday, started the complaints with the longest and most fervid of the speeches given.

"It's outright perjury if they connect me with that sanitary district," he shouted. "I had no connection with it. I never sponsored a soul on its pay roll. Years ago I aided in chasing the then insidious lobby of the district from the floor of this house and I have been persona non grata ever since.

"They say my name is on that list. If the political polecat who put it there is the same one I think he is, I'll settle my issues with him. It's criminal for newspapers to broadcast prejudicial and damaging information such as that, right after I had filed for attorney general. When a newspaper is guilty of conduct like that I can't but believe the hand of a political assassin is evident.

"I don't think it was fair and decent," Snell concluded, "and I think other members should join with me."

Lays Blame on Newspaper.

Other members did. Charles M. Turner [Rep., Wenona] seconded everything that Snell had said, he declared, and denied that he had sponsored any one for jobs on the district pay roll. He has been called "a liar and a blackmailer" by THE TRIBUNE, said Mr. Turner, and he charged that the attempt now is to blackmail him.

Mr. Franz wanted a retraction published because "I was never in any way connected with the district; I had no pay rollers there; I have none in the state departments."

John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago] told the house he had not been a jobholder with the district, as the state's attorney's list stated. He had told this to both the legislative committee which investigated the district, and the grand jury, he declared.

Emmett McGrath [Dem., Brookfield] followed McSweeney and said he had not sponsored a man credited to his influence in the records. Elbert Waller [Rep., Tamaroa] closed the incident. He never had had anything to do "with the bloomin' thing," as he called the district.

Although the action may have had no connection with the speeches, the house committee on fees and salaries this afternoon reported out Representative Ralph Church's bill reducing the size of the sanitary board and the salaries of its members. Church, Evanston Republican, proposed cutting the number of trustees from nine to three and slicing their salaries from $7,500 to $6,000.

The committee sent the bill to the house floor without recommendation, and a fight upon it is expected.

REALTY BOARD HEAD URGES OPPOSITION TO THE BARBOUR TAX BILL

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Telegrams to all state senators were sent tonight by J. Soule Warterfield, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, asking them not to vote for the Barbour bill which would permit the collection of taxes "without a legal assessment roll."

The board feels, Warterfield wrote, that if this bill becomes a law taxpayers will be confronted with the possibility of the sale of their properties for failure to pay the taxes levied by an illegal or fraudulent roll which might omit personal property or violate the rule of uniformity, now a constitutional requirement.

When Senator James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston] introduced the bill, which will be on third reading tomorrow, he said it provided that in case an assessment was found to have omitted taxable property, either real or personal, the roll itself would not be delayed, but provisions would be made for its inclusion and a subsequent refund to taxpayers.

WISCONSIN ONLY STATE TO ASK FEDERAL DOLE

ter, and clothing to patriotic, loyal citizens who are suffering from unemployment."

In the original draft of the memorial there then followed this sentence:

"Labor is opposed to the dole for capital or labor." This sentence was stricken from the final draft.

"We do not consider the appropriation of federal relief to supply food, clothing, and shelter in this great emergency to millions of starving men, women, and children as a dole," the petition added.

Labor Presents Its Program.

William Green, president of the Federation of Labor, marched to the White House and capitol at the head of 100 union leaders to present the memorial, which incorporated the following program for unemployment relief:

1. The immediate establishment of the five day work week in both private and public industry.

2. A cessation of the wage cutting policy which was relentlessly pursued during the year 1931 and which has resulted in a destruction of mass buying power and the creation of fear and distrust in the minds of millions of working men and women. The soundness of this position is quickly recognized when we consider the fact that the wage losses of wage earners, with a corresponding reduction in buying power, amounted to 11 billion dollars for the year 1931 as compared with the year 1929.

Urged to Create Work.

3. To create work opportunities by every business executive employing at least one more employé and by industrial enterprises adding to their working force in proportion to the number now employed. Every professional person and heads of households extending employment or part time employment to as many people as possible. Every community to undertake to develop and carry on additional work.

4. All efforts possible be made to keep boys and girls in school and that local post-graduate opportunities be provided for those finishing school.

Debate on the relief bills pending in the senate continued today with Senators Walsh [Dem., Mont.] and Bulkley [Dem., O.] defending the 750 million dollar federal aid loan measure which the Democratic leadership has proposed as a substitute for the 375 million dollar Costigan-La Follette measure with its proposed grant of direct relief.

COFFEE
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Because of Hills Bros' patented Controlled Roasting process, the exquisite flavor never varies

Roasted evenly, continuously, "a little at a time," instead of in bulk

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . .

a little at a time

. . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . "a little at a time."

You'll be perfectly pleased with some coffees week after week. Then a pound gives you a sad surprise. The flavor is a disappointment . . . different from what you have had. The coffee was probably roasted in bulk and was under-roasted or over-roasted.

Naturally, batches of several hundred pounds make it difficult to always roast every berry alike. And every variation in roast results in flavor-variation. That's why Hills Bros. use their patented Controlled Roasting process!

Instead of roasting in bulk, Hills Bros. roast a little at a time . . . as the coffee flows evenly, continuously through the roasters. Small amounts, automatically controlled, assure an ideal roast for every single berry. Hills Bros. Coffee is totally free from variation! It is always done to the one perfect degree that develops the most delicious flavor.

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

There isn't any question about Hills Bros. being the world's finest coffee . . . exquisitely blended and perfectly roasted. A cupful will convince you! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

FORMER ADMIRER TURNS AGAINST MRS. SIMMONS

His Deposition Is Read in Separation Hearing.

Testimony of an old admirer was introduced by deposition yesterday against Mrs. Mary de Diemar Wright Simmons, 54 years old, in her proceedings against her 73 year old husband, Parke E. Simmons, wealthy retired lawyer of Evanston.

Mrs. Simmons is seeking temporary alimony from her husband pending adjudication of her suit for separate maintenance. The hearing, held in the chambers of Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, was continued until Saturday when final arguments will be given. At the same time arguments on an amended bill for annulment, filed by Simmons after his first bill was dismissed by Judge Trude, will be heard. Simmons alleged in his first bill that his wife had entrapped him into marriage by pretending she was to become a mother.

Deposition from Kenosha Man.

The deposition offered in evidence yesterday by John Zane, attorney for Simmons, was taken from Bernard W. Eichelman, 72 years old, of Kenosha, Wis. It told of Eichelman's acquaintance with Mrs. Simmons when she was a child living with her father, a lighthouse keeper, in his home on an island near Kenosha.

After Eichelman returned from his post as American consul in Chile during the Chicago World's Fair of 1893, the deposition said, he resumed his acquaintance with Mary de Diemar after meeting her on Main street in Kenosha.

Eichelman, who was a friend of her father, related how in 1900 they began a series of trips to Chicago, lasting over a period of about five years, when they stopped in the Lexington hotel, having adjoining rooms.

Tells of Talk About Baby.

In 1903 in the hotel, the deposition declared, Miss de Diemar told Eichelman she had become the mother of a baby and that he was the father. "I turned it off as a joke because I knew it wasn't so," he said, according to the deposition. "She told me the first time I was with her that she had undergone an operation and couldn't have a child."

Questioned by Attorney Zane, who took the deposition, Eichelman said that he and Miss De Diemar often talked of marriage, but that he "never promised outright to marry her" and that "she didn't try to force me to marry her, ever."

Under cross-examination by Samuel Lawton, Mrs. Simmons' attorney, Eichelman was asked if he had tried to conceal the alleged trips to Chicago.

"Well, I didn't brag about it," was his reply, according to the deposition.

Mrs. Simmons earlier in the hearing had testified she had known Eichelman only slightly as the friend of her father.

Mrs. Simmons Faints.

During the testimony of Mrs. Elsie Drake, 2641 Estes avenue, a sister of Mrs. Simmons, whom Attorney Lawton examined as a rebuttal witness, Mrs. Simmons fainted. Mrs. Drake was testifying concerning the death of their mother.

Mrs. Drake also testified that Mrs. Simmons had suffered a fall on Christmas eve, 1930, in support of Mrs. Simmons' contention that an accident immediately before her marriage to Simmons had prevented her from becoming a mother.

Benjamin M. de Diemar, 55 years old of Kenosha, a cousin of Mrs. Simmons, testified in her behalf that her father and mother were "not strict" with her and her brothers and sisters, never allowing them to go out at night or to go to dances unaccompanied by their parents or aunt and uncle.

Denies Story of Simmons' Kin.

Mrs. Simmons took the stand in the afternoon and denied testimony given in the morning by Carl Peterson, 144 Maple avenue, Wilmette, husband of Lucille Peterson, a niece of Simmons. Peterson had said that in 1927, when Mrs. Simmons, then Mrs. Wright, a widow, visited the Petersons in Wilmette she said:

"It is just too bad that Mary Lou and Jerry [the Peterson children] can't have music lessons. Your uncle, Mr. Simmons, has lots of money. Never mind, if I can't marry him any other way, I'll get him to compromise me. Then I'll take care of you folks."

On cross-examination Peterson admitted he did not take her remark seriously, "because I didn't think her capable of it."

A POSTAL CARD TELLS WHERE TO FIND SLAIN GIRL

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—An ordinary postal card, addressed to the janitress of a tenement in East 112th street, and apprising her that if she looked in a vacant apartment on the top floor she would find something of interest, led tonight to the discovery of the body of a 13 year old girl who had been raped and murdered.

The card never reached its destination. A postal clerk, into whose hands it came, got suspicious and turned it over to his superiors. They called in the police. Detectives were sent to investigate. They found the janitress and searched two empty apartments on the top floor.

In a bathtub half full of water in one of the apartments, they discovered the body of Maria Rosales. Her skull had been fractured, her face lacerated, and much of her clothing torn from her body.

Ernesto Fernandez, janitor of a tenement in East 111th street, and his wife, with whom the girl lived, said she was their niece and that her father is working in Detroit. They last saw her, they said, after her return from school last Monday afternoon.

The girl is the second slain under similar circumstances in a week. Florence McDonnell, 5, of Brooklyn, was found strangled to death in a store basement. An Indian-Negro was was arrested.

TWO CHICAGOANS WITHDRAW FROM ATTORNEYS' ROLL

Attorneys Harry J. McCormick and Julius Rieger of Chicago yesterday petitioned the Illinois Supreme court to remove their names from the state roll of attorneys. The action followed complaints by the Chicago Bar association.

Charges against Attorney McCormick were started a year ago. He is alleged to have made collections for his clients and kept the money, according to John L. Fogle, attorney for the Chicago Bar association. Attorney McCormick was found guilty of the charges before a master in chancery.

Disbarment proceedings against Attorney Rieger were begun soon after his conviction of conspiracy to conceal assets in bankruptcy nearly a year ago before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Rieger was found guilty with several other defendants of juggling assets of the Chicago Beaux Arts Gift Shops, Inc. Since Rieger has asked that his name be removed from the roll of attorneys it will not be necessary to carry on the disbarment proceedings, Attorney Fogle said.

INDIAN REGAINS FORTUNE HE GAVE AWAY IN 1922

80 Year Old Warrior Wins $696,050.

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Jackson Barnett, 80 year old, full blooded Creek Indian, can now spend his remaining years in peace and security in his Oklahoma home with the successful completion today of a legal battle in which the old warrior for nearly ten years had sought to regain possession of more than half a million dollars which he was induced to give away in 1922.

JACKSON BARNETT. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

Judge Alfred C. Coxe has affixed his signature to a final decree directing the Chase National bank, as the successor to the Equitable Trust company, to pay over to the secretary of the interior, through United States Attorney George Z. Medalie, the sum of $696,050, which Barnett calls his "eatin' money."

Once a Millionaire.

The loser is the American Baptist Home Mission society with headquarters in New York City. The story of the circumstances under which the society came into possession of the money is one which was first made public in 1927, during the trial of Barnett's action before Judge John C. Knox and which led the court to declare that Barnett was "the shuttledore in a game of battlecock, in which the stakes were high."

Barnett, who had been declared mentally incompetent by the courts, became wealthy through the discovery of oil on the 160 acres of land allotted to him in the general division of tribal lands. His wealth, which originally aggregated $1,100,000, attracted the attention of numerous persons

One of these, described as an adventuress, induced the Indian to run away with her to Kansas, where she married him. She openly boasted while he was taking an airing in his expensive automobile that he was also going to be aired out of some of his money.

Gave Half to Wife.

In December, 1922, he was persuaded to put his thumb mark on a document whereby he gave away his entire estate of $1,100,000 invested in Liberty bonds and in the keeping of Secretary of the Interior Fall. Half of this amount, $550,000, was given to his wife, and is now in litigation in the courts of the District of Columbia.

The other half was given to the Baptist Home Mission society, which placed it in trust with the Equitable Trust company. The gifts were consummated in February, 1923, with the approval of the interior secretary. In 1925 Barnett, somewhat disillusioned, instituted suit through a friend to recover his money. The government intervened on behalf of the Indian and after the trial Judge Knox set the transfer aside. The decision was affirmed on appeal and today the money is being returned to the secretary of the interior to be held for Barnett as a ward of the government.

SLAIN GIRL

2 GIRLS VANISH AS POLICE HUNT SLAYER OF THIRD

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—While police pushed their man hunt for the slayer of 7 year old Dorothy Lutz, two additional children were reported missing today from the neighborhood in which Dorothy was slain and assaulted. They are Sophie Horeski, 12, and her younger sister, Alice, 7.

Dressed in their Sunday best, they were sent away from their home scarcely three blocks from Dorothy's home upon a visit to relatives in New Jersey at noon Saturday. They never arrived at the home of the relatives. They have not been seen since.

Demands that police search for them was made tonight by their mother, Anna, almost at the same moment in which police investigators clutched at their first tangible clew in the slaying of Dorothy and searched for a man with a mole on his face.

That search for him was undertaken at the close of a day in which sixteen persons, eight of them Negroes, were questioned by police in an effort to trace the movements of Dorothy upon the day she disappeared.

With the inception of the search, the police were working on a theory that possibly two men played parts in the slaying and assault of the 7 year old child. One of these, it was believed, may have been the man with the mole.

PILOTS BATTLE COMPANY IN 1ST AIR WAGE WAR

22 Dismissed Flyers Map "Strike" Program.

Twenty-two aviators, discharged by the Century Air lines in the first organized labor dispute on record in American aviation, mapped a "strike" program last night at a meeting in their headquarters at the Troy-Lane hotel, 6314 South Troy street.

Meanwhile armed guards patrolled the Century hangars at the Chicago airport, 63d street and Cicero avenue. Flights on two of the three Century routes in this region—Chicago to Detroit and Chicago to Cleveland—were discontinued for lack of pilots, but the company engaged two flyers to man planes on the Chicago-St. Louis route.

E. L. CORD. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Pilots' Program Announced.

The discharged flyers are all members of the Air Line Pilots' association, which was organized five months ago and is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Last night's meeting was called by David Behncke, pilot for United Air lines and president of the association. Behncke announced the following program:

1. Strike benefits to be paid the discharged men for the duration of the dispute or until they find other jobs, the benefits to be met by assessments on the other 475 members.
2. Black listing by the association of any pilot who signs up for service with Century Air Lines until the dispute is settled.
3. "Peaceful picketing" of Century planes to attempt to dissuade passengers or pilots from entering these planes.

Company Cuts Basic Scale.

When Century Air lines began operations last March pilots were guaranteed a minimum of $350 a month. Three weeks ago E. L. Cord, president of the Cord corporation, of which Century is a subsidiary, notified the pilots that the company could not continue to maintain the basic scale and, at the same time, continue operation of the lines.

The company proposed a minimum guarantee of $150 a month but agreed to maintain the hourly rate of pay, which had been fixed at $3 an hour for daylight flights and $5 an hour for night flights. The pilots replied with a rejection of the lower minimum rate and a demand that the association be granted the right to pass on the qualifications of all pilots in Century's employ.

Mr. Behncke informed the department of commerce of the dispute and a federal conciliator, Benjamin Marshman, was sent here to confer with both sides. The pilots assert that the Century management refused to see Marshman.

Yesterday morning pilots reporting for duty were met here by Century officials, who handed them their discharges, together with application blanks for reëmployment at the lower scale. Company pilots at airports outside Chicago were notified by telegraph.

It was learned last night from officials of the company that they had received fifty applications from pilots desirous of taking the places of the discharged men. Two or three days, it was added, would be required to give tests to the applicants and select those best fitted for the work, but the officials said they were confident all the lines would be in operation again before the end of the week.

MASSACHUSETTS CITY GOES BROKE; NEEDS $300,000

Pittsfield, Mass., Feb. 9.—[Special.] Pittsfield, in the heart of the wealthy colony of Berkshire estates, went "broke" today for the first time in its history.

There was no money in the treasury to pay the policemen $2,070, firemen $1,947, and school janitors $1,638. On Thursday a teachers' pay roll of $15,000 falls due and on Friday the board of public works' pay roll of $5,000.

Mayor Patrick J. Moore and City Auditor Harry C. Hutchinson are in Boston to try and obtain a loan from Boston banks. The mayor must submit the budget to the city council by March 1. Before leaving for Boston he said:

"I will balance the budget to suit any bank in Massachusetts. Our welfare department is demanding $300,000, an increase of 30 per cent over last year. Pittsfield may be 'down' but it isn't 'out'."

BUTTER AND EGG EXCHANGE FIGHTS "NUMBER" POOLS

Officials of the Chicago Mercantile exchange are trying to find some way to compel lottery operators to stop selling pools on the number of cases of eggs and tubs of butter brought daily into the local markets.

The discovery that the official figures were being used to conduct a so-called "number" game was made when employés of the exchange disclosed they had been offered bribes as high as $400 a week to furnish the correct figures ahead of publication time. The would-be bribers apparently believed they could get rich by betting on sure things.

Demand for the figures, it was said, was most marked in the south and in the colored sections of Chicago, where policy games have long been in favor.

Small Bomb in Doorway of Store Breaks Windows

A small black powder bomb burst about 8 o'clock last night in the doorway of a clothing store at 1210 South Peoria street. The blast shattered windows in the store and in the flat upstairs, occupied by Mrs. Jennie Robbins, 65 years old, but did no other damage. The store proprietor, Joseph Cohen, 1510 South Homan avenue, said he knew no motive for the bombing.

MANY EXPECTED TO SEEK G. O. P. COMMITTEE JOBS

Democrats Continue Work on State Slate.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Swarms of candidates for ward committeemen appeared above the skyline yesterday. Friday is first day for filing. This year the unemployment situation bids fair to dovetail into many of the ward contests. The Democrats look for only five or six fights of consequence. But among the Republicans, especially in the "privilege" wards, plenty of battling is looked for.

Indications yesterday were that the unemployment relief given by Gov. L. L. Emmerson to some of the members of the former city hall machine by easing them into pay roll jobs is stirring up some competition. The contests for ward committeemen and the struggle to hang on to the party organization, as usual, is in the background of the fight at the Republican primaries over state and county offices, and that is where the trading is looked for as usual.

This season is a lean one for patronage distribution by the Republican committeemen, the Democrats having nearly all the offices, and for months precinct captains and the rank and filed, some of them as a trading proposition, they have not come within telescopic distance of a pay roll, some of the ward committeemen have made contact for themselves.

Many Filings Expected.

It requires only ten signatures of party electors in a ward for a committeeman's petition. In past years, in some wards, large numbers have filed some of them as a trading proposition, and yesterday the party leaders looked for a filing of unusual size.

Edward C. Diedrich, Republican, filed his petition for sanitary district trustee with County Clerk Sweitzer yesterday.

The Igoe-Clark imbroglio on the west side was taken up yesterday at another Democratic peace conference at the Hotel Sherman. It sounded like the bombardment of the Woosung forts. It's still in the air. Ald. John S. Clark is seeking reëlection as committeeman in the 30th ward. Congressman James T. Igoe induced Robert J. Brennan, a Board of Trade man, to run. When peace overtures led to a suggestion that Mr. Brennan withdraw, Mr. Igoe discovered he had started a candidate who was not used to being bossed. Just now the Igoe-Clark row is in the "go jump in the lake" stage.

Announcement was made last night that Omen N. Custer of Galesburg will file his petition for the Republican nomination for governor in the secretary of state's office at the statehouse in Springfield at 10 o'clock this morning.

Democrats Discuss Slate.

The Democrats held informal talks over the state slate yesterday. It is expected to be made up Friday. The next day will be one of ceremonials at the Hotel Sherman. The state committee is to meet and approve the slate, then the county committee is to meet in the new clubrooms on the mezzanine floor and ratify the slate, after which there is to be a dollar luncheon, with the candidates all appearing.

Although Judge Henry Horner of the Probate court is still regarded as the leading candidate for the governorship nomination, some downstaters yesterday put in active boosts at headquarters for Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works. Clayton F. Smith, county recorder and managing chairman, likewise was boomed by friends.

Edward J. Hughes, who loses the job as reviewer, to which he was elected last election, by the remodeling of the taxing machinery of Cook county, yesterday was regarded as a good bet for secretary of state on the organization slate. William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, congressman at large, is regarded as set for United States senator on the slate, and Edward J. Barrett, now state treasurer, for auditor. John C. Martin of Salem, who ran once before, was held to be the favorite among the slate makers yesterday for state treasurer.

For attorney general, some of the leaders dwelt upon the tactical advantage which might be derived by slating Truman A. Snell of Carlinville for attorney general. He has been regarded as friendly to the governorship candidacy of Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman and minority leader in the state house of representatives.

The Democratic organization last night slated James McAndrews for nomination for congress in the 9th district on the near north side. For twelve years he served as congressman from the Sixth district on the west side, retiring in 1921.

RECEIVERS FOR THREE CLOSED BANKS NAMED BY AUDITOR NELSON

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday appointed receivers for three closed banks. Charles E. Ummach was appointed receiver for the West-City Trust and Savings bank, with Edward J. Hess as attorney. Ummach also was named receiver for the Kimball Trust and Savings bank, with the law firm of Epstein & Avery as attorneys. Frank L. Webb was appointed receiver for the Depositors State bank and the law firm of Altheimer, Mayer, Woods & Smith was chosen as attorneys.

The board of managers of the Chicago Bar association tomorrow will consider charges that certain groups of lawyers are exploiting schemes to collect large fees at the expense of depositors of closed banks. The charges were made by the United Depositors' association. The bar association has been asked to investigate the conduct of lawyers in organizing bondholders' committees, filing claims for individual depositors and instituting foreclosure suits in connection with closed banks.

The depositors' association also sent letters of protest to the Circuit and Superior judges. Chief Justice William V. Brothers of the Circuit court said the judges have protected and will continue to protect every interest of depositors. He added that if depositors have any protest against fees they may bring court action.

WIND AND FLOOD IN LOS ANGELES AREA DAY'S PERIL

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Continuation of heavy rains caused damage in Los Angeles today. The downpour became a cloudburst in the Waterman canyon region near Riverside, washing out bridges, roads, and damaging homes and orchards. The cloudburst sent a six foot wall of water crashing down the canyon.

Sections of the main arrowhead, in the elevation above San Bernardino, were washed out in several places. Santa Barbara reported highways blocked by landslides and some families forced from their homes. Los Angeles emerged from its fourth day of almost constant rain with low lands in Culver City, Ballona Creek and South Western avenue areas under water.

A huge pepper tree, undermined by water, crushed an automobile parked in front of Hollywood Playhouse theater. The Laurel Canyon section of Hollywood was hard hit for the third time in six weeks, poles and phone lines being washed out, and private drives clogged by earth slips.

At San Pedro and Long Beach, a 40-mile wind raged for a time. Four ships which had dragged anchors were towed back by tugs.

Swept from her feet by a torrent of rushing storm water at Pasadena and carried more than 50 feet, Mrs. Bertha Dessault was rescued by a truck driver. She received emergency treatment at Pasadena police hospital for bruises and shock. The rainfall in Pasadena and Los Angeles broke a 17 year record for volume this early in the rainy season, which runs from October to June.

WILKERSON FOE OF LABOR, SENATE COMMITTEE TOLD

Union Chiefs Fight Proposed Promotion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Before a senate subcommittee, four of whose five members are radicals or have radical leanings, organized labor today presented its arguments against the elevation of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago to the Circuit Court of Appeals.

DONALD R. RICHBERG. [Chambers Photo.]

As summed up by Donald R. Richberg of Chicago, attorney for 21 unions of railway workers, labor's charge against the jurist who handed Al Capone an eleven year prison sentence is that his record has been one of an "avowed partisan of those legal doctrines which give employers an overwhelming advantage over employés in industrial controversies."

Attorney Richberg, as counsel for the Association of Railway Labor Executives, submitted the following formal statement of opposition:

"This opposition is not based on personal antagonism or on the decision of one case. It is based primarily on the following facts:

"1. As a practicing lawyer Mr. Wilkerson was active in prosecuting injunction suits against labor organizations and played a prominent part in Illinois in destroying the rights of labor to organize.

"2. As a United States district judge he exhibited in case after case a bias and prejudice against labor organizations inconsistent with judicial fairness; and, in effect, continued to be a partisan advocate of the policies of employers who seek to destroy labor organizations.

"3. In his blind partisanship and antagonism to labor unions, Judge Wilkerson has not followed the law as laid down by the Supreme court, but has attempted to write new law, has violated existing law and has sought to assume and to exercise judicial power never conferred upon his court."

Other labor representatives who appeared in opposition to the nomination were: Edward F. McGrady of the American Federation of Labor; A. F. Stout, maintenance of way union; D. C. Cohen, railway signalmen; W. D. Johnson, railway conductors, and J. A. Farquharson, railway trainmen.

CHICAGO IS GRANTED DELAY FOR START ON STATE STREET SPAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The war department today approved an application of the city of Chicago for an extension of time for the construction of a bridge across the Chicago river at State street. The dates for commencing and completing the structure were advanced a year.

Under the original plans work was to have begun on Jan. 28, 1932, and to have been completed on Jan. 28, 1934. The extension of time granted today calls for commencing construction on Jan. 28, 1933, and completing it on Jan. 28, 1935. The Chicago department of public works stated that it was unable to proceed with work because the condemnation case for the widening of North State street is pending in the Circuit court.

The department also approved plans for a bridge across the Kaskaskia river, near Baldwin, Ill.

COLONEL'S RANK IN KENTUCKY IS A $100 LUXURY

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A new luxury tax, that upon the complimentary title of "Kentucky colonel," bobbed up in the general assembly today.

Kentucky's last two governors, W. J. Fields and Flem D. Sampson, turned out "colonels" by the bushel, or rather colonel's titles by the bushel.

Today both house and senate received a joint resolution designed to tax each person so honored $100 a year if he or she desires to use the title after expiration of the commission. No mention was made taxing of some several score admirals and commodores, composing Kentucky's "complimentary navy."

GERARD DENIES ASSAILING SMITH FOR STATEMENT

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—James W. Gerard, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, sent the following statement to the New York Times today:

"The New York Times of this morning states that I said today that Gov. Smith 'had better have kept his mouth shut.' I saw no reporter. I gave no interview. I never used this inelegant language about Gov. Smith. I spoke at the Jewish center in Brooklyn in the evening, but no reference to American politics was made in my address or in the discussion.

"In 1928 I was one of the so-called 'Smith board of strategy' which sought the nomination of Gov. Smith, and as treasurer of the Democratic national committee and chairman of the finance committee I worked hard for his cause and contributed a very substantial sum.

"I would not have done all this had I not believed that Gov. Smith by his force of character and knowledge of government was eminently fitted for the great office of President."

Porto Rico Urged to Adopt "Pay-as-You-Go" Budget

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Personally presenting a reduced budget for the fiscal year 1932-'33, Porto Rico's new governor, James R. Beverley, today laid down a "pay as you go" policy in his first message to the legislature.

WIFE OF BUSINESS MAN DROPS SUIT; HE WILL PAY HER $1,750

An agreement before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court yesterday resulted in the dismissal of the suit of Mrs. Bessie Evans of Los Angeles to set aside the divorce which William H. Evans, president of the Evans Flexible Reamer company, 3858 Lincoln avenue, obtained a year ago on grounds of desertion. In return Evans agreed to pay his wife $1,750 in lieu of all alimony and dower claims. Last July Miss Lillian McQuillan was awarded a $16,000 verdict in a suit for breach of promise against Evans. He has an appeal pending.

In the litigation with Mrs. Evans, Mr. Evans was represented by Attorney Victor Frohlich.

A HOUSE PARTY—charming girls, Dorothy especially. And yet...

"Weren't you shocked at Dorothy?" they whispered... "Why does she wear her underthings a second day? Everybody perspires a little and it's so easy to offend."

HOW can she take such chances with personal daintiness? Underthings constantly absorb perspiration acids and odors. These become noticeable so soon. Fresh lingerie each day is actually more important than the daily bath.

It is so easy to wear fresh things every day! For Lux is made to remove perspiration acids and odors completely, yet saves colors and fabrics, keeps them like new. And it takes only four minutes or less.

Follow this dainty habit—Lux your underthings and stockings after every wearing. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Underthings absorb perspiration. Avoid offending... Protect daintiness this way:

Wash this 4-minute way: 1 tablespoon of Lux does 1 day's undies—stockings, too! Squeeze suds through fabric, rinse twice, shake.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens threads, fades color. Lux has no harmful alkali.

Never rub with cake soap. Rubbing tends to streak colors, weaken fabrics.

For dishes, too. Protect your hands—Lux in the dishpan gives beauty care—costs only 1¢ a day!

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfaction in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

EXPECT INSANITY TO BE DEFENSE OF MRS. FORTESCUE

Hawaii Murder Trial Is Set for March 10.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Feb. 9.—The real reason for the delays of both the Fortescue-Massie murder trial and the new trial in the Ala Moana rape case was explained today.

The first case, in which Mrs. Granville B. Fortescue, prominent American society matron; her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, N. S. N., and two naval enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, are charged with the second degree murder of Joseph Kahahawai, a Hawaiian, will be held over until March 10 to give the defense time to prepare a case of emotional insanity, at least for Mrs. Fortescue, who is referred to by the court as the "chief defendant." This date was fixed today. The defense also reserved the right to introduce a motion for a change of venue to the mainland in the event congress legalizes such action.

Rape Trial Set for April.

The second case will be tried later, probably in April. It was delayed to search for new members of the rape gang, one of whom is said to have fled to the United States. Two Japanese indicted in this case, David Takai and Horace Ida, are now thought innocent of actual participation in the assault of Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the naval officer, on Sept. 12 last, although they were captured in the car used by the other three suspects. The latter are Kahahawai, now dead, Benny Ahakuelo, and Henry Chang.

As the murder case now stands, some kind of plea, such as paranoia or "alarm clock" insanity, is considered the logical course of the defense, although Attorneys Frank Thompson and Montgomery Winn, representing the group, have not announced this. The ostensible reason for the delay, that of waiting for the arrival of Maj. Fortescue, the defendant's husband, is admitted not to be the real one. The probability is that the defense is bringing alienists to Honolulu from the mainland.

One strong exhibition of this sort of a defense is found in the picture of Mrs. Fortescue published soon after her arrest when police found Kahahawai's body in the automobile in which she was riding. This photograph shows her wild and disheveled, the staring look of a mad woman in her eyes. The defense may use this picture at the trial.

All this has now passed and Mrs. Fortescue, as well as her daughter, are now engaged in the social activities of the Pearl Harbor naval base. They were reported at a dance the other night on the Battleship Pennsylvania and bridge and golf are their regular afternoon recreations. A recent interview presents her at peace with the world and saying that she has slept well since the night of the murder, but that she had suffered terribly before that.

Evidence Is Formidable.

Barry Ulrich is an able prosecutor and his case against Mrs. Fortescue and her companions is formidable. The blood stains in Mrs. Fortescue's home, the evidences of a struggle, the missing sheet found on the body of the dead man, a cartridge belt with one shell missing, the evidence of a pre-arranged plan to waylay and kidnap Kahahawai and the finding of a fake "death warrant" in the belt of one of the sailors all make a good case for the prosecution.

Whether this plea of temporary insanity will be extended to the other three defendants or whether Mrs. Fortescue will take the entire blame is a question, but it is expected that she will take such a chance with the jury.

Worried Over Jury.

Another reason for the delay is anxiety over the jury. This is to be a big struggle in the case. The law makes it impossible for Mrs. Fortescue to be tried by a jury of all white men. The code of the organic law says:

"All juries shall be constituted without reference to the race or place of nativity of jurors. No plaintiff or defendant in any suit or proceeding in the courts in the territory of Hawaii shall be entitled to a trial by a jury impaneled exclusively from persons of any one race."

BROKER F. L. WILK ARRESTED; CLAIM $500,000 LOSSES

CRIMINAL COURT.

Richard S. Redd, John Washington and Willie Washington, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Walter Zarzycki, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Phillip L. Sullivan.

Frank Zielonsky and Orville Ray Wilson, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Walter Stanton.

James Henry and John Maloney, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Rush.

Fred L. Wilk Jr., president of Wilk, Clarke & Co., an investment concern at 39 South La Salle street, which went into receivership ten days ago, was arrested yesterday on charges of embezzlement.

Arresting officers said that forty investors, whose losses aggregate $500,000, have signed complaints against Wilk at the state's attorney's office. The losses charged on the four warrants on which Wilk was arrested total $36,200. He was held at the detective bureau in default of $24,000 bonds.

Sergeants Rudolph Freemont and John Joyce seized Wilk when he made a hurried visit yesterday to his wife in their home at 5442 Sheridan road. They had sought him since the receivership proceedings were started.

Wilk's concern occupies an entire floor at 39 South La Salle street, and has branch offices in Cincinnati, Columbus, and Elyria, O., Freemont and Joyce said. It was formed in 1928 by the consolidation of a previous concern operated by Wilk with Arthur C. Lueder & Co., real estate dealers. Postmaster Lueder was made vice president at the time, but he stated recently that he resigned that office two years ago, although he still owns stock in the company.

Those who signed warrants against Wilk, and the losses they charge they sustained, were Joseph Schweck, 1343 South Keeler avenue, $20,000; Albert J. Kotelman, 5842 Merrimac avenue, $7,000; John Weicker, 3356 North Ashland avenue, $5,000, and Fred Trimble, 4147 West Congress street, $4,200.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

An item in THE TRIBUNE of Feb. 3 stated that Alex Kunatz, 562 West Adams street, was one of three alleged counterfeiters arrested in a raid by federal secret service agents. Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, leader of the agents, states that Alex Kunatz was not arrested, but that a relative, Okets Kunatz, gave his name as Alex Kunatz when taken into custody.

50 Are Arrested

Eight women and twelve men were arrested yesterday in County Judge Jarecki's contempt action against election judges and clerks in precincts where the original returns in the Kunz-Granata congressional contest of 1930 were far different than the vote in a recount. Twenty men were arrested on Monday and more arrests are to be made, Judge Jarecki said.

William John Granata, a brother of Peter Granata, who was seated in congress as the representative of the 8th Illinois district, told newspapers that the arrests were due to "a strategic move on the part of certain people to further embarrass my brother at this time." Former Congressman Stanley H. Kunz is asking Peter Granata's ouster from congress on the basis of the recount, which showed Kunz to have had more votes than Granata.

The women arrested are Mrs. Romano Sena, 1324 Elburn avenue; Mrs. Theresa Ryan, 1146 Congress street; Mrs. Grace Lulio, 1106 Newberry avenue; Mrs. Margaret Franklin, 1314 Arthington street; Mrs. Josephine Sense, 1316 Arthington street; Mrs. Jessie Ponzio, 1116 Newberry avenue; Mrs. Bertha Pollack, 1154 South Mozart street, and Mrs. Minnie Cipperoni, 1339 Edgemont avenue.

WASTE IN STATE PAVING IS DENIED BY CLEAVELAND

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Director Cleaveland of the department of public works today pointed out that legislators laid out the state bond issue highway system on which, according to an article in this morning's CHICAGO TRIBUNE, $32,180,000 was spent extravagantly by laying 1,609 miles of concrete where a cheaper surface would have cared for traffic.

"The system was created by legislature, which outlined the routes and dictated a hard-surfaced type of paving," he said. "The bonds were authorized by vote of the people, and the bond bills carried the details as to routing."

A traffic survey by the highway department, made public yesterday, disclosed that hundreds of miles of the state's concrete pavements are so little used that a macadam or bituminous surface would suffice. THE TRIBUNE article also stated that Illinois has spent $316,000,000 and will have to spend $51,776,000 more to finish the road system for which the public voted $160,000,000 bonds.

EDGAR WALLACE IS NEAR DEATH OF PNEUMONIA

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—A slight cold, suffered by Edgar D. Wallace, British author, during a rain storm two weeks ago, today was reported as developing into double pneumonia. The author was reported by Dr. E. C. Fischbaugh to have a slight chance for recovery. A cable was sent to his wife in London. She will sail for the United States on the liner Majestic tomorrow.

The couple's four children, two sons, 26 and 15, and two daughters, 24 and 8, will remain in England.

In Semi-Conscious Condition.

Wallace's temperature was 104 this afternoon and he had been in a semi-conscious condition for most of the day. Dr. Fischbaugh said "we are depending on Mr. Wallace's wonderful vitality to pull him through."

The British playwright and author complained of a bad headache on Sunday, which got worse Sunday night. On Monday he collapsed and went to bed, the first time since his arrival to carry out a contract with the Radio Pictures corporation.

Mr. Wallace is 57 years of age. He became noted as author of 300 novels and plays, nearly all of them dramatic mystery thrillers. Wallace often completed an entire novel in one week's time. Since arriving in Hollywood, he astonished officials at the Radio film studio by receiving the sketchy suggestion of the nature of a film story wanted for one of the stars on Friday and showing up Monday with a completed 60,000 word novel.

WIFE SAILS TOMORROW.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Edgar Wallace will sail for the United States on the liner Majestic tomorrow on the first stage of a dash to the bedside of her author-husband, who is seriously ill in California.

Sympathetic concern for Wallace's condition was manifested in west end clubs where he has long been a familiar figure and in the poorer districts of London, where many an unfortunate owes a fresh start in life to the helping hand of the novelist.

THE HOOVER PROPOSALS AT GENEVA.

Ambassador Hugh Gibson, chairman of the American delegation to the Geneva peace conference, has given that gathering a brief of the wishes and purposes of the Hoover administration. He said that it was not exclusive of other ideas which might be brought in. It represented the initial suggestions of his government, which would be sympathetic in its consideration of any proposal for the reduction of national defenses.

The Hoover administration, for its part, would open the discussion with a statement of its willingness to make any proportional naval cuts which could be agreed upon, however deep they went, to slash its army to a minimum of internal requirements and defense, relying upon the new force represented in international peace pacts, to abolish submarines, to prohibit the use of gas, to restrict the use of tanks and mobile heavy guns, and to covenant for the protection of civilian populations against bombing.

These and other agreements, Mr. Gibson said, his government would be glad to make, and the American people would be proud to lead the way toward a world disarmed but protected by treaty and good will.

In the preparation of this statement the Hoover administration seems to have been guided by the hope that the point blank declaration of such intentions on the part of the United States would have the electrical effect which Mr. Hughes' pronouncement had upon the delegates to the Washington naval conference when he took away Balfour's breath by reading the list of ships the American government was willing to destroy. Mr. Hughes swept the delegates off their feet by sweeping the American navy off the sea. The Hoover administration offers to sweep off the remainder of the national defenses.

Mr. Gibson, who submitted the proposals, has been noted in the past for a different tone, but that was when he served a different administration. That he found it possible to accept changed instructions is for his own consideration. What, as agent, he proposes is for the consideration of his fellow citizens.

It would be important if Europe, whatever it may think of the American government's advances, should know more of the standing of that government than it did of the standing of the Wilson administration when the President in person was engaged in Paris in formulating the covenant of the league of nations. Mr. Wilson before he went abroad asked the country to give him a vote of confidence in the congressional elections, insuring a congress which would support him. The elections went against him—a fact which Mr. Wilson ignored and which the allied statesmen did not weigh. Mr. Wilson delivered his country in Paris, but not in Washington.

Mr. Hoover's administration has been to the country in congressional elections, and as a result there is a Democratic house of representatives. The Hoover administration has lost the support of the country. It would be wise for the European governments not to overlook this fact and not to discount it. A vote of lack of confidence is the foundation upon which the American delegation in Geneva rests, and if that fact is not misunderstood other misunderstandings will not follow.

A pacifist and internationalist administration, such as is properly represented by Dr. Mary Woolley and the Ladies' Home Journal, may seek to create some electrical effects in Geneva by a surrender of national defense and national interest, but the voice is the voice of the little groups and not the voice of the American people.

The ironies of pacifism have been observed for their incredibility. Mr. Gibson's pronouncements add to them. He speaks for an administration which sees its current appeals to a futile peace treaty and to disregarded international agreements ignored by a military power in the full swing of seeking to impose its will by force. Nevertheless, this administration can point to the peace treaty as a dependable guaranty and announce its trust in that protection. If Mr. Hoover and his advisers can shut their eyes to the ironic march of events, the American people do not. China and Japan are both admonitory.

Mr. Hoover proposes that when the white race is supposed to be exhausted it shall strip itself of the weapons which give it superiority over African and Asiatic masses. Such follies have been exposed many times, but they recur in the pacifist mind.

If the saner European statesmen will examine the credentials of the authority which makes these proposals for America they will find that they come from an administration which has lost the control of congress and the confidence of the people and which is entering another election period in the hope that Dr. Woolley, the Ladies' Home Journal, and the pacifists may yet prevail. The sentiments are not the sentiments of the American people.

MODIFY THESE INJUNCTIONS.

It is admitted that, if the local governments are to continue to operate, property owners must pay reasonable taxes.

Is it unfair to request owners of loop real estate—generally credited with being the most valuable in the city—to pay that part of their 1929 taxes which they deem fair, and contest the remainder in court?

Some of these owners have not paid any part of their 1929 taxes. It is true that County Judge Jarecki has held the 1928 and the 1929 taxes illegal and void; but there is a bill pending in the special session which provides that a property owner shall receive credit on subsequent tax bills for any overpayment now made. It is predicted this bill will be adopted, so there appears no great danger of loss to a property owner who now pays what he deems is a fair and reasonable tax.

But there are several large loop property owners, in addition to those heretofore published, who have not paid any part of their 1929 taxes, which were due May 15 last.

There are two properties legally described in tax volume 486 under items 631 and 760, for which Willoughby & Co. are given in the records as the agents. For taxing purposes one property is valued at $1,668,293. The taxes on this property, totaling $102,600, have not been paid. The owner has applied to the court for an injunction restraining the collection. The other property is valued at $190,815. This property appears to be in distress or the owner has made a mistake. The taxes on it total $11,735.13. The owner has paid all of these taxes except $1,274.29, but has not protected that payment by a court order. The result is that the record shows the property has been forfeited for taxes.

To Pauline Porter White is credited on the tax books two pieces of loop property. One is described under item 545 of tax volume 486 and the other under item 104 of tax volume 487. The two properties are valued for taxing purposes at $180,076, and the taxes on both total $11,074.68. No part of either tax has been paid.

In volume 487, item 43, is a property valued at $172,064. This property on the tax records is credited to the Robert White company. No part of the $10,581.94 taxes for 1929 has been paid. The property is protected by an objection filed in court.

Lucian M. Williams is the name set opposite in the tax records of a property in volume 486 under items 533 and 534. This property is valued at $395,312. The collection of the $24,311.70 of taxes on the property has been enjoined, and no part has been paid.

To Murray Wolbach, agent, are listed nine pieces of property in the tax records for 1929. These are described under items 498, 499, 500, 783, 849 in volume 486 and under items 622, 703, 750, 775 in volume 487. The total value of the properties is $659,283 and the aggregate taxes are $40,545.95. Not only objections have been filed against the taxes on these properties, but an injunction has been obtained to prevent collection. Not one dollar of any of the taxes is shown by the records to have been paid.

Under items 435, 436 and 437 in volume 486 are three parcels of real estate credited to Hannah Zuker. The value of these three pieces is $466,860 and the taxes total $28,711.91. No part of these taxes has been paid, according to the tax records.

The injunctions should be modified so that all of the taxes not in dispute should be made payable at once.

STREET BEGGING IN NEW YORK.

Visitors to New York will indorse Mr. Pettey's report of the panhandling nuisance in that city, which is as bad as in Naples before the days of the Black Shirts. The professional beggars have taken advantage of the unemployment situation and must be reaping a harvest which has ended any depression the begging industry may have suffered in less pitiful times.

Money given a professional beggar obviously could be better contributed to deserving people, but the devices adopted to give the appearance of real want are clever, and many individuals, even if suspicious, are not willing to risk refusal of a worthy appeal. The relief agencies have repeatedly warned the public against responding to street begging and pointed out that any destitute person can find food and shelter by applying at relief stations. But the public needs protection from the police, and it is greatly to the credit of the Chicago police department that it has given us this protection. There is less street begging here than a year ago, and the nuisance has been kept within bounds.

This could be done in New York as well. That it has not can be explained only on one ground. The police are not doing their duty either because patrolmen are profiting by the situation or the city government has given orders to permit the nuisance for political reasons. Professional begging on the scale reported by Mr. Pettey and many recent visitors to New York may very well pay corrupt officialdom a neat return. Recent revelations of Tammany methods give this theory plenty of support.

NEW FORM OF HOUSING.

[New York Evening Post.]

If the proposed architecture for new housing units to be built upon New York's east side appears somewhat fantastic to our conventional views of how an apartment house should be constructed, it is well to remember that experiments on these lines have long since been made in Germany with most successful results. It is also necessary to think of what these proposed buildings will mean in light and air and space for their occupants rather than of their appearance to judge them fairly. As now planned, this suggested housing development would comprise a group of buildings of steel skeleton construction standing fourteen feet above the ground on steel columns. On the sunny side of these buildings would be continuous windows, roof terraces would be provided, and there would be no rooms opening only on the sunless side or on courtyards. The space beneath the buildings would be utilized as parks and playgrounds in rainy weather. In connection with the development would be two public schools, an auditorium, gymnasium, and other community features. The entire project would be within the limitations prescribed by a city to provide at reasonable cost the most healthful and pleasant living conditions possible. Whether or not the plans as revealed in the models to be shown at the Modern Art museum's architectural exhibit meet all the requirements of the new development, we are certainly on the right track at last in city planning.

We thought Cal Coolidge's cryptic words

No greater mystery could be than
"I do not choose to run."

But Al Smith puzzles us still more,
With wonderment we ooze;
He's much more intricate than Cal—
He does not choose to choose.

HUMANS have a lot of self-control! The disarmament conference sits solemnly in session in Geneva and talks and talks. Yessir, we feel it coming on. We're going to write a letter to Sol Bloom—he's the head of the George Washington Bicentennial bureau at Washington, D. And we're going to say: "Dear Mister Sol Bloom, we have received a great many circular letters, pictures, plays, biographies, and so on from you regarding a Mr. George Washington of Mount Vernon, Va. We are getting terribly curious about Mr. Washington, although we must admit a lack of time has prevented us from reading the many interesting things you send us concerning him. Please wire us immediately. Truly yours ——."

BALLAD OF RETRIBUTION.

(Sequel to "The Outlaw Heart," by Berton Braley.)

The ages of penance are over at last
And you wander this earth again;
'Twas a lowering day like this we met
In the spume of a hell-brewed main.

For I am the maiden with heavy-lashed eyes,
Grey stones, with steel flashes of blue;
We sailed from the north and you from the south
When fate shook the dice and threw.

We met when you boarded my father's ship
To take what we would not give,
But I knew no fear; in that time as this
Men strangled each other to live.

I stood on the deck by my father's side
As the slaughter of men went on,
And at your command, ours walked the plank
Till all but we two were gone.

"I'll take the girl!" you said; I saw
My father's face go white,
But straight into your eyes I looked
Across the falling night.

"You will not take, but I shall give
In ransom for his life;
Your sons will call me mother,
But you shall call me wife.

"Father, there stands my mate; he came
Today in search of me,
And from our mating, ages hence,
A fettered captive, he Shall sing of raging seas and ships

With pirate gold a-heap,
But search through worlds in vain for eyes
With turquoise bedded deep."

TIMES may be a bit hard (it is so reported), but at least evening gowns oughtn't to cost so terrible much. We've just been looking at the pictures in the latest fashion magazine. Of course, there's the buttons or the hooks and eyes or adhesive tape, or whatever they use to hold 'em together—those things, of course, cost something—but outside of that we can't see why they should be very expensive.

AN AIRPLANE MENACE.

HEALTH officials propose some measures lest airplanes unduly expose people to disease. The proponents of flying tell us that the accident rate per mile flown is low. Our reference is not to fear of accidents. The quick change of air pressure due to rapid change in altitude may do harm to the hearing apparatus or may force infection into the sinuses. The rapid change of temperature as one changes altitude may increase the tendency to colds and pneumonia. However, there is not much medical experience on these diseases in their relations to flying that has found its way into medical literature.

The anxiety of health officials relates to diseases which can be transported by flying machines and flyers. Our precautions against the importation of diseases are based upon slower travel—people who move by trains and boats, and who pass through depots and docks. For a long time steamers sailing Caribbean waters traveled slowly and were five days or more between ports.

Quarantine law required that people coming from infected countries should spend at sea ample time in which to develop any contagious disease with which they might be infected. Officers examined incoming people at quarantine stations for fever and other evidence of developing disease.

Stimulated by Dr. Carl Michel of the United States public health service, Drs. T. H. D. and J. J. Griffitts of the same service examined airplanes to discover whether they carried mosquitoes. They were working in Miami and the airplanes were those in regular mail and passenger service from Porto Rico, Haiti, San Domingo, and Cuban cities to Florida cities. They were able to prove by experiments of several kinds, as well as by routine examination of flying ships entering the port, that mosquitoes are carried by airplanes. One company that used mosquito repellent on their machines just as they were starting out was not contributing to the importation of our insect enemies.

This goes toward proving that the danger can be guarded against so far as concerns commercial machines making scheduled stops at central points. In time there will be many private flyers with no scheduled stops and passing through no controlled entrances.

After Great Britain had been free from hydrophobia for several years the disease was reintroduced by dogs brought in by private airplanes. Machines leave Porto Rico in the early morning, touch at Haiti, San Domingo, and Cuba, and land in Miami by night. A man infected, but not yet sick with some disease such as yellow fever, dengue, plague, cholera, smallpox, or malaria, could fly into Florida from a Central or South American country and be a long distance inland before the incubation period of his disease had passed.

PNEUMONIA.

Mrs. E. L. writes: I am 23 years of age, the mother of two children, and had lobar pneumonia in January, 1931, and bronchial pneumonia in July, 1931. The baby, who is not quite 4 months old, was born in September, 1931.

1. Will you please explain the meaning of this report: "Lung shows thickened pleura and small amount of fluid superimposed upon interstitial pneumonitis right base. Upper lobe is partly collapsed with partial pneumothorax."
2. What are my chances of developing tuberculosis, or does it eventually follow such a state of sickness?
3. Considering my lungs to be weak, what effect would it have on the baby I carried during this illness?
4. Do you think, with proper food and rest, I can build up my resistance?

REPLY.

1. Chronic pneumonia and pleurisy in the lower part of your right lung. There is some air in the pleura of the upper part of this lung, and this has caused that part of the lung to collapse.
2. Your history and the present condition probably mean that you are tubercular.
3. If you have tuberculosis, your baby is in considerable danger. The danger is principally due to association. You should wean the baby and have some one else care for him, for your sake and his.
4. Yes.

PERMIT GRANTED.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a poplar tree between the curb and sidewalk in front of my house. I understand this is public property, and I would like to have this tree removed. During the summer months dry branches fall off, and I believe some day they will drop off and hurt some one. I will replace the poplar tree with an evergreen or other tree not so large if the city will remove the poplar for me.

I beg to advise that we have sent the writer a permit for the removal of one 18 inch poplar tree, to be replaced with one elm tree.

LAWFUL INTEREST RATE.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the legal rate of interest on a loan, payments being made in a stipulated amount each month? This money was borrowed from a finance company. M. W.

The maximum that can be stipulated for by contract is 7 per cent per annum in ordinary cases. In absence of agreement as to interest, 5 per cent is allowed after due on notes or other instruments in writing; on money lent; on accounts settled; on money received to use of another and retained without owner's knowledge; on money withheld by an unreasonable and vexatious delay, and on judgments. Pawnbrokers may charge 3 per cent per month; and licensees of state board of trade and commerce may charge 3½ per cent per month on loans of $300 or less. An agreement to pay more than the legal rate is usurious and only the principal can be collected. Under the 1929 statute the 7 per cent limit does not apply to collateral loans exceeding $5,000.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

Centuries of rivalry between China and Japan for influence in Corea brought on the Chino-Japanese war of 1894. In that year Corea asked China to send troops to aid it in crushing a rebellion, and China did so. Japan immediately sent troops to Seoul. Japan proposed that the two powers should unite to suppress disturbances and inaugurate reforms. China contended that reforms must be left to Corea. The dispute culminated in the war. Because of the interest in the present Chinese-Japanese conflict, The Tribune from day to day will print excerpts from its files dealing with that war.

LONDON, July 21.—A dispatch received here from Shanghai says a rumor is in circulation there that war has been declared between China and Japan.

SHANGHAI, July 21.—The report that war has been declared between China and Japan has not yet been confirmed, but China is preparing for war. The Chinese are blocking the northern passage of the Yang Tse Kiang, the great river of China. Incoming vessels are thus compelled to pass nearer the Woosung forts. Japan has chartered all the Mitsui Bussen company's ships in addition to the sixteen already chartered from the Yusem Kaisha company. Japan has prohibited the departure of the Yusem steamers.

YOKOHAMA, July 21.—The Corean government has consented to the reforms proposed by Japan. British and United States marines have been landed at Seoul, the capital of Corea, to protect the British and United States legations, respectively. China has requested that Japanese warships be not allowed to enter the Chinese treaty ports. Japan's reply to the request states that she maintains the right to enter these ports at any time. It has been learned that 12,000 Chinese troops have received orders to proceed with all possible dispatch to Corea.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 10, 1904.

ST. PETERSBURG.—St. Petersburg tonight is aflame with the excitement of war. Vast crowds of cheering people fill the streets, while the vast plaza in front of the winter palace has, for hours surged with excited throngs, shouting and cheering for Russia and the czar. In the crowds are soldiers, students, court pages, laborers, Jews, moujiks, merchants, and a few society folk. The vast concourse watched keenly for an hour and a half the brilliantly lighted windows of the imperial residence where the emperor had called his highest officials and members of his court to pray for the success of Russian arms in the war which is thus considered declared. The resentment against Great Britain is rising. It is assumed that Great Britain has ceded the port of Wei Hai Wei, opposite Port Arthur, to the Japanese, and the British government openly is accused of a breach of neutrality. Japan's action in beginning hostilities without a declaration of war, and without even a notice to the world that a state of war exists, caused expressions of indignation and protest.

TOKIO.—It is reported here that the Japanese fleet engaged and defeated two Russian warships (the American built Variag and the gunboat Korietz) at Chemulpo today. The smaller Russian vessel (the Korietz) is reported to have been sunk, and the larger one fired and hopelessly disabled. A part of the crew is reported to have escaped to the shore and to have been captured. The Japanese ships are reported to be slightly damaged.

CHEFOO, China.—A naval battle between the Russian and Japanese fleets was fought off Port Arthur this (Jan. 9) forenoon. The battle followed the midnight attack of four Japanese torpedo boats on the Russian warships lying in the roads outside the harbor of Port Arthur. As a result of this silent attack, two Russian battleships, the Czarevitch and the Retvizan, and the cruiser Pallada were so badly damaged that they were beached by their own officers to prevent their sinking with all on board. As they now lie, they effectively block the entrance to the inner harbor at Port Arthur, thus shutting the Russian ships out of their own docks and coaling slips.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson has sent a note to Austria in connection with the attack on the tanker Petrolite of the Standard Oil lines, which was shelled by a submarine and had a man aboard wounded after it came to a stop and surrendered to the submarine for the purpose of enabling the Austrians to exercise their right of search. The note demands an apology, punishment of the guilty submarine commander, and indemnity. It sets out that the Petrolite was bound from Alexandria, Egypt, to Philadelphia, and flying the American flag, with its name and neutral nationality painted in big white letters on its side.

BERLIN.—The official army statement says: "West of Vimy our troops stormed the first line French positions for 800 yards, taking more than 100 prisoners and five machine guns. South of the Somme the French again penetrated a small German trench section."

PARIS.—The official war statement says: "In Belgium our heavy artillery continued bombardment of the Vauban fort and the trenches in the region Het Sas. On the front extending from Hill 140 to the road from Neuville to La Folie the Germans exploded two mines. To the west of La Folie they were able to penetrate some portions of our trenches, but at certain points we drove them out."

LONDON.—Two women and one child were injured when two German seaplanes raided the Kentish coast and dropped bombs. Three bombs fell on the outskirts of Ramsgate and four near a school at Broadstairs.

A COUNTRY BANKER'S SUGGESTION.

Momence, Ill., Feb. 4.—It is very evident that the federal banks and the joint stock land banks cannot take care of our dire depression, nor have we enough gold for security to back our money system to enable us to transact the business of the country.

There is a reason for all the bank failures more in agricultural states than in the east where there is more of a diversity in business. The main reason for bank failures in the farm states is the fact that there is no one loaning money now on farm lands. The joint stock land banks' bonds have depreciated 50% and no one will buy them even at that price. The insurance companies are not making loans as there is such a demand from their policy holders for money.

The Parish State bank closed its doors because the farmers could not borrow on their lands to pay their obligations at the bank. I was one of the officers of the bank and have 1,700 acres of unincumbered land in Kankakee county practically all under cultivation and paying 4% on a valuation of $100 per acre. If I could make a loan for one-third or even one-fourth of this valuation it would enable me to open up this bank and relieve the depression in this vicinity, and many other banks could do the same.

If our government would loan on a small per cent of the valuation of all the farm lands in the forty-eight states at a low rate of interest, say 3%, and issue greenbacks against the loans, it would relieve the situation and we would come out of this depression and begin to retire the greenbacks in a very short time and our government would not have to borrow so much money to be backed up by gold, which is only a relic of barbarism.

MASTERPIECES OF ART.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Not only the world's greatest newspaper, but the world's greatest art publication, seems to be a new distinction of THE TRIBUNE.

When one thinks that THE TRIBUNE every Sunday brings masterpieces of art in complete color to a million homes, it is apparent that a service to art never before conceived, much less attempted, is being accomplished.

The first of your series of reproductions of masterpieces in Chicago, the El Greco "Assumption of the Virgin," is not only superb in itself but creates anticipations of treasures to be enjoyed in weeks to come. Considering the vast quantity printed, a million, the colors seem remarkably faithful to the original. Day by day I find my copy growing in interest and appeal, the true test of a masterpiece.

A suggestion or two might be made. In his recent articles about Chicago's museums Mr. James O'Donnell Bennett wrote so interestingly about this very picture that, so a guard at the institute told me, unusual numbers came to take a look at this marvel to which, for the first time, their attention had been directed. It would enhance the interest of your series of reproductions if Mr. Bennett were to tell what he sees in each picture. The educational value would be increased, for people must be made to see such a work of art as the El Greco through the eyes, not necessarily of a critic, but of a man of Mr. Bennett's culture, experience with the beautiful things of the world, and ability to convey what he sees in them to others.

Another suggestion is that these pictures be made available on heavier paper stock and without a fold for those who may wish to frame them. Whether or not this is possible, you are doing a wonderful thing for art, especially in homes like mine where there are children who look for THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE to be thrilled by these inspiring pictures.

HELP FOR THE CHINESE.

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 4.—Chinese merchants in Chicago have voluntarily subscribed to a large sum of money, to be sent to Shanghai to provide munitions and supplies. Doubtless this procedure in Chicago is being duplicated in each of our states, and the sum total of collected money will never be known.

I do not consider this procedure ethical or right under the circumstances, inasmuch as the United States is not a participant in the far east disturbances.

PARABLE FOR THE TIMES.

MAUDE M. FENTON.

THE REPUBLICAN CASE.

Adrian, Mich., Feb. 6.—In trying to remove the business depression by increasing public works and other governmental assistance there may be considerable danger of overlooking the real cause of the trouble and thereby delay the ultimate cure.

Accordingly, let us suppose that with the inauguration of Herbert Hoover in 1929 a free trade law was to have been enacted by congress. How would that have affected business? It is safe to say that, with such a law and the prospect of this country being flooded with foreign goods made by cheaper labor and under lower standards of living, business would have been paralyzed.

But what did actually happen? At the outset President Hoover called a special session of congress for the purpose, in part, to make a limited revision of the tariff in accordance with his preëlection pledge to give agriculture equal protection with industry. But this was effectually opposed, largely by Democratic senators whose political party is traditionally against the principle of the protective tariff and in favor of "tariff for revenue only," which is essentially free trade or as near to it as any administration could probably come.

Furthermore, Mr. Hoover was elected on a prosperity issue of "a job for every man who wants to work" and accordingly about the only hope for the Democratic party was to break down this Republican prosperity and agitation against protection offered that opportunity. At any rate, with the close of that special session the market values of stocks as shown by the New York Stock exchange chart began to drop and the depression started.

The history of the Democratic party since then has been continued opposition to this same protective tariff policy which has meant so much to this country, and today, with the apparent ascendency of that party since 1928, why isn't depending on the aforesaid public works program irrelevant and comparable to using external treatment for an internal disease?

E. W. CORNELL.

FIREWATER.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—According to recent news dispatches, Dr. Arthur Dean Levan asserts that not a single pint of whisky has been required in the treatment of patients in a Chicago hospital during a period of ten years. Will the good doctor delve further into the hospital records and state the quantity of aromatic spirits of ammonia which has been used during the same period? The alcoholic content of whisky is approximately 45% while that of the aromatic spirits of ammonia is approximately 67%. In comparison whisky is almost a "light wine." DR. BLANK.

POSTAL SAVINGS INTEREST.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Thousands of banks have failed, millions of citizens were fraudulently deprived of their life savings. In these failures of those banks the citizens of the United States lost far more than a few capitalists could lose in far away China or Japan.

To stop this robbery in the closing of the banks will not require any battleships, but only to raise the interest rate in the postal savings banks. The present 2% interest rate in the postal banks is not attractive enough to the people and consequently it could not prevent the evil.

I am wondering if there is at least one of all congressmen who will earnestly urge the government to remedy the bank failures in this way.

SNOW REMOVED.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Mr. Sprague, who is responsible for the city's snow removal forces, states that the city will not clean the walks because the people do not pay their taxes. This morning a city truck dropped two city employés in front of the church at 4823 Kenmore avenue and for several hours these men proceeded to clean the walk, the gutter and actually part of the street the entire length of the church property. And churches never pay taxes.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—I saw in this morning's TRIBUNE an article pertaining to the possibility of E. J. Brundage being a candidate for governor of Illinois. I have discussed this question with some friends, and we are all at a loss to understand why you have not long since advocated the election of William H. Malone, of Park Ridge, who is a Cook county candidate. Not only was he the first in the field but he is right on the tax question; he is for a proper reapportionment of the state; he is a "wet," and he has a successful record. H. L. DELANDER.

TURKEY, PERSIA MOBILIZE; FEAR TROUBLE IN INDIA

Seen as Move to Help Great Britain.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 9.—News of Turkish and Persian mobilizations, owing to conditions in India, reached diplomatic circles in London today. Secret orders for the mobilization of the Turkish army were issued Saturday following a meeting of the war council at Ankara. President Kemal Pasha signed the orders.

This swift movement was the result of investigations on the frontier by the Persian government. It is interpreted here as a friendly gesture by both countries to Great Britain, and as an attempt to organize all friendly Moslems against threatened trouble in Kashmir, a state in northern India.

Call Off Visit of Fleet.

At the same time the Turkish mobilization was ordered a scheduled courtesy visit of the Turkish fleet to the British naval base at Malta was postponed with cordial explanations. The Turkish fleet is now awaiting further developments under sealed orders.

The Persian minister at Kabul reported last night that the strain on the Indian frontier had reached the breaking point. A tribal combine against Great Britain is imminent, he said, and in that event Afghanistan would be jockeyed into it. The minister denied allegations that Japanese agents were the provocateurs, but declared that the Nipponese were active in Afghanistan and Baluchistan and along the Persian gulf.

Shah Launches Investigation.

The shah of Persia, Riza Khan, investigated further and discovered intense unrest in Iraq, hinting at a secret mobilization and organization against Great Britain. Persia ordered a mobilization of troops on the Indo-Persian frontier. To soothe the nerves of the Turks the shah arranged a meeting with Kemal Pasha to justify the action. Kemal Pasha agreed with the wisdom of the move and his own mobilization followed.

A few hours after the Turkish mobilization the soviet commissar of war at Tashkent, who acts independently of Moscow in Islamic matters, ordered soviet armies to Turkestan and to the Indian frontier.

Some millions of dispossessed Russian Turcomans are roaming Mesopotamia and the Caspian districts. Thousands of these have penetrated Kashmir and Afghanistan, and have caused trouble. They are all Moslem fanatics. The Turkish and Persian governments are watching them closely, as they fear their presence may lead to a tense diplomatic situation, either with Russia or Great Britain.

CHURCH LEADERS ASK REVIVAL OF FAITH AS CURE FOR WORLD ILLS

A lenten appeal was issued yesterday by 100 prominent Chicago clergymen and laymen of various Protestant faiths for the use of the present religious season for a devotional emphasis as the best cure for present ills. The appeal urged that today, Ash Wednesday, mark the beginning of a spiritual drive in churches of all denominations.

Among those who signed the appeal are Dr. Robert Clements, president of the Chicago Church federation; Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of the Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church; Dr. Charles E. McAllister, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, and George W. Dixon.

"The financial depression which has gripped the world has its counterpart in a spiritual depression," said the appeal. "This has threatened an invasion of sordid materialism, moral chaos, and political disintegration. Therefore we join in issuing this appeal for a revival of faith in God. We urge the churches and Christians everywhere to pray for the movement to advance the kingdom of God on earth."

Widow's $35,000 Bonds Found in Broker's Office

Bonds valued at $35,000, which were obtained from Mrs. C. Jennie Kingsley, a Benton Harbor widow, by alleged fraudulent means, were found by detectives from the state's attorney's office yesterday in the possession of the Gould-Mack brokerage company at 208 South La Salle street.

After questioning Harold H. Gould, 782 Bittersweet place, and Alfred Mack, 200 East Chestnut street, heads of the brokerage concern, Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, said that the company had received the bonds in the regular course of business and was innocent.

BUSINESS UNITES TO CUT INDIANA'S PUBLIC SPENDING

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Formation of an organization dedicated to reduction of public expenditures as a measure of tax relief was announced tonight by William G. Irwin, Columbus banker and manufacturer. The organization, the Indiana Association for Tax Justice, will have headquarters here.

Citing taxes as the one great problem in the present economic situation, "which will not yield to any measure of personal thrift or prudent management," and as part of the dam which must be dynamited before the stream of commerce can wash away the wreckage of depression, Irwin outlined the following platform:

1. Immediate emergency reduction of 1932 public expenditures to permit every unit of government to close the current year without deficit despite reductions in revenue through tax delinquencies.

2. Concentration at once by citizens and public officials on reduction to rock bottom of local government budgets for 1933.

3. As a product of careful research and broad minded consideration of the state's long range welfare, a comprehensive program of legislation designed to assure greater economy throughout public administration for consideration by the next regular session of the Indiana general assembly in 1933.

FATHER, SON ENTER PLEA OF GUILTY TO BANKING MISDEEDS

Rensselaer, Ind., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Peter W. Meyn, 75 years old, president of the First Trust and Savings bank of Hammond, which closed a year ago with $9,000,000 in deposits, and his son, Walter E. Meyn, pleaded guilty in the Jasper County Circuit court here today to charges of making unauthorized loans to themselves.

The pleas of his attorneys that the father is suffering from cancer and requires medical treatment caused Special Judge Elmore Barce to postpone sentence until May 5. Walter E. Meyn, who was vice president of the bank, was sentenced to serve from two to fourteen years in the penitentiary and fined $2,006, double the amount of the loans he made himself. The father faces a similar prison term and a fine of $3,200.

Adam Dorsch, note teller of the closed bank, was sentenced to from two to fourteen years on his plea of guilty to a $300 forgery. He was fined $10, the minimum allowed by law, after he had told the judge that he lost all his money in the bank failure.

There are additional charges against the Meyns, and against Clifford A. Elting and Norman Bridge, who were also officials of the bank, charging embezzlement, forgery, conspiracy, overdrafts and unauthorized loans. They were to be disposed of later.

Louis Alterie's Kidnap Bond Set at $50,000

Bonds for Louis Alterie, former Chicago gangster, charged with kidnaping, were set at $50,000 by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court yesterday. Alterie was recently extradited from Colorado, where he has been running a dude ranch.

Alterie, with John Pingera, alleged ringleader of the kidnaping gang, and William Thomas are accused of the abduction a year ago of Edward Dobkin, reputed wealthy gambler.

JUDGE DELAYS TRIAL OF STATE AUDITOR NELSON

The trial of State Auditor Oscar Nelson on a charge of conspiracy, growing out of the closing last June of the Waukegan State bank, was continued for a week yesterday by Circuit Judge E. D. Shurtleff at Woodstock.

The postponement to Feb. 15 was by stipulation between opposing attorneys. It was granted in the afternoon after the lawyers had held a five hour conference. Nelson was arraigned a month ago before Judge Shurtleff on a charge of misfeasance. After the prosecution had presented its evidence the judge ordered the jury to bring in a not guilty finding.

The postponement of the conspiracy trial is involved in the plan, announced Monday, to reopen the Waukegan State bank by merging its assets and deposits with those of the Waukegan National bank, which also closed last June, and to reorganize both institutions as the Citizens' Trust and Savings bank.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county sought a postponement of the Nelson case pending the outcome of the reorganization plan on Monday, when George Woodruff, former chairman of the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago, and Norman O. Geyer, former president of the Waukegan State bank, were granted continuances to Feb. 23.

Nelson, Woodruff, Geyer, and two other officials of the Waukegan bank were indicted in Lake county on charges of conspiracy. The first three obtained a change of venue to McHenry county and Nelson got a severance.

Declares Fear Is Chief Basis of Jealousy

Realizing Cause Helps with Cure.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Is it possible to be jealous of a person and not be in love with him?" asks H. M.

I don't think so. The only claim to virtue that can possibly be attached to jealousy is the fact that some degree of love must inspire it. There must be some desire for the affections of the object of the jealousy or the thing simply would not exist.

I think it can be baldly stated that there cannot be real jealousy without love. There can be love without jealousy, wherein bigger, better and surer-of-oneself emotions are found.

A lack of self-confidence, or fear [much the same thing under circumstances of jealousy], is the basis of attacks. If this fact can be fully faced, if the jealous one can see himself or herself in the real light of an inferiority complex sufferer, there is a cure.

But if the victim goes on blindly attributing the disease to some happening or person outside himself, there isn't any remedy. That is, if the sufferer is more concerned with finding out whether or not the suspicions are well founded, than in finding out what in him or her causes the jealous pangs.

If you can catch this devastating ailment in its infancy—that is, in the days of courtship and marriage—and confront yourself with the honest fact that in showing jealousy you reveal your own weakness, you've got it under control.

Every time the fox you are harboring in your breast gnaws at your heart, tell yourself that for a self-respecting lady or gentleman you have a pretty low opinion of yourself. That you're scared to death you are going to lose your beloved to some one with a worthier opinion of self, and therefore worthier of his affections. That is the whole truth and nothing but the truth about jealousy.

One thing you must never, never do, supposing that you are a victim of the green eyed trouble maker, is to show your hand. If the fox must gnaw, don't voice the pain. Suffer in silence.

The moment you give expression to your suspicions and your doubts and your fears, you put an instrument of torture into the hands of the accused. And you don't know what pangs are until that accused begins wielding said implement of torture.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Needs a Little Discipline.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been engaged for three years, but I find my fiancée is going out with other young men, to which I object. What should I do? LEO."

She just needs to be taken in hand and you're the man who should do it.

Indications of Love.

"Dear Miss Blake: How could I find out whether the boy I love loves me? LONESOME."

Can't you judge from the attentions the boy gives you, from the things he says, and from his attitude?

Omit Unwise Test.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl lets me kiss her but I don't think she enjoys it. How can I make her fond of me? W. J. D."

Perhaps it would be better not to subject the girl to these tests.

Sounds Too Frivolous.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am hopelessly in love with a girl who said she loves me, too, but she runs around with other boys. Is she worth while marrying? LOVESICK TOM."

Not until she gets the running around out of her system.

Letting Baby Touch Things Ends Trouble

Writer Tells Remedy for Universal Habit.

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"For goodness sake, send me quickly that leaflet about babies who are always getting into things!"

It didn't have a special delivery stamp on it, but it was nevertheless a special hurry call that came through the mail to me one day. So I sent the leaflet which is called, "How Not to Say, 'Don't Touch'." I call it by that name because the very first thing to do with a baby who is experimenting with his muscles and his sense of touch is to stop saying "Don't" and also "Don't touch."

Instead, let him do all the touching ing possible. He's going to do it, anyhow, if he's a lively, normal, curious youngster. He's going to touch things even if it raises ructions. He's got to do it. Nature's making him do it. So the best thing to do is to let him touch things. But learn to do so with judgment.

Another young mother writes, "I have a fine boy who is just the picture of health. He is 1½ years old, weighs 32 pounds, and I believe he has more energy than a five horse motor."

Still another writes: "My son is 8 months old, walks and creeps about and consequently 'gets into everything.' I would like to know the right way to correct him."

So, we see our mothers growing in wisdom. They know there is a right way and a wrong way—though we don't call the procedure "correcting" them. We can't correct them because they are already correct. Nature working in them is saying, "The correct way for you to learn is by doing—so do as hard as you can."

So, we don't correct them; we guide them. We don't dam up their energy; we help them to make it flow in the right channels.

The "Don't Touch" leaflet contains hints for the parents of babies and young children. It will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mme. Kalinin Works on Siberian Farm as Part of Her Duty

MOSCOW, Feb. 9. — Russia's "first lady," the wife of Michael Kalinin, president of the soviets, plays her part in building socialism in Russia, not as the country's official hostess, but as the active manager of a big state grain farm in Siberia.

She is not known as Mme. President, or even as Mme. Kalinin, but simply as Comrade Kalinin, or by her maiden name, Katerina Ivanova. She has done what many others of her sisters in high places in the soviet state have done and entered the ranks of the workers in the peasants' republic. Mme. Stalin, for example, wife of Josef Stalin, secretary of the communist party and sometimes called Russia's "dictator," is completing a course in advanced chemistry to take an executive place in the textile trust.

As a party member, Mme. Kalinin adheres rigidly to the communist code. She is 48 years old and the mother of four children, but she scorns even the plain comforts afforded by her small apartment in the Kremlin

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

Why do we continually admire qualities in others which we would condemn in ourselves? Some one we know takes a perfectly improbable chance and, of course, loses, and our usual remark is: "Well, he had his nerve anyway. You've got to admire him for that." Yet if we did the same sort of fool thing and lost, as we probably would, we would kick ourselves all around the block and say: "I certainly should have had more sense."

In yesterday's play-a-problem West and East took a great chance and won. It is interesting for that reason. Yet the bidding was hardly sound. This was the hand:

NORTH
♠—9,7,2
♥—J,9,6
♦—A,J,7,4

WEST
♥—A,Q,10
♦—10,9,6,5
♣—K,3

EAST (Dealer)
♠—6,5,4
♥—7,3,2
♦—2

SOUTH
♠—Q,10,8
♥—K,8,5,4
♦—K,Q,8,3
♣—A,2

East dealt and passed. South bid one no-trump. West doubled. North passed and East bid two clubs. South passed. West now bid two spades and North passed. East felt sure West only had a four card spade suit, since otherwise he probably would have bid it over the no-trump in place of doubling. East therefore went back into clubs with three clubs. South passed. West, still hopeful of game and having four to the ten in diamonds, went into three no-trumps. North passed. East was not only afraid of his singleton diamond but also thought his hand was worthless at no-trumps [which it was], and therefore went back to four clubs. After South's pass West thought his hand was altogether too strong to stop short of game and took the bid to five.

South opened the ♦ K, which took, and followed with the ♦ 3, which East trumped with the ♣ 4. Having lost one trick and knowing that he must lose the ace of trumps, East decided he must make an immediate trump lead to forestall any possibility of his opponents making any other small trump honor. He therefore led the ♣ 6, South played low, the K came up from the dummy and took the trick. If South plays the ace it simply makes it easier for East. Dummy now led back a small club. Since East has the ace placed, he played low from his own hand and the ace came up from South. South now led the ♦ Q, which East trumped with the ♣ 8. East now led the ♣ Q and followed with the ♠ 4, which he finessed in his dummy with the ♠ J. Dummy now cashed in the ♠ A, K, 3, and to the eleventh trick led the ♦ 10. North covered with the J and East trumped with the ♣ 9. East now took his final chance. He led a small heart and, when South played low, finessed dummy's Q, which held. Dummy then played out the ace to the last trick for five odd and the game.

A very interesting hand and well played. You must admit, however, that East and West had lots of luck.

Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

NORTH
♠—A,Q,J,10,7,3
♥—8,7,5
♣—Q

WEST
♠—5,4,2
♥—9
♦—Q,J,10,6

EAST
♠—6
♥—A,K,J,10,6,4,3
♦—A,7,3

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—K,9,8
♥—Q,2
♣—A,K,J,10,5

Bid and play the hand, and then compare the result with the one printed.

German Jobless Up Again; Total Passes Six Million

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Unemployment in Germany for the second half of January, it was announced today, had increased 75,000 to 6,041,000.

Tells Method of Repotting House Plants

Three conditions exist under each of which the home gardener of February finds it necessary to pot house plants.

Rooted cuttings or slips from old stock; the outgrowing of a small pot by the plant; or the need for change of soil will in each case make possible the employing of the same potting methods.

In potting plants which have grown in the same container for some time it is quite desirable to break up the mass of soil and roots and introduce new soil into the root system. For this purpose the nearby greenhouse or florist may provide soil and pots, although most gardeners maintain a reserve in the basement during freezing weather.

In the bottom of the tin can, punctured with a large nail, or the clay pot, place two or three pebbles or a piece of broken flower pot. Use care in keeping the drainage hole open. Then add whatever dirt is needed to bring the plant to the correct height and compress the soil that has been sifted about the roots, leaving sufficient space for water.

It is desirable also to water house plants and newly potted plants from the bottom, to prevent caking of the surface soil. Place the pot in a pan of water and allow the water to be absorbed, as it would be under natural conditions, until the surface becomes damp.

As a rule a plant will flower earlier in a small pot than in large one. Many make the mistake of using pots too large, causing the plant to grow stems and leaves instead of flowers. This is particularly true of such fibrous plants as the geraneum, while English ivy can be allowed ample pot space since green growth is to be encouraged.

BY MARY MEADE.

A CIVIC minded gentleman from Indiana has written us a letter asking that we give the following information to you. He has shown a fine purpose in the interest he has taken in relieving the existing conditions of starvation among our poor. If the quotations seem a little disjointed it is due to the fact that I am only able to quote excerpts from his letter. And before we pass on his suggestions to you, may we may thank you to him for writing us, and hope that this small bit will be of assistance to him and the people he is helping.

Mr. W. E. R. writes as follows:

"The information contained in this letter is worth millions. Not to you . . . . not to the writer . . . . but to our hungry countrymen, whom we all wish to help. Will you get this information to the families with but a few dollars to buy their winter's food, and get this food to those subsisting on charity?

"My discovery is this: Whole wheat as it comes from the threshing machine is extremely palatable. It is the cheapest food known, and one of the most nourishing. Five to eight meals may be had for one cent. One dollar buys 120 pounds of whole wheat. One dollar buys ten or twelve pounds of whole wheat bread. One dollar buys two to five pounds of prepared cereals.

"From the lowly breakfast porridge served with cream or sugar, or salt, pepper, and butter, through the omelets, salads, etc . . . . clear to a mock chop suey, it [whole wheat grains] adds a pep and a nutty flavor surprising to the uninitiated. Most any soup is improved by a handful of whole wheat thoroughly cooked.

"Enclosed you will find a few recipes devised in our home showing the adaptability of wheat to culinary requirements." You may have these recipes for the asking; but inasmuch as this department has not yet had time to try them out, we are not printing them today. However, they do sound good!

On the menu given yesterday for tonight's dinner, we referred to a roasted lamb loaf. Here it is:

ROASTED LAMB LOAF.

Simmer a lamb shoulder until tender enough to slip out the bones. Press the meat close together with the hands, shaping it into a loaf. Place it in a roasting pan, and spread on top a thick layer of bread dressing mixed with poultry seasoning, salt, and pepper. Pour about one cupful of the liquor in which the lamb was roasted into the roasting pan, and bake the meat until brown. Baste it frequently. Use a moderate oven [550° F.] and leave the pan uncovered. This roast slices down nicely and is a change from the usual roast.

ROAST ROUND OF BEEF.

Buy a piece of top round at least four inches thick. Put it in a roasting pan, uncovered, and sear in a hot oven [475 degrees Fahrenheit] for fifteen minutes. Lower the flame, add two tablespoons of chopped suet or drippings, cover and finish roasting in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] until tender. Allow about twenty minutes to the pound. Season after first half hour of cooking. Add sweet potatoes, previously parboiled and peeled, half an hour before the meat is to be done, and turn them to brown evenly.

Fritz Kreisler Plays Fairy Godmother to Irish Girl Violinist

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 9.—(AP)—This is one of those fairy godmother stories about Fritz Kreisler, as today's Dublin Evening News tells it. It seems the great violinist was on his way home from a concert last night and as he stepped into his car he heard a fiddle playing. In front of the theater he had just left an Irish girl named Lillian Mack was playing for pennies. Kreisler stood listening for several minutes, then he asked the girl to call at his hotel. She played for him there and today she signed a contract for a concert next week at the Theater Royal.

Guards Transfer Treasure Found in Mexican Tomb

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The last of the treasure uncovered in the ancient tombs at Monte Alban in Oaxaca was brought here last night secretly under a heavy guard of detectives. It was stored in the vaults of the ministry of education. Great caution was exercised in moving the treasure because of its value. Some of it had been brought in piece by piece previously, but most of it was in last night's consignment.

Art of Indian Finding Place in City's Life

Princess Runs Shop to Help Craftsmen.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

"CHICAGO, famous for its stockyards and opera, railroads and Insull," cries the guide as he hustles the city's visitors on a ninety minute tour of the boulevards. True enough, but does he also know that our town has a new claim to distinction in a little shop that is doing a job never before attempted by any little shop in any corner of the world?

This is the colorful American Indian emporium at 540 North Michigan avenue, purely a philanthropic enterprise, founded a few short months ago by an Indian princess for Indians and the perpetuation of their arts and crafts. To see all of the smart motors that draw up before the door almost daily you might well think the town is "going" Indian again.

The red men had a good deal to do with our early beginnings on the shores of Lake Michigan, you will remember. In fact the stalk of Indian moccasins accounts for the location of the city and its loop since the Indians established Clark, Lake, Milwaukee, Ogden, Cottage and other of our important thoroughfares as trails long years back.

And now Princess Tsianina [just replace the first three letters with a "ch" and you will approach the correct pronunciation] is finding an enthusiastic interest among prominent Chicagoans in the arts and crafts of the Indians and her plan to help those still on the reservations. Who doesn't know of the pleasure Mrs. Nathaniel Owings [the former Emily Otis] finds in anything pertaining to the red men and the romantic southwest?

Then there is John L. Kraft, well known as one of Chicago's finest collectors, who revived the war dance and the tomahawk as a subject of conversation three or four years ago when he set up in Lincoln park a family tree so old its beginning is lost to antiquity. This is the totem pole "Kwa Ma Rolas," the tribal symbol of the Haida Indians of Alaska, one of two such poles outside of museums in the United States.

Mrs. Carter Blatchford is an enthusiastic patron of the shop and, we are told, has ordered enough Navajo rugs, baskets, and chairs to make her Wisconsin home "Indian" this summer. Then, too, Mrs. Walter Dill Scott of Evanston is an honorary member of the First Daughters of America [an Indian woman's club with ten members, in case you don't know] that helped its president, Princess Tsianina, organize the shop.

Princess Tsianina, whose name means "wild flower," took a few minutes yesterday from her duties as "sales girl" to talk of Chicago, which she loves, the shop, and herself.

"I'm not really a princess," she laughed, her black eyes flashing. "You see, there is no such thing as an Indian princess. My father was a Cherokee Creek chief, and for that reason the white man conferred the title upon me and it has always remained.

"In my travels about the country a few years back I heard so many expressions against the Indians, it put me on the defensive," she continued. "I began to appreciate more and more that as a race we have a beautiful art, in fact, it's the very background of American art and I hoped some day to do something to perpetuate it."

This in short is the reason for the Little American Indian shop.

"Why it is amazing what this has already done for their morale," Princess Tsianina went on.

To the suggestion that the Indian is often stamped as lazy Princess Tsianina objected strenuously, explaining that any one's ambition might be destroyed if he had to combat the obstacles that have faced the redskin.

Cook Ranks Third in Student Vote on Ideal Woman

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The old-fashioned girl who can cook has been relegated to third place and the gin drinking flapper of the petting parties doesn't rate at all in a ballot by 482 Columbia university students who outlined the qualities they desire in a wife.

Then, considering the other side of the question, the majority of 482 girls at Barnard college were agreed upon one asset their ideal husband must possess—money.

All this came to light today, when the Columbia Spectator and the Barnard Bulletin made public the result of a joint survey, during which students were questioned regarding "My Ideal Woman" and "My Ideal Man."

Speaking for Columbia, the ideal woman was all this:

Cultured, clever, sensitive, and her conversation combines gentleness and wit.

Second choice: Fond of sports, apt in business affairs, and an understanding, loyal chum.

Third choice: Affectionate housewife, practical and competent, and a good cook.

Barnard's first choice was this: Culture, money, good looks, and a sense of humor.

Second: A cultured gentleman, a facile conversationalist, not particularly handsome, but at home with his thoughts and his books.

The third best man: An athlete, popular with men and admired by women.

White Continu es to Dominate in Fashions for Sports Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The last few seasons in Paris styles have been a series of white days and nights for all the summer. White sports clothes and white evening gowns monopolized the social spotlight.

This winter, however, a reparations commission of dressmakers and buyers has been seeking to break up this monopoly—to replace white with colors. A certain success has resulted in evening fashions. Lots of fashionable women are beginning to wear colored evening frocks, but for sports white is going to be mighty difficult to dislodge.

The sensibility of white to the grime and tear of daily existence and its imperative need for constant and expensive care endears it to the heart of the elegante, who always wants something that ordinary mortals can't afford to indulge in. White is the great luxury to which she clings, and the smartest sports clothes for the south are many of them white again this season. White with splashes of bright color, preferably either light red or vivid blue.

Simple jacket ensembles like the Maggy Rouff outfit in our sketch, made of pure white silk serge, are gifted with the grand chic for the coming season. The brilliant red, black, and white silk scarf that is worn bib fashion around the neck is the trade mark of 1932 in sports styles.

The jacket of this suit is collarless and straight and the long cuffs may be unbuttoned and removed, leaving short sleeves. The dress is tailored with a scalloped skirt yoke and a braided white leather belt, with a heart shaped leather buckle.

Rockefeller Sr. Is Host to Small Group of Guests

Ormond Beach, Fla., Feb. 9.—[U.P.]—A small group of guests were entertained by John D. Rockefeller Sr. at his winter home, the Casements, here tonight. The 92-year-old millionaire, clad in a tuxedo, seemed in the best of spirits. The affair was a climax to a busy day of posing for photographs, interviews with newspapermen and leisurely strolls among the tropical flowers in his extensive, sunny garden. Today marked the first prolonged appearance out-of-doors for Rockefeller in nearly two weeks, during which he has been confined to his room with a slight cold.

Eva Le Gallienne Returns to Plan Theater Season

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Eva Le Gallienne, who has been in Europe for several months, sailed for home today, announcing that she would begin the sixth season of her civic repertory theater in New York next November. There are no scars from the burns she received last summer when an oil stove exploded in her country home near New York City.

Jolly Tavern Club Party Gets First Place Despite Lent

Annual Meeting Filled with Fun Although Business Gets a Share of Time.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WE probably should write about something serious for a "lead" on Ash Wednesday—Lenten lectures, or something of the sort—but instead we're going to tell about the jolly time the Tavern club members had at their annual meeting and stag party Monday night. We weren't there, of course, for women were barred from the clubrooms that night, but our scouts report that it was a grand party, with very little business and much conviviality and good fellowship. The business consisted of electing a new board of governors which will meet today for luncheon at 12:30 o'clock to elect new officers. The new governors are J. Russell Forgan, John Holabird, Alfred Shaw, Alfred MacArthur, Roy D. Keehn, Robert C. Orr, Karleton Hackett, Augustus S. Peabody, and Thomas Tallmadge.

A buffet supper was served after the meeting and then the members entertained themselves with games, story telling, and whatever else men do when they are not bothered with any "wimmen folks." By the way, we are told that "Johnny" Winterbotham, Sam Rowe, and Alfred MacArthur were the center of attraction during one part of the evening, when they were exhausting their répertoires of stories, each trying to outdo the others. Of course whenever two or more Tavern members get together nowadays they talk of the April Fooleries and try to think up stunts to make this year's show as successful as the two previous ones have been.

Plans for the Fooleries are progressing a bit slowly, for Arthur Bissell, chairman of the special entertainment committee, has been ill for three weeks, but he hopes to be up and about soon and then plans will begin to materialize. There has been a rumor prevalent that the Fooleries would be given this year on a showboat which is being built in Sheboygan and which will be brought down here for the performance, but we haven't been able to substantiate this interesting rumor. The wives of the members weren't sitting at home moping Monday night while their husbands had a good time, for bridge and theater parties by the score were gotten up by the deserted spouses.

Thomas Harris Osgoods Announce Birth of Son

A note from Mrs. Thomas B. Marston, postmarked Sewickley, Pa., brought us the news yesterday that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harris Osgood of that city are being congratulated upon the birth of a son on Feb. 2. The baby has been named Thomas Marston Osgood for Mrs. Osgood's late father. Mrs. Osgood was Miss Dorothy Marston of Lake Forest.

Mrs. Charles M. Hewitt of 1411 State Park way is leaving tomorrow to spend the balance of the winter in Pasadena.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey is planning to go east in about a week to visit her children, Charles Jr., who is in Pittsburgh this winter; Louise, who is at Farmington, and Albert, who is pursuing his studies at St. Paul's. The Deweys and their elder daughter, Suzette, and her husband, Frederick M. Alger Jr., exchange frequent visits for the Algers live in Grosse Pointe, just out of Detroit, and it is fairly simple to dash back and forth from here to Detroit, but the younger members of the family do not get to see their parents so often during the busy winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Honore Palmer have rejoined their sons, Honore Jr., and D'Orsay, and Mrs. D'Orsay Palmer, at the Palmer house after attending the marriage last Saturday in Boston of Potter Palmer III. and Miss Rose Movius. Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer have returned to Chicago also and so have Mrs. Barrett Wendell and Miss Barbara Wendell who went to Boston for the wedding.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody and young "Stuyvie," who have been in Arizona since shortly after Christmas, are at the Huntington in Pasadena now. Mrs. Peabody's brother, Columbus Healy, also is there.

Chapel Guild to Hold Lenten Lectures

Announcements are out for the series of Lenten lectures sponsored annually by the fashionable Chapel Guild of the Cenacle. The first lecture will be held next Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Edward N. Hurley at 3400 Sheridan road. The subject will be "The Place of Liturgy in Religion," and the speaker will be the Rev. Father E. J. Mullaly, who has been chaplain of the guild since its beginning. Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. William Roy Carney, and Mrs. Hurley are prominent members of the guild, which pays for the maintenance of the little Cenacle chapel out of the lecture fund.

Members of the Antiquarian society of the Art institute and their guests will hear and see an illustrated lecture by Dr. Phyllis Ackerman on tapestry and history today at 11 o'clock in the Goodman Studio theater. Dr. Ackerman will talk on "The Riddle of the Gothic Tapestry Designers" next Monday morning at 11:30 o'clock at the Arts club.

The Chicago Wells club will meet today at the residence of Mrs. James M. Carry (Mary Trigg Waller), 7042 Chappel avenue.

Plan Rummage Sale For Animal Shelter

Those well known women who have a deep enough interest in all animals to work for the stray ones and not just to care for their own pets, are busy these days getting together "white elephants" to sell in the Shelter Rummage shop which has been opened in a store in front of the new North Side Animal Shelter at 5352 Broadway, to help pay the running expenses of the shelter. Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, who is the founder and good angel of "Orphans of the Storm" and the friend of all animals, has sent several carloads of things in to the shop. The shelter was started more than four years ago by Mrs. Dorothy Eagles in a small building on the rear of a lot at 6500 North Clark street. Mrs. McLaughlin, Mrs. John Jay Abbott, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Miss Mabel Linn, and Mrs. Eames MacVeagh are among the life members and these women, together with a number of others, have helped Mrs. Eagles carry on the work and maintain the shelter in spite of great handicaps. One anonymous friend has made it possible to move into new and better quarters at 5352 Broadway and although the new kennels are now in use, the formal opening will not take place until next Monday when a reception will be held from 2 to 10 o'clock. The officers and some of the committee members will receive and all who are interested are invited to attend. Among those on the advisory board are Mrs. Abbott, Miss Mildred Fitzhugh, Mrs. John J. Mitchell and Mrs. William S. Ennis.

We understand everyone who is going to the opening of "Mourning Becomes Electra" next Monday at the Blackstone theater is in a quandary about what to do about dressing. Theater Guild subscribers ordinarily "dress" for the theater, especially for openings, but who wants to appear in formal evening clothes at 5:30 in the afternoon, the time for the curtain to rise on the first of the three plays which form O'Neill's trilogy? If we remember correctly, there were quite a few at the opening of O'Neill's other play, "Strange Interlude" which started in the late afternoon also, in evening clothes, so probably there will be some next Monday also. There is a dinner intermission from 7 to 8 during the performance and many dinner parties are being planned for nearby hotels and clubs on the opening night.

Exercise Needed to Prepare for Waistline Styles

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about the latest thing in figure cultivation. We described it as "polishing off" after the excess weight or underweight had been dissipated. And meant inspiring muscles to carry the body with such line of grace and poise as to make movement a thing of sheer beauty.

It's just as well this movement is on, right now. And believe me, women and girls are signing up for instructions along these very lines. The spring mode indicates a great need for this polishing off. The gradual elevation of the waistline is but one of the outstanding features of the spring mode. And if a figure doesn't have to be polished down to perfection of line for that waist leap, it never will need it.

For that raised waistline you are going to need [or want very, very much] a young, slim looking outline, a poised and easy grace of movement. A stiff girdle, a heavily boned corset isn't going to turn the trick for any of us.

A corset we'll need. But it will be one of those smart new ones that give the corseless effect, and to which you, yourself, must contribute your own quota of greyhound flesh and bone composition.

And you will want a good bustline, neither too full, nor too flat. As for stomach, you just can't have one unless you want to look like the proverbial sack tied in the middle.

Practice your home work, then, in the matter of diet and exercise—and concentrate on that midsector and bustline for awhile until we get that section polished off for the most discriminating taste. I don't know anything better that you can do than to stretch. Stretch with the hands raised high overhead. Go up on your toes and down again stretching, stretching, stretching. Stretch to your toes with the knees held taut. But keep on stretching.

Nothing will put that slumping chest and waistline into shape so determinedly, or well. If you are very much overdeveloped in these parts you may need some additional muscular work. But I'll give you instructions by pamphlet if you'll entrust your request with the usual stamped, addressed envelope.

The Charming Cheat

By Clara Sharpe Hough

SYNOPSIS.

Ricardo Dane visits New York in search of his aunt, Miss Filomena Stanley, his mother's half-sister. Ricardo's mother had recently died and left him heir to the ranch and mountain land in Romeu valley, California, where he had spent most of his life. He intended to find his sole remaining near relative and bring her back to Romeu valley. He had understood this to be his mother's dying wish. His aunt, an actress, had been out of favor with the family, although his mother had sent her checks.

Ricardo locates a Filomena Stanley, but instead of an aged aunt he finds a beautiful young aunt. She is living in a Bohemian studio with a Follies girl, named Frances. Ricardo readily believes this lovely creature, who acknowledges the relationship. His arrival was fortunate for Filomena, who had been out of work for weeks and was in a sad state financially. Ricardo showers her with gifts and moves her into a better apartment. He moves into the same building on another floor. Webster Sutton, a college friend of Ricardo's, visits New York. He and Eunice Greenway, a girl from home, who is studying in New York, are entertained by Ricardo and his aunt. Eunice is a friend of Ricardo's fiancée, Rachel Beatty. She heartily disapproves of Filomena. Web believes his friend is being trimmed and, before he leaves, tells him so. Ricardo learns that Web was right when Filomena is called home, due to the illness of her father. He goes with her and brings her back to New York to have his revenge. After another search, Ricardo finds his real aunt. She is acting in a Broadway production.

INSTALLMENT XV.

DECEPTION.

When he called at Filomena's door next morning at ten o'clock he found her in riding togs.

"I don't think we'll go riding today," he said at once.

"Stormy?" she inquired, in evident relief.

"No. Other business. More important. I've been thinking—but come here, woman, and make me welcome. My God, you act as if I were the laundryman."

She obediently implanted an aunt like kiss upon his cheek. He repaid this with a completely devastating embrace.

"You're awfully impetuous," she complained, brushing back her hair, "I've got to lipstick myself all over again."

"You never asked me to marry you," said Filomena.

She carefully arranged her complexion at the little French mirror between the windows.

"My new lipstick," she said, "it's supposed to be everlasting through all weather."

"Got a funny taste, I say."

"It's not meant to be tasted. But you can go swimming in it. It's seaproof."

"I only hope you haven't poisoned me with it. It's awful. I vote for the old kind."

"Your vote has nothing to do with it," she returned crushingly, "I do all the balloting in the lipstick question."

"Well, I have voted this morning that we have an important business errand. And you're to wear your green dress. So snap it up, will you?"

"Been finding my aunt," he told her.

"Did you really find her?" she asked curiously.

"I've got tickets to see her play tonight. Want to go? It's 'The Truth About Miss Marsh'. Aunt Filomena nearly gets shot in the last act."

"Wonderful. I always scream when the shots ring out. I'd love to see my namesake anyway."

"We'll go eat dinner at an Italian's first. Come on now, we've got a long ride ahead of us."

He refused to answer her insistent questions as to destination, and pleasantly bickering over it they went out together and took the subway.

She made caustic remarks about his choice of conveyance, but until they climbed the stairs at Park place he declined to enter a discussion over it. Then he said,

"See that tall palatial building over there?"

"Yes. It's the postoffice, isn't it? Did you bring me down to ask for the morning mail?"

"No, ignoramus. That's the City Hall. It's where you get all the marriage licenses."

"I never got a marriage license in my life."

"Well, you're going to. Right now. Then we're prepared for emergencies."

"I call that a dirty insinuation," cried Filomena, "and I don't think I'll go."

He drew her hand under him. "You've already gone," he said, "you're as good as there now. You come on up like a good girl and tell the gentleman how old you are, and I'll let you ride home in a taxi. No, not all the way. We'll taxi to the Square and get a bus. God knows that's enough to break a man. If you were the right sort of girl you'd say 'Let's walk, darling, and save for the furniture.'"

"But I don't want any furniture."

"No, you got the furniture first. That's you all over."

They climbed the steep stairs to the city clerk's office.

"You know, you can be married right in here somewhere," Ricardo remarked. "You can, if you aren't too fussy. Of course I know you're too fussy, but there's a man here who marries a couple every hour, or every minute, or something."

"Been doing a lot of research, haven't you? Well, he won't marry me every hour, or every minute, either. I couldn't be married in this dress, anyway. I have to have something blue and some money in my heel."

She was chattering on because she probably felt darned nervous, he thought. At that, you couldn't blame her. She hadn't known all these days just what he meant to do, and she had been decent enough, after all the cheating she had already done, to wait and see what demand he was ready to make of her. Probably had been worrying her darling little head.

For after all, suppose she had had the price of some pretty clothes and a piano out of him. To take it out of her in the usual way, to exact the payment of Broadway, would be a rather cheap ending to it all. What he had suffered most was humiliation. And she would feel the same thing, in the same ratio. That would make the arc of the circle complete. When, tomorrow morning, or whatever day she did plan for it [she was doing her own planning, of course] she went to the church [with Frances], and waited and he did not come, she would know then. For he had no idea of coming.

Her plans would only duplicate the plans and anticipations he had entertained before he had learned that he was being duped. She would be no more chagrined and disillusioned than he had been.

He sighed a little. She glanced at him in surprise. He had apparently been listening to her cheerful flow of remarks. She was silent then until they reached Washington Square and got out of their taxi to mount a bus.

"You never asked me to marry you," said Filomena, almost accusingly.

"You ask me," he suggested. "Don't you think it would be proper?"

"I never supposed you meant—" she began, and broke off to stare out of the window at the stark branches of trees in a square.

"You never will know just what I mean," he returned.

"I think I'll get out at Thirty-fourth," she said after a moment. "I'll do some shopping. You needn't bother, if you've anything to do.

"I haven't anything to do, but I don't much want to come shopping. Rather ride. What're you shopping for?"

"Thinking of buying a wedding gown. It's going to be biege, with a topaz necklace."

"I suppose I buy the necklace."

"I buy the necklace. You only pay for it."

"They all wear rings, I suppose?"

"A modest circlet of platinum to show the state of bondage. You buy that. I don't even know there is such a thing until you slip it on my finger. Then I'm delightfully surprised at its elegance.

"Heavens, have I got to go ask for a wedding ring? No, I haven't either. I go into Tiffany's and say 'I'd like a modest platinum circlet suitable for my aunt.'"

They broke into delighted laughter, from which she emerged presently to request the loan of a dime.

He offered loose coins on his palm.

"Why a dime? You're not in your usual form, old girl. I didn't suppose you'd ever stoop to asking for one mere thin dime."

She carefully selected a shiny ten-cent piece.

"A bit of silver for the heel of my shoe," she said, "and since it's borrowed, then I don't have to borrow anything else, you see."

"I haven't the foggiest notion what you're babbling about."

"Don't you know what brides wear? I'll ask you to my wedding and you can find out."

The bus rolled to a stop in response to her finger on the button. She rose, patted his shoulder. "Give my love to the horse."

"I'll call for you tonight before seven—be ready," he warned.

. . . . . .

"The Truth About Miss Marsh" was a lively play, and Filomena had two opportunities to scream when a shot rang out. Between acts he told her all about his aunt, about the place she lived, about her disdain of the ranch and about her offer to show him New York.

"She might take you to a good speakeasy," said Filomena. "I don't know much about 'em myself. But these actresses——"

"They're different from chorus girls," he agreed.

He did not succeed in catching his aunt's eye while she was on the stage, somewhat to his disappointment. It did not occur to him that he might take Filomena backstage and present her to her namesake. Filomena herself said when the curtain went down that she was pretty tired and would just as soon go straight home.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Jimmy accompanied his chum Jack to the hospital, to see Jack's new baby brother. As he looked at the tiny red mite, he seemed to think it was necessary to say something, and turning to the nurse, remarked, "He has sure got a good healthy color, I can say that for him." J. W.

Chaplin Plans New Career as Film Director

Convinced He Will Never Talk for Screen.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 9.—Charlie Chaplin's exploitation and advance agent is back from Switzerland and brings word that Charlie probably never will be seen in pictures again in his baggy pants, limber cane, battered derby, tooth brush mustache, and floppy shoes. Charlie fully intends to return to Hollywood as a producer, his representative says, but unless he changes his mind he will come back to produce such pictures as "A Woman of Paris," in which he starred Edna Purviance and brought out Adolphe Menjou nine years ago.

Charlie has made up his mind he does not want to talk on the screen; and if the popularity of present day screen entertainment requires talking, Charlie is quite content to get on the other side of the camera as director, according to his representative.

The exploitation man says Charlie's last picture, "City Lights," which already dates back two years with no follow up picture in prospect, has really made more money for the comedy genius than any of his preceding films. So Charlie doesn't have the need for money forcing him to resume work. And furthermore, according to our informant, Charlie is just as much fed up with training and preparing his pictures—which in Charlie's case has already been an arduous, fretful process—as Jack Dempsey ever used to get in drilling for a championship fight.

Radio pictures studio is the first to get started with a picture based on the Chinese-Japanese turmoil, preparing an original story, "Roar of the Dragon," for filming, with Richard Dix and Irene Dunn co-featured again, and Wesley Ruggles, who directed them in "Cimarron," again in charge. This is the first picture deliberately based on the far east warfare, although Paramount had the good luck to have "Shanghai Express" ready for release about the time things got hot, and began to reap shekels from the current interest in things oriental, although the Marlene Dietrich picture has no connection with the present situation.

Luis Trenker, the ex-Alpine guide whom Universal has imported as its newest male star, has a habit of cooking himself a preliminary supper any time he is invited out to a Hollywood party or a Hollywood banquet. Trenker attended a couple of affairs to which he was invited here, not knowing that a dinner invitation in Hollywood may mean anything from a tray of crackers and cavier at 8 o'clock, followed up by the next course at 10 o'clock, to a buffet shuffle of salad and cold meat.

He learned rapidly, however, and says "Americans are hospitable enough but they do not think of eating as seriously as I do. I used to be in the mountains all the time, and I can't get over my appetite. I would be afraid to eat as much as I feel like eating when I go to somebody's house for one of your buffet suppers."

Part of "Roar of the Dragon" will consist of Radio-Pathe News reel taken during the actual fighting.

The studio sidetacked Dix's appearance in "March of a Nation," on which something had already been done, in order to substitute the Chinese picture. Howard Estabrook is preparing the screen version and the story is the brain child of Merian Cooper, the explorer-director.

Cut Royalties to Aid French Talkie Makers

Equipment Manufacturers Act to Revive Industry.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 9.—In order to help put the virtually bankrupt producers of French talking pictures on their feet again, American and German manufacturers of sound film recording equipment agreed, after a ten d ys' meeting here, to a minimum reduction of royalties of 25 per cent and in some cases even a greater cut.

Cries of alarm have been appearing in the press here for several days concerning the present financial embarrassment of nearly all French talking picture producers. All studios at Joinville and elsewhere have been closed for several weeks and the doleful prediction was made by all cinema trade journals that the picture houses very soon will have no new French talking films to offer the public.

It was explained that the chief cause of the producers' difficulties was the excessive royalties demanded by the manufacturers, whose sound recording equipment they used. American recording equipment manufacturers, however, asserted that the royalty estimates given in the cinema trade papers were exaggerated.

On the other hand, both the Western Electric company and R. C. A. representatives at the conference accused the German manufacturers of bad faith and offering contracts to French producers with royalties stipulations just one-half of what it was agreed to charge the European field.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Meeting for Lunch.

Once when I was working as a relief stenographer for a group of real estate men, one of them came in just about noon and invited me to lunch with him.

Not thinking it would be prudent to accept, I told him I had had my lunch. Naturally I did not wish to be caught in such a lie, so I left for lunch almost immediately after he did in order to get back before him. I went into the nearest cafeteria and was pushing my tray along and nonchalantly gazing about when my eye alighted on this man and raising his head he caught my eye! Imagine!

Stock Returns and Orchestra Plays Welcome

Gitta Gradova Helps Make Concert an Event.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

TANNED, rested, and vigorous, Mr. Stock was back from his mid-winter vacation and in his customary position facing the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon.

It was a cheery, not to say high tension occasion. The audience greeted the famous conductor as though every one in Orchestra hall were on terms of intimate personal friendship with him. The orchestra laid everything of tonal beauty and accuracy in its possession before him. And Mr. Stock himself conducted as one inspired.

That there might be a culminating touch to the occasion, Miss Gitta Gradova, Chicago pianist and the soloist of the program, played Saint-Saëns Fourth Concerto, that in C minor, as though it was one of the finest and most brilliant show pieces ever written.

As a matter of fact it is, and Miss Gradova is just the sort of brilliant pianist to give it all its values. She is a better player than ever before. She is alert, speedy, in control of as many kinds of tone as the piano can produce, from persuasive lyricism to brittle hardness, and when she lashes out, tigerlike, at a rapid passage, the Saint-Saëns fireworks glow more brightly. When the performance was over the audience was unanimous in extending her the kind of approval that amounts to an ovation.

Not that the audience had been remiss in its duties as constructive listeners before. The Haydn-Brahms Variations and Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, which filled the first half of the program, are about as well known as any works in the Chicago Symphony répertoire. They were never so good to hear before. The orchestral tone was pure gold, and Mr. Stock poured it out in prodigal fashion with vitality, with gusto. Consequently the players' intermission was delayed while the audience recalled Mr. Stock to the stage again and again.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.] — Mrs. Hoover attended the luncheon today at the Washington cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul held in the refectory of the college of preachers on Mount St. Alban's. Gen. John J. Pershing acted as host, and among the others in the company were Ambassador Mellon, Undersecretary of State Castle, former Senator and Mrs. George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania, former United States Ambassador to Japan Charles Warren of Michigan, and other members of the national committee for the cathedral.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop James E. Freeman and Mrs. Freeman also were in the company.

Mrs. Mitchell, wife of the attorney general, received the guests at the third and last of the Washington Bachelors' cotillions this evening in the Mayflower, assisted by Mrs. Morrison, wife of Senator Cameron Morrison of North Carolina; Mme. Nano, wife of the Rumanian charge d'affaires; Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert and Miss Anne Madison Washington, great-grandniece of George Washington, who was official hostess at Mount Vernon, the American exhibit at the Paris exhibition last summer. Miss Patience McCormick-Goodhart, daughter of F. Hamilton McCormick-Goodhart, led the figures with Maj. Gen. George Owen Squier, and her grandmother, Mrs. Frederick E. McCormick-Goodhart was among the chaperones.

The other chaperones were Mme. Peter, wife of the Swiss minister; Mrs. Austin, wife of Senator Warren A. Austin of Vermont, and Mrs. Jacob Leander Loos, formerly of Chicago, now of St. Louis. The favors were small American flags in keeping with the bicentennial celebrations beginning this month and the supper was served after midnight at small tables in the presidential dining room.

Miss Patience McCormick-Goodhart and Gen. George Owen Squier shared honors at a dinner this evening given by Miss Peggy Tyner, daughter of Mrs. Alonso Tyner of Chicago, before the cotillion. Miss Tyner entertained a company of 22 and with her guests went later to the cotillion.

Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Wilbur were hosts at dinner at the Mayflower this evening, having among their guests the French ambassador and Mme. Claudel, Secretary and Mrs. Stimson, Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, Senator and Mrs. James E. Watson of Indiana, Representative and Mrs. Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Representative and Mrs. John B. Hollister of Ohio, the chief of staff, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and the chief of naval operations and Mrs. William V. Pratt.

Events on the Stage

"As Husbands Go," now at the Blackstone, refuses to be crowded out of Chicago by the arrival of "Mourning Becomes Electra" next week. Accordingly, on next Sunday night and for several weeks thereafter this comedy by Rachel Crothers will be found at the Adelphi theater. This arrangement will give the Theater Guild two concurrent offerings in Chicago. The management of "As Husbands Go" italicizes its intention to give Sunday night performances at the Adelphi. During the play's stay at the Blackstone the members of its cast have been spending that evening on the typical actor's holiday—watching other actors work.

The première of "Mourning Becomes Electra" at the Blackstone theater next Monday will follow New York precedent by beginning at 4:30 p. m. This arrangement is for the purpose of permitting the dramatic critics to sit in judgment through the full length of O'Neill's trilogy, which occupies six hours. All subsequent performances during the production's three weeks in Chicago will begin at 5:30 p. m.

Katharine Cornell's New York run in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" will end next Saturday night. Her tour in this play will begin next Monday in Boston. She will reach Chicago about two months hence.

Maude Adams and Otis Skinner, in their revival of "The Merchant of Venice," are flitting from town to town within striking distance of Chicago, ready to pitch camp at the Erlanger theater if "The Chocolate Soldier" should decide to move. At present, however, that operetta appears to be digging itself in for a run.

"Rhapsody in Black," the musical show by a Negro company with Ethel Waters as its star, will give a special matinee next Friday to celebrate Lincoln's birthday. Washington's birthday on the Monday of week after next will also be observed in a similar manner.

"Fata Morgana" will end its engagement at the Harris theater next Saturday night. The Harris will remain closed for a week pending the arrival of the sixth play on the schedule of the Dramatic League of Chicago. This will be "Experience Unnecessary," a farcical comedy adapted from the German by Gladys Unger, with Walter Woolf and Miss Verree Teasdale in the leading roles. C. C.

Expedition Ends 5,000 Mile Trip in Wilds of Asia

PEIPING, China, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Entering China through the great wall from Mongolia, the Citroen Haardt expedition left Kalgan, near the Mongolian border, today for Peiping on the last lap of its five thousand mile journey across the least known part of Asia.

Starting from Beirut, Syria, last March, the expedition covered a devious trail and experienced many hardships, but when it left Kalgan it was less than 100 miles from its goal.

This last 100 miles, however, includes heavy going over rock strewn defiles, and it was believed unlikely that the expedition would reach this city until Feb. 12. All members of the expedition were reported in excellent health.

"Dude" Expedition Off for Trek in South America

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Three young amateur explorers, led by Dr. Herbert Spencer Dickey, who is credited with having discovered the source of the Orinoco river, sailed today on the liner Santa Olivia for a three months' "dude" expedition through the jungles of Ecuador and Brazil.

The group includes W. Bruce MacNamee of Forest Hills, James G. Childers of Parkville, Tenn., and Agnew Fisher of Greenwich, Conn.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, is their first stop. From there they will climb the Chimborazo volcano. Later they will canoe down the Napo river to the Amazon and down the Amazon 2,000 miles to Para, Brazil.

Gallery Shows 'Winter Day' of Childe Hassam

Paris Scene Portrayed in Splendid Way.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Another occasion upon which great enthusiasm is in order is found with the presence in the O'Brien Art galleries of an early painting by Childe Hassam, "A Winter Day, Paris." It is late on a January afternoon and a golden dusk has fallen upon the gay world. Through the air snowflakes are falling rapidly and a chill wind is making their wet embrace as sharp as a rapier's thrust. Men and women with raised umbrellas are pouring from the heat of a lighted building in the background to find their way home.

By the curb in the street are carriages and horse cabs in a row. This painting is before the time of the automobile, and the coachman, with his white rubber coat, sitting on the high box holding the reins over two mettlesome horses, brings back the late '90s with a rush. A little girl and her mother are about to step into the carriage. The whole scene is exquisitely portrayed; it is, as we could have said in the beginning, a gem of a picture.

Another magnificent example of a famous contemporary American painter, Carl Melchers this time, will soon be hung in the gallery. It is his lovely "The Holy Family." Meanwhile we find on the walls a brilliant collection of fine paintings. F. M. Bennett, an Englishman and an artist but little known, is represented by a superb interior, "Punch," with gentlemen seated at the dining table in the brilliant dress of George III.'s reign. Shades of Washington loom through the splendor.

Coming back to today, Karl Wuerner, a Chicago painter, shows a very beautiful landscape, "Blossom Time," with a tree in white blossom in the foreground and beyond it a tree clothed in pink; the empty and a little chill looking spring road emphasizes the beauty of the trees and early grass. Frank Peyraud, another Chicago painter of merit, offers "The Thunderstorm," a gorgeous fall landscape with crimson trees on a hill and overhead rapidly rolling clouds.

Among the other important paintings are two beautiful canvases by Claude Monet from his Thames series; "Happy Family," by Edward Potthast; "In the Marne Region," by Jan Monchablon; "January Morning," by Elmer Schofield, and "Venice," by Martin Rico.

The exhibition will continue into March and is well worth seeing.

N. Y. Masons Buy House Hallowed by Washington

Tappan, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Title to the historic De Wint house, George Washington's headquarters during and after the revolution, passed yesterday to Charles H. Johnson, grand master of the Masons of the state of New York. The purchase price was $30,000.

The Masonic order is to recondition the house as a permanent shrine in honor of Gen. Washington as a man and Mason.

The house was built in 1700 and was used as headquarters by Washington during the revolution and afterward when Gen. Clinton signed papers there to evacuate New York with his fleet. Washington pulled the window blinds in this house after signing the death warrant of Maj. John Andre, British spy, to avoid seeing the prisoner put to death in a field nearby.

A Former Play Becomes Vivid Novel of Negro Life in 'Glory'

"Glory," by Nan Bagby Stephens. [John Day.] Published tomorrow.

"Glory," a first novel by a young southerner, was originally the play "Roseanne" in which Chrystal Hearne starred several years ago. The play was later made into the first Negro opera. And finally as a novel it bears this recommendation from Du Bose Heyward, "She has touched life in the raw, and she has touched it with sincerity and complete understanding."

NAN BAGBY STEPHENS.

The setting is in south Georgia, in the Negro section of a small town named Pittsburg, two miles from the famous south Georgian swampland that has its tiny huts perched crazily up and down the sides of a hill. At the top of the hill is Mount Zion.

The Negroes in this community are morally of the higher type. They allow no philandering among the young people and the older men and women are church-going, industrious and for the most part kindly. Occasionally, like ripples on a calm pond, there are temporary primitive imaginative and emotional disturbances bred too deeply in their race to be forever and quietly submerged in good and uneventful living. No matter how exemplary and peaceful are their lives on the surface, underneath are curious superstitions and tribal memories that appear in their fear of "hants," and primitive religious rites. Into this group of naïve, emotional people comes the preacher Cicero with his strange "cunjering" eyes. He knows the ways of the world and in this community he watches his chance to enslave the Negroes through his psychic power, a power under which the uncultivated Negro is as helpless as the snake with the snake charmer.

Roseanne, beautiful hardworking Negress in the middle thirties has lived most of her life in absolute selflessness. First she had the burden of her parents' keep on her shoulders, and when they died her sister, young delicate Leola, was left in her care. She has had little time for anything but work and a deep religious feeling that transcends the need for a preacher or a church. When Cicero comes to Pittsburgh, however, she is finally enslaved as is every one except Leola and her young lover. These four people are the main actors in a bitter and terrible drama.

It is obvious that the author of this book has been trained in dramatic writing. The conception of situations and events in the form of dramatic patterns and scenes, the careful selection of dialog and the foreshadowing of crises reveal the author's patient study and mastery of the effective technical devices of the theater. The conversion of Roseanne, for instance, is foreshadowed in her experience with the prima donna. She climbs up into a magnolia tree one summer night to hear the singing of a visting artist staying at the home of a white woman for whom Roseanne works. The singing is so pure and so lovely that Roseanne, moved to utter self-forgetfulness, joins in with her own clear contralto, and, as a duet, they finish the song. She experiences a curious emotional exaltation that prepares her for the later conversion that is so dependent upon uncontrollable emotionalism.

Not only is there authenticity in the atmosphere and in the delineation of character but also in the psychological conflict between the characters. Roseanne's struggle against the preacher, her sudden submission, Leola's agonized resistance that ends only as all struggles between strong and weak natures end, Roseange's desperate crash to reality and her ultimate discovery of the spiritual joy and peace brought about by charity and forgiveness, all ring true to the author's original conception of the characters and impress the reader with their inevitability.

A reader who has had long and familiar contact with the Negro can appreciate the fidelity and the charm with which the Negro dialect is transcribed. The author is said to have received friendly instruction from the famous "Uncle Remus" himself.

Though the author has capably handled the smaller dramatic scenes, either through fear of being melodramatic or through technical inability she doesn't carry off several important scenes that should have been the most dramatic and vivid in the book.

Among the books of importance published today are:

"How Shrewd Speculators Win," by Fred C. Kelley and Sullivan Burgess [Sears], tells the reader many things about speculation that would indeed if true send prosperity scurrying around that far-famed corner. If the authors aren't fooling us this book with its dos and don'ts ought to make millionaires out of us all. If this book is any more than gentle raillery there may be mighty consequences to its publication.

"Tom Paine—Liberty Bell," by George Creel [Sears], tells the tragic story of one of the bravest apostles of liberty in American history. He challenged without fear the autocratic orthodoxy of his day in all countries and his fervent endeavors won him nothing but persecution in France, England and America. Even the friendship of President Thomas Jefferson came to no avail when Tom Paine was being slandered by his unappreciative contemporaries. The book reads like a novel and is as fascinating as its subject. M. D.

Optometrists Issue Warning to Keep Your Glasses On

A warning against discarding glasses and a prediction that office buildings in the future will be without windows were included in the addresses at the 24th annual convention of the Illinois Optometrists' society in the Palmer house yesterday.

"Many people need glasses and do not wear them," declared Dr. Carl F. Shepard, vice president of the Post Graduate Eye institute. "Although effective efforts are being made to increase the strength of eyes rather than glasses, there is no need to issue broadside invitations to throw away glasses. Probably not more than 10 per cent of those now wearing glasses can be made to enjoy normal, comfortable vision without them."

Dr. William Arthur Mendelsohn, chief of staff of the institute, forecast that in the future offices, factories, and homes will be without windows and the presence of uniform illumination will save eye energy.

Dr. Harry E. Pine was reelected president of the society; Dr. B. V. Schoenborn, Dr. John De Moure, Peoria; Dr. W. E. Needles, Dr. J. Frank Wallace, Decatur, and Dr. Harry C. Paul, vice president, and Dr. William B. Irvine of Springfield secretary-treasurer.

It is expected that at the meeting the whole tag day question will be reviewed with the view of revising the city's tag day ordinance.

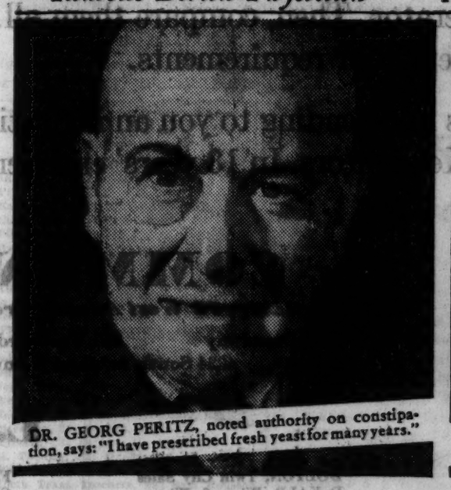
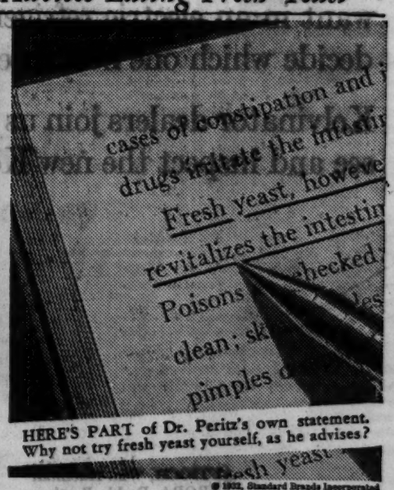
Famous Berlin Physician Advises Eating Fresh Yeast



DR. GEORG PERITZ, noted authority on constipation, says: "I have prescribed fresh yeast for many years."



HERE'S PART of Dr. Peritz's own statement. Why not try fresh yeast yourself, as he advises?

Read what this DOCTOR says!

He's telling you how to treat an extremely unpleasant evil—INTESTINAL FATIGUE!

ONE of the best-known physicians in Europe is speaking . . . Prof. Dr. Georg Peritz, for 17 years physician-in-chief of the most celebrated clinic in Berlin:—

"To relieve constipation and aid digestion, drugs are often used. But they irritate the intestines. The system soon becomes so used to them that they lose all effect.

"With yeast it is entirely different. Fresh yeast revitalizes the muscles of the intestines. Easy movements result . . . The tongue becomes clean; the head clears . . . skin troubles, such as pimples and furunculosis (boils) disappear."

If you really want to get rid of constipation, try eating Fleischmann's Yeast!

Just give it a thorough trial—for several weeks at least. Then check up. See if you haven't greater energy, a better appetite and digestion, a fresher, clearer skin.

All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast—also restaurants and soda fountains, and every cake is rich in health-giving vitamins B, G and D. Just eat 3 cakes a day, regularly, as directed on the label.

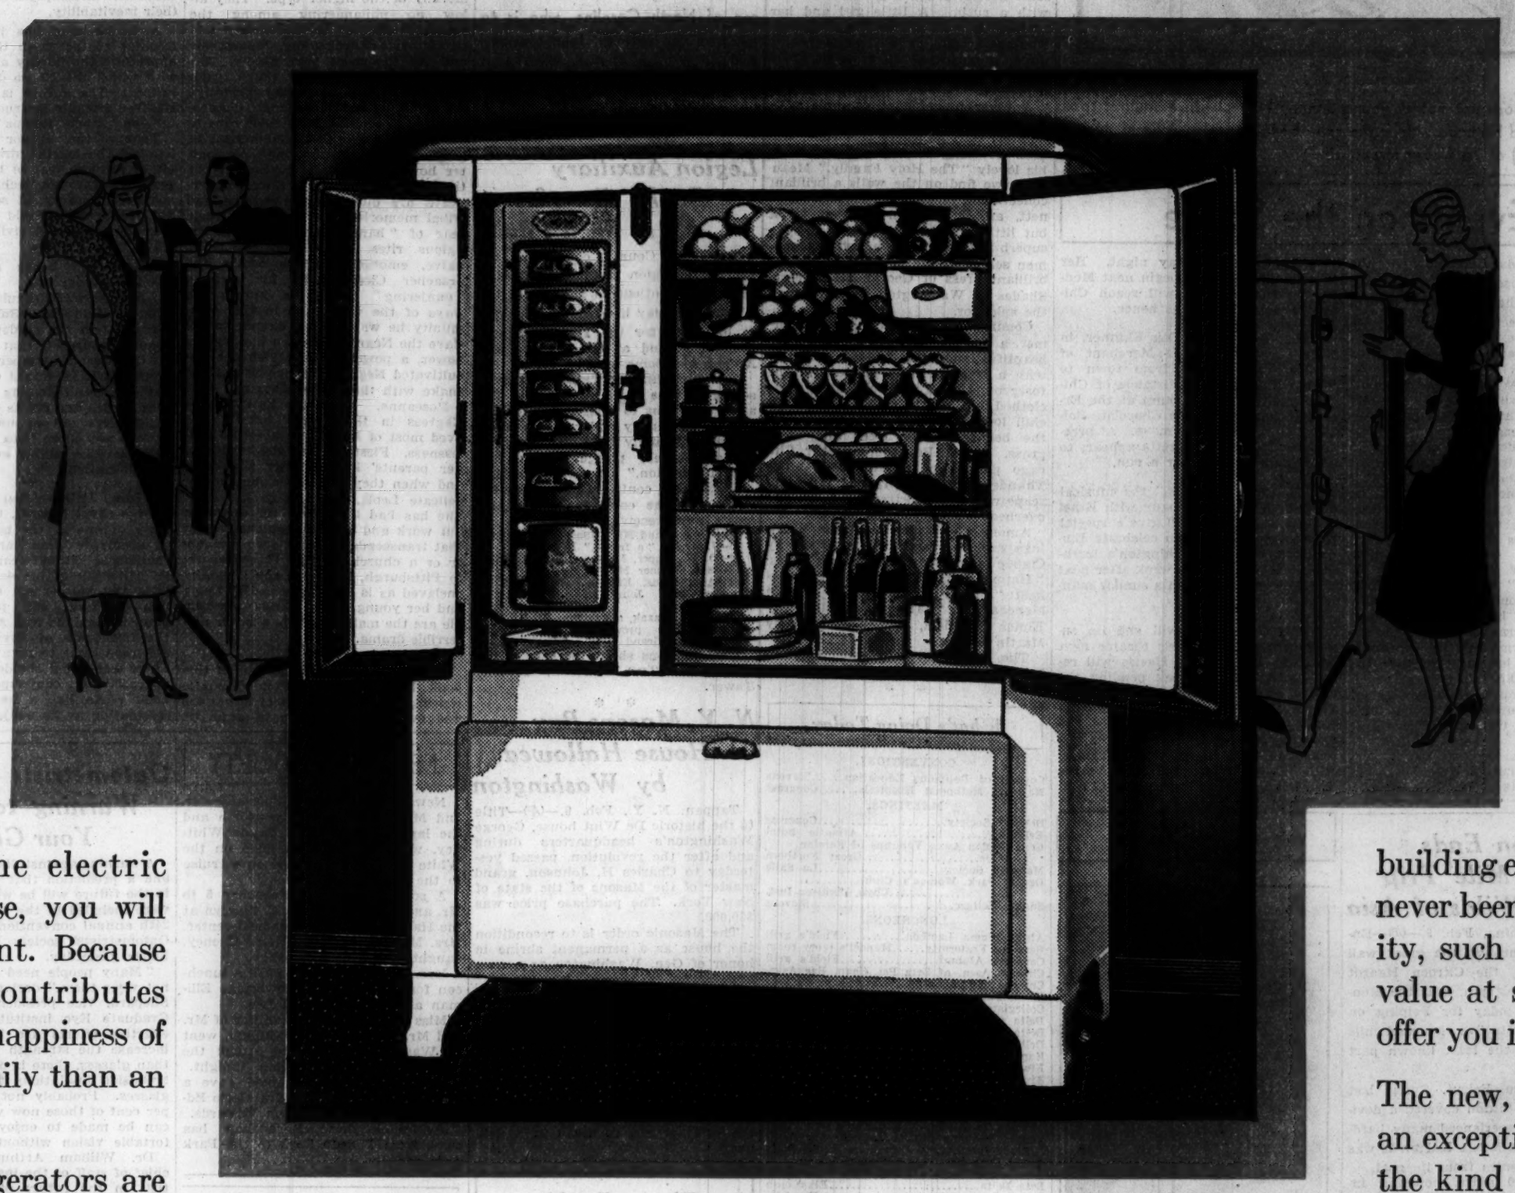
MOST ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS ARE GOOD



REGARDLESS of the electric refrigerator you purchase, you will find it a good investment. Because nothing in the home contributes more to the health and happiness of every member of the family than an electric refrigerator.

To-day, all electric refrigerators are good. They all give value received. But, like anything else, some are better, for your purpose, than others. Some give a more complete service, a higher and more satisfactory type of performance. And, in order to determine which is best, you should first decide what you want in an electric refrigerator. Then, compare them all. And decide which one best meets your requirements.

Kelvinator dealers join us in extending to you an invitation to see and inspect the new Kelvinators. In 18 years' experience in building electric refrigerators, we have never been able to offer so much quality, such performance and so much value at such low prices as we now offer you in the new 1932 Kelvinator.

The new, low-priced "K" Model is an exceptionally fine value. It gives the kind of all-around performance that has heretofore been obtainable only in the larger, more expensive electric refrigerators . . . The Standard and De Luxe Models are the only fully automatic electric refrigerators—with four different temperatures, each controlled automatically, without attention or supervision.

We extend to you a cordial invitation to visit any of the Kelvinator dealers listed below. They will gladly show you the new Kelvinators and explain all of the Kelvinator features. Kelvinator Sales Corporation, Detroit, Michigan.

Retail Merchants and Apartment House Owners are invited to call the Kelvinator Refrigeration Engineer for advice about their refrigeration and for information regarding Kelvinator's complete line of equipment for every electric refrigeration need.

BLACKHAWKS DEFEAT N. Y. AMERICANS, 3 TO 1

SWISS YOUTH LEADS OLYMPIC BOBSLED TESTS

Stevens, American Driver, Second.

Miss Dubois Wins

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Elizabeth Dubois, Chicago Tribune Silver Skates winner in 1929, won the 1,000 meters skating race for women at the Olympic games here today. Mrs. Leila Brooks-Potter, winner of the Silver Skates in 1925, finished fourth to Miss Dubois in the final, but set a new world's record of 2:01 1-5 in winning the first heat.

Karl Schaefer, from Vienna, Austria, world figure skating champion, became the Olympic champion tonight, succeeding Gillis Grafstrom, of Sweden, by vote of seven judges of the Olympic competition, hours after the free skating final ended in the indoor arena.

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The Olympic winter games finally reached the bobsled stage today and some 5,000 people discovered that in bobsled racing, as in tournament golf and prize fighting, the customers take most of the punishment. Leaving their beds at an early hour the 5,000 traveled far out into the Adirondacks, a distance of four dollars [as the local taxicabs clock it], and then traveled varying stages over the landscape, which is almost perpendicular at that point.

The scene was Mount Van Hoevenberg, a large hump in the topography where the state of New York and the local business men, at a cost of about $250,000, have constructed an amusement device of which only fifteen or twenty Americans are able to make any use. They traveled the second stage on foot or on their trousers, the trail being very slippery; and it may be said that this applies to both genders, as this is a section of the country where the ladies wear the trousers, too.

What! No Broken Bones?

Although one of the two American bobs in today's competition, which was a race for two man bobs, finished a close second to the Swiss bob, the program was not a dramatic success, for there were no casualties among the contestants. Past performances in the practice runs had justified an expectation that there would be one or more serious accidents and there were two ambulances, or, more properly, middle wagons, stationed half way up the course. A middle wagon, as I learned during the convention of undertakers at Max Schmeling's camp last summer, is the somber vehicle which is used for the conveyance of the victims of accidents to the morgue. It is a wagon beyond the ambulance, but before the hearse.

The middle wagons, as matters turned out, were mere ballyhoo properties, for the boys seemed to have softened up the race course at last, and the buzzard instinct in the patrons, which accounted for the largest crowd yet attracted to any of the Olympic winter events, was frustrated.

Reto Capadrutt, a 19 year old Swiss yodeler weighing about 115 pounds, with an upturned nose of the Irish model and a stipple of coffee colored freckles to heighten the Galwegian appearance, was the leader of the races at the end of the two heats, with an aggregate time of four minutes thirteen and nine one-hundredths seconds for two trips down a run of one mile and one-half.

Uses Ropes to Steer.

In one of his practice runs, steering with ropes instead of the mere advanced worm gear mechanism used on the other sleds, Capadrutt climbed one of the steep banks so high that he knocked out a segment of the ice behind his upper runners about ten feet long. His steering ropes end in iron rings about half the size of the old fashioned gymnasium ring, wrapped in some sort of silk or plush, and they run through a combination of pulleys between the prow of the forward bob and the hand grips.

The next best aggregate time was achieved by Hubert Stevens of Lake Placid, whose family enjoys a baronial status in these parts, owning thousands of acres of mountain side and countless head of deer, jack rabbit, black bass and perch. Hubert, a big blond youth and about 30, with no nerves, had a score of four minutes seventeen and thirty-seven one-hundredths seconds for his two slides, but he also had the best single slide of the day.

Heat Runners with Torch.

There were two American sleds, the other one driven by Johnny Heaton, and both teams devoted much time before their descents to the warming of their steel runners with a plumber's blow torch. Maj. Philip Fleming of the Military academy, who is half an official of the Olympic games, having been allotted the coat but not the red, white, and blue pants of an official costume, explained that the American boys were merely warming up the grease in their bob axles with the blow torch.

But inasmuch as the boys paid very little attention to their axles and played the flame of the blow torch persistently up and down the bearing surfaces of their runners, it did seem that they were taking a roundabout way to thaw out the axle grease. Hot

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Chicago's Blackhawks defeated the New York Americans, 3 to 1, tonight in a National Hockey league game, scoring their three goals in the third period. The Hawks wore the Americans down with hard defensive play in the first two periods, then overcame a goal advantage with a trio of well executed plays.

After two Blackhawk goals had been ruled illegal, Johnny Gottselig, Chicago wingman, tied the score with a shot out of a free for all scrimmage early in the third period.

Mushy March scored the winning goal later in the period on a four man play after Taffy Abel had demoralized the New York defense with a solo excursion. Several minutes later Lola Couture settled the argument with another long drive.

Hawks Seek Openings.

The Hawks started the attack when Ripley went down the right side and bounced a short shot off Worters' pads. But after that it was a defensive scrap until Dutton was penalized for a board check.

The Americans held until the sides were even, then came back with a several three man passes that gave Gardiner trouble. March jammed Lamb into the end boards, getting the first Chicago penalty. The Americans kept attacking without success, while the Hawks laid back, waiting for good openings.

Gardiner made a flashy save at the start of the second period when Convey tried a long shot and followed through. Chuck dived out nearly 15 feet to slap the puck away.

The Hawks lost a score when Thompson waited at the net for a pass out. It hit his chest and bounced into the net, but was ruled no goal.

Hawks Count Fast.

After a slow moment, Brydge drew a protested penalty for tripping Ingram so that he slid into the New York goal. Worters made a great stop of Ripley' shot. Then, as the Hawks sent down four men, Himes broke away with the puck. Slipping past Abel, he gave Gardiner a tough stop and as the goalie watched him on his right Lamb came in from the left, snared the rebound, and shot it in.

The Hawks got a goal in the first minute of the third period, but it was disallowed because of interference. Gottselig and Worters became entangled on the first shot and were lying on the ice. Couture shot at an open cage, but hit Gottselig, who hooked the puck on into the net. The Hawks made a vigorous protest when Referee Jerry Goodman called back the play.

Just a moment later, however, they made one that did count. With both teams massed around the net, Gottselig took Ripley's drive and sent a carom shot into the cage. The puck took at least two bounces off skates before it finally slid past Worters, who didn't make a move to stop it.

Two More for Hawks.

Less than five minutes before the end of the period, Taffy Abel started a play. The American defense stopped Abel, but Cook picked up the loose puck and passed to Thompson, who relayed it to March. The latter slammed a shot past Worters.

The Americans came back with four and five man assaults. As they halted for a face-off at the blue line, Couture picked up the puck in the center zone, stepped a few strides toward the goal and blasted another shot into the corner of the net. Cook and Gottselig were given assists. The remaining two minutes were just a wild, fruitless scramble.

Rodak, De Lille Tie 2 Other Teams for 6 Day Bike Lead

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Lap larceny on a grand scale, spills, near fights amused about 10,000 spectators last night in the six day bicycle whirligig at the Stadium. The fights didn't materialize and the spills merely removed a few splinters from the boards. But the jamming brought results.

Big Bill Peden and his fair haired companion, Jules Audy, twice were out in front with two lap leads, but when the boys finally decided to quiet down for a spell after 11 o'clock the green sweatered Canadians had been caught by Belgian-Chicago duo of Predent De Lille and Mike Rodak and the Chicago-California pair made up of Carl Stockholm and Norman Hill.

Stockholm-Hill Sneak In.

Stockholm and Hill sneaked into a share of the lead without anyone suspecting their inteitions, except McNamara and Horan, who had been in front at various times during the evening. The latter had to concede a lap to the pacemakers.

It was Stockholm's persistency in lap stealing which almost brought on something new—a fist fight on bikes. Freddy Spencer, in starting for an extra lap, thought he had been given a backward push by Stockholm, so when the latter started for a lap Spencer retaliated by riding Stockholm to the top of the turn. Just when it looked as if they might exchange punches a spill occurred and hostilities ceased.

McNamara in First Spill.

The spill carried down McNamara, Peden, and Grimm, who returned to their labors as soon as industrious trainers were able to apply bits of adhesive to skinned elbows and knees. It was McNamara's first fall of the race. Prior to this the tiny Audy did a solo dive off his machine. He now has four crashes to his credit, but hasn't been hurt.

The boys took up the evening's rush of business at the usual hour of 8:30 when the house was comfortably filled. Soon after the jamming started Ritter and J. Walthour gained a lap to get away from McNamara and Horan, with whom they had been tied. This arrangement existed only until another jam sent six teams spinning around the track one lap ahead of the field. Included in the six were the favorite pair of Audy and Peden. This created a four sided tie for top honors.

Audy and Peden Go Well.

Audy and Peden, having tasted the top berth, decided they liked it. They kept moving at a dizzy grind until they suddenly were revealed as two laps to the good. The Dutch-Belgian combination of Pijnenberg and Van Nevele objected to this situation, so whittled away half of the Audy-Peden advantage. But in less than an hour after the jamming started the latter pair resumed a twice around lead, only to have it cut in half for the second time. In second place at the time were Pijnenberg and Van Nevele.

The jamming was carried into the hour of sprints between 10 and 11 o'clock and the alterations in the standing continued. In the fifth sprint Horan and McNamara jumped the field and moved into a tie for second. DeLille and Rodak followed with a lap. In the sixth dash seven teams perpetrated larceny on the field. Audy and Peden were in this and so were DeLille and Rodak, thus tying up the lead.

Meanwhile Stockholm and Hill were quietly picking up laps without causing much commotion, and after doing this for the third time were announced at 11 o'clock as being tied with the two other pairs for front position.

Two Teams Dropped.

While the evening's show was at its height two teams were dropped from the marathon, thus reducing the field to an even dozen. Steve Wagner and Pete Smessaert of the Chicago-Belgian-American A. A., were so far in arrears they were requested to go home and practice up for next year. The other withdrawal was by the Italians, Bresciani and Martinetti.

The results of the 2 a. m. sprints:

First—Audy, Horan, Letourner, Rodak.
Second—Hill, Grimm, Georgetti, De Lille.
Third—J. Walthour, Audy, Horan, Stockholm.
Fourth—Ritter, De Lille, Hill, Pijnenburg.
Fifth—Spencer, Horan, De Vitto, Rodak.

Seventh—Horan, Spencer, Van Nevele, B. Walthour.
Eighth—Grimm, Georgetti, Pijnenburg, Ritter.
Ninth—Audy, Horan, B. Walthour, Stockholm.
Tenth—Pijnenberg, Hill, Peden, Sheehan.

CATHOLIC YOUTH BOXERS TO SEEK GOLDEN GLOVES

Organization Will Enter 137 Boys.

BY WILFRID SMITH

The Catholic Youth Organization, through its director, the Rev. Gerald P. Scanlan, has entered 137 amateur boxers in the Chicago qualifying trials of the fifth annual Golden Gloves tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. Fifty-five boys will compete in the west side meet, which opens Monday night at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium.

The entry lists for the north side tournament at Loyola university and the south side tournament at White City still are open. The C. Y. O. expects to have more than fifty additional entries in these meets. At this time thirty-three boys have signed for the Loyola bouts and forty-nine have entered the White City meet.

Held Meet in December.

The C. Y. O. held its first boxing tournament last December, determining a team of champions which defeated a picked team from Southern California at the Olympic stadium in Los Angeles. The C. Y. O. meet, patterned after Golden Gloves eliminations, had qualifying tournaments climaxed by the finals at the Stadium. Many of the lads who fought through those sectionals now are ready for the Golden Gloves campaign, which concludes with the fifth intercity matches with New York in Madison Square Garden on March 28.

Included in the list of west side contestants is Albert Soucup, from St. Leonard's parish, Berwyn, Ill. Soucup won the flyweight championship in the C. Y. O. west side tournament. Sam Battaglia, Our Lady of Pompeii, will fight in the batamweight division. Ed Dowling of St. Mel's, who is a veteran campaigner, has hopes of winning the lightweight title. Andrew McGahan, Our Lady of Angels, is entered in the middleweight trials on the west side. Edward Sistecky, also of St. Leonard's, is a promising heavyweight. His parish won the team championship in the C. Y. O. tournament.

The Jewish People's institute tonight holds its boxing championships at the institute, 3600 Douglas boulevard. Each winner will receive a gold boxing charm. Leonard Sterling is the physical instructor. The most popular boxer will receive the trophy donated by Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion.

North Side Entries Close.

The bouts will start at 8 o'clock. Well known Chicago referees and judges have offered their service. The proceeds will be used by the physical education department of the J. P. I.

Entries for the north side tournament close tomorrow night. The meet starts on Feb. 18 at Loyola university. Boxers who wish to compete at White City may file their blanks until next Monday night. The south side trials start Feb. 22.

The Wisconsin Golden Gloves championships get under way tomorrow night at the Milwaukee Eagles' club. One hundred and ten boys are entered. The preliminary bouts will continue Friday night while the semi-finals and finals, 24 bouts in all, will be held Feb. 19.

King Midas Rules Over Cue Tourney

BY FRENCH LANE.

What's this! Business better than last year?

When the pessimists hear that the increase amounts to 100 per cent over the 1930 turnover, they may speak up and say "the guy will be cutting out paper dolls next."

Let the gloomy fellows say what they may about paper dolls, but the official paid attendance figures at the world's three cushion billiard tournament, which reached its closing climax on Monday night when Augie Kieckhefer won the world's championship, 50 to 27, in 40 innings, from Otto Reiselt, more than doubled the attendance at the 1930 tournament.

Gate Receipts Doubled.

The official figures show that the attendance at the 1930 championship billiard tournament were 6,140. The attendance at the 1931 tournament, which ended with playoffs for secondary positions last night, reached the total of approximately 12,650. The gate receipts also were more than double the amount taken in a year ago.

The tournament this year has continued a few days longer than the one of 1930. The field included only eight players last year, while it took in 12 players this year. But that had nothing to do with the increase in attendance. There were no dull nights last year. There were several dull sessions in the tournament just closed, for games involving players far down in the standings had no box office appeal. It was a standoff in that respect.

First Optimistic Report.

This is the first indication since the depression came on that the boys in the counting rooms at sports events have had anything optimistic to report for many months. Baseball, golf, horse racing, boxing, football, basketball, hockey, golf, and tennis have shown a decrease.

Now along comes billiards to show the customers are turning right about face and starting to walk in another direction.

Reiselt defeated Art Thurnblad, former world's champion, 50 to 30, in 44 innings as the tournament came to a close last night.

The victory gave Reiselt second place and placed Thurnblad in third position. Johnny Layton's two victories yesterday, the first over Frank Scoville, 50 to 40, and the second over Gus Copulos, also by 50 to 40, sent Layton into fourth place. It pushed Copulos down into fifth position, and Scoville finished sixth.

Two Germans, Hans Steinke and Hans Kampfer, are on the card. The former wrestles George Hills, Wisconsin lumberjack, while the latter is matched with Frank Bronowicz. George Calza will meet Floyd Marshall of California.

CARDS RE-ELECT OFFICERS; VOTE NO DIVIDEND

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The board of directors of the St. Louis Cardinals was reelected today at the annual business meeting. President Sam Breadon announced they would declare no dividend at this time because of the necessity of building a new $400,000 grandstand for Columbus of the American association, a St. Louis farm.

The officers elected at the meeting were Sam Breadon, president; Branch Rickey, vice president; William Dewitt, treasurer, and Clarence Lloyd, secretary.

SCHMELING AND JACOBS CLEARED BY COMMISSION

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion; Joe Jacobs, his manager, and Billy McCarney, the latter's business associate, were reinstated today by the New York State Athletic commission.

The trio had been suspended more than a year ago for failure to go through with a match with Jack Sharkey. Today's action was forecast a week ago, when the commission approved contracts for a bout between the champion and Sharkey next June.

BRUINS WHIP N. Y. RANGERS BY 2 TO 1 SCORE

Boston, Mass., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins were in top form tonight as they defeated the New York Rangers, 2 to 1.

The Bruins scored their first goal during the second minute of the game, Weiland carrying inside and passing to Clapper, who slashed home the rubber. Murdoch put the Rangers into scoring position in the third period on a dash with Cecil Dillon. The former carried down the right wall and after Dillon smashed through the Boston defense, Murdoch passed over, Cecil driving the puck through Thompson, who had returned to the Boston net after a long rest.

The game threatened to go into overtime when Marty Barry scored the winning goal. Eddie Shore carried inside the enemy territory and went into a corner. runners, it seemed, would fry the ice slightly and permit the runners to bite into the surface, thus minimizing the skids on the early turns.

At any rate, Hubert Stevens, on his second slide, covered the mile and one-half in two minutes four and twenty-seven one-hundredths seconds, as against Capadrutt's best time of two minutes five and eighty-eight one-hundredths seconds in the first heat. There will be two more heats for each of the twelve bobs and the best aggregate time will determine the victory.

Here's Day's Score.

The day's score for two heats was as follows:

Capadrutt [Switzerland], 4:13.09.
Stevens [U. S.], 4:17.37.
Heaton [U. S.], 4:22.53.
Huth [Germany], 4:23.11.
Pappana [Rumania], 4:23.33.
Rossi [Italy], 4:23.55.
Killian [Germany], 4:26.35.
Houben [Belgium], 4:32.58.
Lanfranchi [Italy], 4:33.75.
Hansex [Belgium], 4:33.75.
Balsan [France], 4:39.47.
Weinstengel [Austria], 4:45.65.

The bobbers, as they finished their slides, were met by a large bob with a wide beam, such as the farmers used to haul cordwood in before the days of the motor truck and the paved road and, loading their sleds aboard, hopped in themselves to ride back to the mountain top in slothful ease and luxury.

The chuffing tractor scattered the footsore customers along the upward trail and the blase heroes leaned over the sideboards jabbering obliviously in their respective languages with their large shell helmets dangling from their arms. The bobber's helmet is an elaboration of the old style papier maché football helmet with a national shield emblazoned in front, and the bulbous dome, when it is placed aboard the bobber's own skull, imparts an appearance not unlike the comic artist's conventional version of the man from Mars.

There were pausing stations along the way, called by such descriptive names as Eyrie, Whiteface, Shady Corner, and Zig Zag, and the trudging thousands, ever hopeful, and to give them their due, also dreadful of a gory accident, were climbing into the gaunt grand stands at these places to rest a while and watch the bobs climb the ice banks.

The loud speakers, raucous morning-glories mounted on spars hewn from the forests around and about, were telling of the progress of the bobs and whetting the expectancy in a formula which ran, "Clear the track; clear the track; they're off; they're by Eyrie and bobbing; going into Whiteface; they're out; time, 52 seconds; going into Shady; they're out; going into Zigzag, now they're out; going to the finish; they're through."

Germans Started It.

The American drivers were sliding on elliptical runners designed by engineers so as to present only the narrowest friction surface against the ice and snow, and deeply bowedlike rockers to minimize the bearing surface and exaggerate the pressure per linear inch and thus increase the depth of the bite into the slide.

The Germans introduced these refinements, but they had been hiding their sleds in large wooden coffins when they were not in use and otherwise concealing them from the expert eyes of the Americans until a failure occurred in their watchman's vigilance and one of the local boys, with a pencil and board, made a tracing of their runners. There was then a hurried demand on foundries in Peruny and Detroit, and the American sleds were equipped with runners which aspire to reproduce the German skids.

DEMPSEY OFF FOR CLEVELAND, CHRISTNER BOUT

Jack Dempsey left Chicago last night for Cleveland, where he boxes K. O. Christner tomorrow. Following his return from Milwaukee yesterday the former heavyweight champion went through several rounds of limbering up exercises at the Arcade gym. Dempsey will return next Tuesday from Flint, Mich., following his exhibition bout with Charley Belanger Monday. Jack will train here three days before his contest with King Levinsky at the Chicago Stadium Feb. 18.

A heavyweight match between Frank Ketter and Merril Tonn will feature the amateur card at the Belle Plaine Athletic club, 3943 Lincoln avenue, tomorrow night. Ketter recently won the north side suburban championship in his class and Tonn was an alternate on last year's Golden Gloves team. Matchmaker Marshall Richie will announce seven supporting bouts today.

Dave Maier, Milwaukee southpaw, and Mike Mandell, St. Paul heavyweight, will meet for the second time when they fight in the eight round main event of Pep Kerwin's show at the Rainbo fronton Friday. Mandell held Maier to a draw at Milwaukee several years ago. Sid Novak, Milwaukee middleweight, and Mickey Patrick of South Chicago are hard at work for their six round semi-final encounter. Six other fights round out the program.

Eddie Shea, south side featherweight, will have the bandages removed from his fractured nose today and after a week's rest will start training for his match at St. Louis, March 1.

SHAMROCKS MEET LEAGUE LEADERS AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The Chicago Shamrocks meet the Kansas City Pla-Mors, American Hockey league leaders, here tomorrow night. The game was scheduled to fill in a date vacated by the defaulted Buffalo Majors. It is the Shamrocks' first appearance here since early in the season.

The latter half of the American league season finds five clubs all contenders for the playoffs. The Pla-Mors, however, are practically sure of being in this competition. They have held or shared the lead continuously since Jan. 5.

The Pla-Mors will have their maximum strength again tonight. Pete Mitchell, usually conceded the league's outstanding center, has recovered sufficiently from injuries to play. Porky Levine, whose injured leg has been a handicap, also is in good condition.

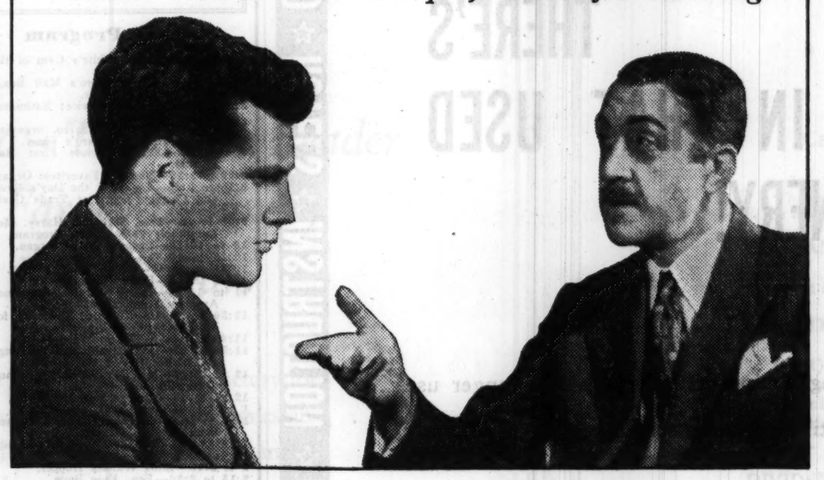
Every Father With a Son Who Smokes
Should Know This Unique, Scientific Finding



How By Doing One Simple Thing, You Can Minimize the After-Effects of Tobacco to a Marked and Amazing Degree—WHAT YOU DO

Every day, the average person who smokes too many cigarettes a day notices it. Head heavy and dull—a pressing down over the eyes; across the back of the head.

Scientists now call it "Smoker's Fag." And most people who smoke have it more or less. Few call it by its right name; usually they think it's general bad health.

Now science points a way out. A way that minimizes the after-effects of tobacco to a marked and amazing extent.

How? By keeping your system alkaline. It's excess acid in your system that makes tobacco intolerable. Keep your alkaline balance in the simple way explained here, and you minimize any after-effects from smoking. Feel fine all the time. Believe it or not; but try it.

JUST DO THIS: Simply take two teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water EVERY NIGHT before bed. That's all.

Or take two Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablets every night which give an equivalent amount of Milk of Magnesia; for each Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablet equals one teaspoonful of the liquid Milk of Magnesia.

This small, daily dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tends to neutralize excess acids in your system. To alkalinize your system against the after-effects of tobacco. Your head stays clear; your mouth sweet; you have fewer headaches.

If you smoke, be fair to yourself and try this. Don't let tobacco "get" you. Fortify your system against its after-effects. Millions are learning this. Millions are doing it.

TWO FORMS NOW AT STORES

You can now get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in tablet form, as well as ordinary liquid form. Each tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Milk of Magnesia. Carry the tablets with you wherever you go. They taste like mint candy.

NEUTRALIZES THE ACID THAT CAUSES TOBACCO HEADACHES AND DEPRESSION

POPE WILL GREET MUSSOLINI AS IF HE WERE A KING

Italian Premier to Visit Vatican Tomorrow.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 9.—Pope Pius XI. and Benito Mussolini, Italy's spiritual and temporal rulers and architects of the Lateran peace treaty, will lay the last stone of their peace edifice when they meet on Thursday in the pontiff's private library in his Vatican apartments for the first time since each came from Milan to Rome ten years ago to reign in their respective spheres.

After months and even years of expectancy the last obstacle of the personal meeting between Il Duce and the pope has been swept away and it was officially announced by Premier Mussolini's press bureau this afternoon that he would call on the pontiff in a solemn ceremony on Thursday, the third anniversary of the signing of the Lateran treaty and concordat, to celebrate this event and thank Pope Pius for the award of knighthood of the Golden Spur which makes Benito Mussolini a defender of the Catholic faith.

Admire Each Other.

Thus the doors of the temple of Janus will be closed and for the first time in 61 years of the division of the church and state the pope will have a personal interview with the head of the Italian government.

Mussolini, however, saw the pope when he was Msgr. Ratti and later as the cardinal archbishop of Milan.

While the road to peace, which was taken by Premier Mussolini soon after the came into power, has been rough and characterized by many ups and downs both before and after the signing of the Lateran pacts, it is said that in all the bitter controversies that have raged over the respective provinces of the church and state Mussolini and the pontiff have always preserved high mutual admiration and respect for each other, and the Italians say that in character the two have many traits in common.

The pope once referred to Mussolini as the "providential man," while Mussolini in a recent speech said the Lateran accords were reached "because fortunately we had a pope who was also a good Italian."

Will Be Greeted as a King.

The ceremonial of the visit, while it is private and somewhat informal in nature, will be carried out with solemn pomp and in full regalia and that part of the protocol reserved for visiting royalty will be accorded Mussolini. He will wear the prime minister's uniform adorned with the insignia of the Golden Spur. His entourage will consist of Ambassador de Vecchi to Vatican City, one of the quadrumvirate of the march on Rome; Minister of Justice Rocco, Undersecretary of the Prime Ministry Giunta, Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs' Amadeo Fani; Polverelli, chief of his press bureau, and the personnel of the Italian embassy to the holy see.

The protocol ordinarily reserved for sovereigns to be accorded Mussolini is that he will be greeted as he enters the papal apartment by Commendatore Sarafini, governor of Vatican City, and Marquis Pacelli, councillor general of Vatican City. While these officials usually greet only kings the distinction is extended Mussolini as one of the chief ahchitects of the Lateran treaty, it is explained in Vatican circles.

The avenues of Rome and the streets of Vatican City over which Mussolini's cortége will pass will be cleared and all the Swiss guards, the armed forces of the pope's domain, will be mustered to do honors to Il Duce.

Interview Will Be Brief.

With his entourage Mussolini will descend from automobiles at the bell arch of Vatican City and then on entering Damascus court will be met by Msgr. Nardone, secretary of vatican ceremonials, and by the papal chamberlains of sword and cape.

At the entrance of the papal apartments Gov. Sarafini and Marquis Pacelli, who was intermediary between the pope and Mussolini during the Lateran negotiations, will conduct Mussolini to the pontiff's private library. There a half hour's conversation will probably take place.

As Mussolini enters the pope will probably be standing at his desk. Il Duce will initiate the gesture of genuflection to kiss the pope's ring, but the pontiff, it is expected, will, in accordance with his custom with royal visitors, convert the gesture of homage into a mere greeting of handshake and the interview will take place with both seated.

Afterward Mussolini will introduce the members of his party and then pay a call on Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, secretary of state, and later visit St. Peter's. He will leave through the sacristy by the Braschi stairway, which is also reserved for visiting royalty.

NOTED DOCTORS UPHOLD HEALTH INSTITUTE ADS

Perform Public Service, Medical Society Told

Members of the medical advisory board of the Public Health institute have taken a stand on the question of the propriety of the institute's advertising and are prepared to defend the institute's policy if the council of the Chicago Medical society institutes oustér proceedings against them for unethical conduct, according to Dr. Michael Davis of the Julius Rosenwald fund, which supports the institute.

The advisory board of the institute is composed of five prominent physicians. They are Dr. Arthur D. Black, dean of the Dental School of Northwestern university; Dr. Joseph A. Capps, professor of clinical medicine at Chicago university and senior physician at St. Luke's hospital; Dr. Charles A. Elliott, professor of medicine at Northwestern university and senior physician at Passavant Memorial hospital; Dr. Ludvig Hektoen, professor of pathology at the University of Chicago and director of the McCormick institute, and Dr. Joseph L. Miller, clinical professor of medicine at the University of Chicago.

Danger Is Recognized.

"We recognize that the use of advertising by medical agencies is fraught with dangers," the advisory board declared in a report to the trustees of the institute. "These dangers, however, are obviated in the case of the institute because:

"1. It is conducted for public service, not for private profit, and is publicly sponsored as such by responsible persons.

"2. It is restricted to diseases which are communicable and dangerous to the public.

"3. The advertising is accurate, educational, and without self laudation."

"The medical board is sensitive to the many economic adjustments within and without the profession affecting medical service throughout the world," the report stated. "We think that the supposed competition between a clinic like the institute and the medical profession of Chicago has been misconceived and exaggerated.

"The above principles which govern the use of advertising by the institute as a public health agency are the result of much thought on the part of the medical advisory board, and we believe them in keeping with the trend of economic changes affecting medical service in recent years."

Try to Reconcile Differences.

At the monthly meeting of the medical society council last night at the Medical and Dental Arts club no action was taken leading to ouster proceedings against the institute's advisory board, according to Dr. Herman L. Kretschmer, president of the society. The council merely gave a vote of confidence to the joint committee that has been working to smooth out the differences between the council and the institute, and requested that its work continue.

The council also voted to invite the American Medical association to hold its convention in Chicago in 1933 in connection with the Century of Progress exposition. The convention usually assembles between 10,000 and 12,000 physicians, Dr. Kretschmer said.

Ends Stomach Torture at Once

Mrs. Elmert B. Hall of Chicago says: "I had suffered from indigestion for several days. Then tried ACIDINE. I took three doses, and, Presto, I was feeling fine."

"I suffered tortures with acid stomach for four years. During the past three weeks I have taken ACIDINE," says W. Wilcox, Pasadena, Cal. "Have had no trouble during this time. I have tried many medicines and all failed to help except ACIDINE."

"I suffered sour stomach for three months. Nothing would relieve me," says Mrs. M. Ambrogio, Brooklyn, N. Y. "Then I tried ACIDINE. It may seem impossible, but I can truly say I haven't had a sour stomach since."

End gas, sourness, heartburn, dizziness, sleeplessness, headache resulting from acidity. Maker guarantees ACIDINE ends your stomach trouble or money back. All druggists have ACIDINE.

EDISON PROFIT FOR '31 ALMOST EQUALS '30 NET

Electric Firm Earns $10.40 a Share.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The Commonwealth Edison company, the big Insull concern which serves Chicago with electric light and power, incurred only a moderate decrease in gross and net earnings last year. Naturally, general conditions resulted in a smaller use of power for industrial purposes, but this was somewhat offset by a larger use of residential current. Moreover, economies in operation resulted in net profits being almost as large as in 1930.

Thus, results from normal operations were satisfactory, all things considered. But results from investments by the company's subsidiary, the Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation, disclosed a considerable loss. Whereas Commonwealth Edison had net earnings of more than $16,000,000, the investment subsidiary was forced to write off more than $6,000,000 as the result of its market transactions in Commonwealth Edison stock.

Gross in Small Drop.

Gross earnings of Commonwealth Edison for 1931 were $80,551,163, compared with $84,004,438 in 1930. This marked a decline of only 4.11 per cent. But operating expenses decreased 4.62 per cent. Net income was $16,322,541, which was equivalent to $10.40 a share on 1,569,420 shares of capital stock, while net income for 1930 was $16,402,511, or $11.51 a share on 1,425,100 shares. Dividends at 8 per cent last year required $12,072,848, after paying which and making surplus adjustments, the sum of $3,871,518 was added to surplus, which now stands at $49,903,398.

The Commonwealth Edison company last year increased its investment in its subsidiary, the Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation, and the latter apparently conducted some fairly large transactions in the parent company's stock. Commonwealth Edison bought $42,750,000 of a new issue of preferred stock and an additional $2,000,000 of common stock of the Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation. The latter now has $90,750,000 capital stock outstanding, of which $48,000,000 is common stock, and Commonwealth Edison's investment in the subsidiary is $90,748,000, compared with $45,998,700 at the end of 1930.

Stock Written Down.

The report of the Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation says that some of the Commonwealth Edison stock bought in the market last year was disposed of in a customer-ownership campaign.

"Such stock as remained on hand Dec. 31, 1931, was written down to the market value as of that date and the bookkeeping loss sustained thereby was also charged off," the report continues. "This action was considered desirable because the stock had not been acquired for permanent investment. The total amount charged off on account of transactions in Commonwealth Edison stock was $6,314,661."

Somewhat offsetting the loss on stock transactions were the earnings of the subsidiary. Net income was $2,297,137 and preferred dividends required only $249,000. Nearly $400,000 of reserves were used in charging off losses. The net result was that the corporation's surplus on Dec. 31, 1931, stood at $3,629,852, compared with $7,444,579 on Dec. 31, 1930, a decrease of $3,814,748. This is practically the amount that the Commonwealth Edison company added to surplus.

Illinois Central Votes to Omit Pfd. Dividend

Directors of the Illinois Central railroad yesterday voted to suspend dividend payments on the company's preferred stock, series A, on which payments have been maintained at a $6 yearly rate since creation of the issue in 1922. A semi-annual distribution of $3 a share was due at this time.

Dividends on the road's common stock were suspended by directors last October. The omission at that time marked the first interruption in the road's 70 year dividend record.

The company issued the following statement yesterday: "The board of directors has decided to suspend dividend payments on the preferred stock, series A, believing it to be in the interest of stockholders as well as holders of obligations to conserve its cash under the present unsettled financial conditions."

Earnings Off Sharply.

The action of directors was necessitated by the sharp decline in earnings in 1931, which resulted from the drastic reduction in the volume of railroad traffic. While yesterday's action was not unexpected in financial circles, the news caused a 4 point break in the company's preferred stock on the New York exchange. The issue closed at 21.

In contrast with the Illinois Central action the directors of the Norfolk and Western Railroad company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share on the common stock. The dividend will be paid March 19 to holders of record Feb. 29.

The directors of the Texas and Pacific railroad voted the usual quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the preferred, payable March 31 to stockholders of record March 17. The board of the Texas and Mexico line decided to pay interest on the 5 per cent noncumulative income bonds at the rate of 2½ per cent for the six months period ended Dec. 31. The interest will be paid April 1. No action was taken on the interest for the quarter ending Feb. 29.

Take No Action.

Directors of the Paramount-Publix corporation made no announcement on dividend action on the common stock following the meeting in New York. The dividend is usually considered at this time.

General Asphalt company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, payable March 15 to stockholders of record March 1. In the two preceding quarters the company paid 50 cents.

United Fruit company declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents on common. The same payment was made in the preceding quarter and before that the issue was on a $4 annual basis.

Brill corporation omitted its dividend on the class A stock due at this time. A year ago the company paid 34 cents on the issues, and two years ago 65 cents. The directors voted the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on preferred.

ECUADOR QUITS GOLD STANDARD AND CALLS HOME FOREIGN LOANS

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Ecuador went off the gold standard today until next Nov. 10 and the Central bank was ordered to call in all its foreign deposits for conversion to gold.

Under the suspension, exporters expected to pay their duties in gold and export collections will be deposited in the Central bank. Interest payments made to the bank will be applied to reimburse the institution for losses sustained on account of decline in the value of the pound sterling.

Moneys set aside for payment of the foreign debt also will be deposited in the bank, which in turn will lend the government money at 3 per cent. This money was ordered used for expenditure on public works, partial payment of the internal debt and establishment of a national farm bureau.

A climax in Ecuador's financial difficulties came last May when the Bank of Ecuador was suspended pending an investigation of accounts. During a subsequent run all depositors were paid, but later the superintendent of banks resigned and the treasury was asked to proceed with liquidation.

SUN LIFE'S NEW 1931 BUSINESS IS 527 MILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 9.—The Sun Life Assurance company, king of the Canadian insurance companies, and largest in the British empire, did more business in the United States in 1931 than in all the rest of the world together, including Canada.

New paid up business in 1931, it was announced today at the annual meeting, totaled $527,000,000, and of this $291,000,000 was done in the United States; roughly $100,000,000 in Canada; over $50,000,000 in Great Britain, and $85,000,000 in the rest of the world. The grand total was less than the two previous years, but above 1928 and preceding years.

Total insurance in force in 1931 was $3,051,077,066, for the first time going over the three billion dollar mark. The financial statement put an end to rumors circulated from time to time in 1931 that the Sun Life was liquidating United States securities. The portfolio as compared with a year ago is practically intact except for the addition of many millions in government and other bonds purchased during the year.

Net income gained $10,477,877 over the preceding year. Total assets were $624,804,455, an increase of $36,070,823 over those of Dec. 31, 1930.

The current price is $4.75 for a box of 100 pounds compared with a quotation of $5 a year ago.

Hits Secret Loan Policy of Govt. Corp.

BY SCRUTATOR.

It now appears, after the passage of the act creating it, that the Reconstruction Finance corporation is to function in secrecy and that the public, after being committed to furnish two billion dollars for loans, is not to be informed who gets the money and why.

Dispatches from Washington state that the finance corporation's directors have indicated that it has adopted the policy of privacy.

As originally voted by the senate the bill called for "full and detailed" quarterly reports by the corporation to congresss, containing, among other things, "the names of the persons, financial institutions, or corporations with whom contracts or loans or other transactions were entered into, and the amount involved in each case."

But in its final form the act provides only for reports stating the "aggregate loans" made to each class of borrowers and the number of borrowers by states in each class.

Begins with Farm Board.

This idea of permitting politically appointed bodies to handle in secrecy vast sums of public money is a comparatively new development in government. In the past it has been an accepted principle that public records should be open to the people.

The new policy of secrecy began with the federal farm board. Political appointees were given enormous sums of money to handle as they saw fit. Not until the hearings of the senate agricultural committee were held last fall was there any public accounting. Then it was revealed that the farm board had lost $110,000,000 on stabilization wheat, $115,000,000 on stabilization cotton and $15,000,000 on cooperative loans.

Sees Lack of Protection.

Now comes the Reconstruction Finance corporation with $2,000,000,000 to handle in secrecy, four times as much as the farm board had. Every bad loan in America will seek refuge with it. Tremendous pressure will be brought to bear for many of them. And the public will lack the protection normally afforded by publicity. As much as $100,000,000 may be lent in secrecy to one corporation. Neither congress nor the people will be informed how the money has been lent or for what purpose.

Congress in passing the act decided to depend on publicity as a deterrent against exorbitant salaries for employes of the finance corporation. The act puts no limit on salaries, except those of the four directors, but provides for quarterly reports giving the name and amount for each individual receiving more than $4,800 per year.

Limitation on Salaries.

"I think after our experience with the farm board there ought to have been some limitation upon the matter of salaries," Senator Borah remarked. "The farm board is paying some employes $75,000 or $50,000 a year. I look upon it as scandalous. Did the senator find that it was impossible to limit it?"

"We discussed it at considerable length," replied Senator Walcott, "and it was finally decided that publicity would be a sufficient deterrent."

This deterrent, which was regarded as sufficient protection against the payment of exorbitant salaries, is not to be applied to restrain the politically appointed board in its business of apportioning the two billions of public funds, which, incidentally, is of far greater importance than the size of employes' salaries.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 9.—The share market came within an eyelash of hitting a "triple bottom" for the 2 1-3 year bear movement today. The twenty-five representative industrials used in computing THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S averages did go to a new low and the combined average on fifty stocks of different groups came within 7 cents of breaking through the minimums they established on Jan. 5. The rails, however, held doggedly above the danger line and at their worst had still nearly a point and a half to spare.

Many favorites, of course, went under in all departments, even including the rails. General Motors did, and so did General Electric, Atchison, Anaconda, Auburn, Sears Roebuck, Bethlehem Steel, Case Threshing Machine, and Standard Oil of New Jersey. United States Steel was hard pressed at times, but drew enough support in the pinches to keep it on the sunny side of things. The old bellwether closed at 38⅛, its low for the day, as compared with its bear market low of 35½. American Can finished with a couple of points to spare, having held at 56½ against its Jan. 5 minimum of 54⅛.

Industrial List Off.

At its worst today the industrial list was off more than 9 points on the average from the peaks of the January rise registered on the 14th.

Omission of the Illinois Central dividend on its preferred shares cost the railroad group a pretty penny in today's trading. The division was holding out encouragingly up to the time of that meeting, but following the announcement, shares began to be pressed for sale and the leaders slid off rather easily.

Motor shares were prodded off their perch in the early dealings, and some of the leading issues, including General Motors and Chrysler, were

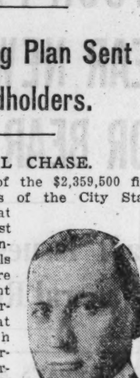
CORPORATION TO TAKE OVER CITY STATE BUILDING

Refinancing Plan Sent to Bondholders.

BY AL CHASE.

Bondholders of the $2,359,500 first mortgage bonds of the City State Bank building, at the southwest corner of Randolph and Wells streets, were mailed last night a plan for reorganization of that property which calls for the formation of a corporation which will take title for the bondholders following a foreclosure sale, according to William H. Short, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee. Delos G. Smith of P. W. Chapman & Co. is chairman of the committee. The other members are F. T. Rockwood of the Emery, Peck & Rockwood Co., investment securities; Galen V. Knight of Chapman & Cutler, attorneys, and C. W. Green of Paine-Webber & Co., stocks and bonds.



JOHN R. MAGILL. [Raymor Photo.]

In the letter to the bondholders from the committee it is stated the Foreman-State Bank and Trust company served as receiver until July 16, 1931, when John R. Magill, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board and president of John R. Magill & Co., realtors, was appointed receiver and building manager. This change in the receiver made a considerable saving for the benefit of the property, the committee states.

Expect Balance of $87,100.

"The present receiver," the committee's letter states, "according to a recent survey of the building and its income, based upon leases now in effect and estimating expenses for the coming year, has stated that, in his opinion, the operation for the twelve months commencing Aug. 1, 1931, and ending July 31, 1932, using the six months of actual operation during such period as a basis of estimate, should reflect substantially the following: Gross revenue, $189,000; operating expenses, including insurance and compensation for building manager and receiver for one year at $9,000, but not including taxes, $89,400; receivership expenses, $12,500, which would leave a balance of $87,100."

The committee states its belief that when business gets back to normal the occupancy of the building [now at 60 per cent] should return to 80 or 85 per cent at substantially the present scale of rentals. On that basis it is figured the property should have a net income in excess of interest requirements on a proposed new bond issue with an excess for retirement of bonds and dividends on stock.

Voting Trust to Hold Stock.

All stock in the new corporation will be deposited in a voting trust, to run for ten years. The property will be bid in at foreclosure and if not redeemed within fifteen months will be conveyed to the corporation which will be capitalized with no par value common stock, one share for each $100 par value of deposited bonds.

Of the $2,359,500 first mortgage bonds, $2,210,500 have been deposited with the committee. The Central Republic Bank and Trust company is depositary. Chapman & Cutler are attorneys. The bonds were issued by the City State Safe Deposit company and bear 6 per cent interest. There are $800,000 second mortgage 7 per cent bonds.

Ashland Apartments.

Details of a new reorganization plan for the Ashland apartments, at 4034-40 North Ashland avenue, a Strauss Brothers Investment company project, were mailed last night to owners of $157,000 in defaulted bonds, it was stated by Barnet L. Rosset, chairman of the protective committee. He says that more than 80 per cent of the bonds had been deposited some time ago under a trust plan to work out a reorganization, but the trustees found they couldn't carry out their plans and requested the protective committee to act.

The committee, Mr. Rosset states, has reached an agreement with the owner who will sell his equity at a price declared to be considerably less than necessary court costs if receivership had to be resorted to and also eliminates considerable delay. The property will be bid in at the foreclosure sale and title conveyed to a new corporation to be formed with authorized capital stock of 1,575 shares of no par common stock, to be owned by the bondholders.

A voting trust will be formed to manage the property for ten years. Mr. Rosset, Charles J. Young, and A. S. Graven, members of the protective committee, will be voting trustees. A short term loan has been arranged to cover all the reorganization expenses. Annual principal payments will be made on this loan consisting of one-half of the net annual income of the property.

U. S. OPENS FIGHT TO BEAT SUGAR TRUST'S POWER

Spreckles Pleads Loss of 11 Millions.

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The government's biggest anti-trust suit in many months began today in federal District court here when the attorney general asked that the Sugar institute, with which virtually all the sugar refineries in the country are affiliated, be officially dissolved because of alleged price fixing operations.

RUDOLPH SPRECKELS. [Harris & Ewing.]

This suit involves fifty corporations and individuals and many millions of dollars are represented in the concerns made co-defendants. The government, which filed suit eleven months ago, charges that, as a result of the institute's activities, the public has been forced to pay high prices and growers and producers have received no benefit from the increased rates.

Drama of Millions.

Drama predominated as today's hearing opened in the shabby old courtroom that was packed with big business men and high priced lawyers. Rudolph Spreckels, the millionaire who financed the famous graft investigations in San Francisco in 1906, was the first witness.

Mr. Spreckels is president of the Spreckels Sugar corporation and, through Cornelius W. Wickersham, attorney, he and his associates had moved for dismissal of the action against them. Federal Judge Julian Mack reserved decision on the motion.

Mr. Spreckels, son of a family which made millions in sugar, said that he had sunk $11,000,000 in the corporation since 1927; that the company was now in the hands of the receivers, and that he and the directors of the corporation were through with the business.

Charges Price Regulation.

Special Assistant Attorney General James L. Fly in the opening statement for the prosecution charged that the institute and its members produce 5,000,000 tons of refined sugar annually at a sale price of $500,000,000. He declared that the organization regulated and maintained price and rate charges, controlled shipments of stock, enforced rules of a coercive nature and sponsored methods of a repressive type against brokers, jobbers and wholesale grocers.

William L. Cummings, one of the lawyers representing the defendants, filed an answer in which his clients admitted that most of the country's sugar refineries belonged to the institute, but denied that its methods were repressive or that the organization was a trust.

Survey Shows 27.5% Drop in Price of Food

The food industry has been more successful in adjusting retail prices to reduced incomes of salaried people and wage earners than any of the more important lines of business, according to a survey by Frazier Jelke & Co. Food prices are 27.5 per cent lower than at the end of 1929 and only 14.4 per cent higher than in 1913; they dropped 16.6 per cent last year and are 48.2 per cent under the 1920 peak. Clothing is next with a decline of 15.4 from 1929.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 7,000; hogs, 22,000; sheep, 17,000.

An easier market for light weight hogs at the opening yesterday stimulated buying in face of discouraging reports from the wholesale market for fresh pork and the trend of prices was soon altered, with the close as high as any time Monday and 5@10c above the average selling. It was difficult to beat $4.00 at the start, but later in the day several loads sold at $4.05@4.10 and some late orders went over unfilled.

The general average for the whole day moved up 5c to $3.80. Larger houses held back at the opening, but were eager for stock in mid-session when advance estimates indicated shorter receipts for today. Five markets report only 62,000 for today, against 73,800 last Wednesday and 74,400 two weeks ago. Hog receipts have been running short since the first of the year. The federal inspected slaughter for the entire country for January at 5,026,840 compared with 5,361,989 a year ago. Only three January totals since 1922 have been smaller.

Hog Futures Steady.

Little action was reported in the hog futures market and all bids and offers were exactly the same as the day before. July hogs were bid $5.00 and none were offered. May offers were held at $5.50 and bids at $4.75, while March contracts were bid $4.25 and offered at $5.00.

The cattle trade yesterday was almost devoid of features when light supplies failed to spur buying. Soon after a few of the early orders for good grades had been filled the market drifted along in a listless manner until the final rounds, when some sacrificing was necessary to dispose of stock lacking attractive killing qualities. Light steers and yearlings of mediocre quality sagged a little, even on early rounds, when sales of well finished weighty beeves to eastern representatives indicated some strength.

Choice 994 lb yearlings to Armour topped the list at $8.75. They were billed for eastern slaughter. Several loads of high quality 1,150@1,445 lb steers reached $8.00@8.45, but the rank and file of medium to good grades of cattle went over the scales at $5.00@7.00. A fair amount of business was transacted at $7.50@8.00.

Lambs Again at $7.00.

A shortage in receipts shifted the advantage back to the selling side of the lamb market and prices were forced up 10@15c on some of the best grades during yesterday's session. City butchers were buying at $7.00, while shippers paid $6.85 and packers bought at $6.65 and below. Many of the good grades of slaughter lambs that lacked high finish sold at $6.25@6.50, and some medium grades ranged downward to $5.50@5.75.

Reports from Colorado, where a large crop is on feed, indicate that the movement from there may not reach much volume until about the middle of next month, and weights may be somewhat lighter. "Lambs in the largest feeding sections of that state went in 8@10 lbs lighter than a year ago and will be later coming on the market for slaughter," stated one on the selling side who recently covered Colorado to obtain a supply survey.

BITTERNESS OF PLANTERS SOURS SUGAR MARKET

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Bitterness between sugar planters on opposite sides of the earth has soured the market for the sweet commodity.

Raw sugar slumped to record lows for the history of the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange today, as traders were disturbed over inability of Cuban and Javan producers to agree upon curtailing the new crop.

Some 14,000 bags of Cuban raw sugar were sold at 2.90 cents a pound for immediate delivery, the lowest yet for this market, and off about 1-32 of a cent. In the futures market, the March delivery declined .07 of one cent to .88 of a cent a pound, which is equivalent to 2.88 cents after payment of duty. Refined sugar, however, held unchanged at 4.15 cents a pound. The price of less than 9-10ths of a cent a pound commanded by sugar futures contrasted with the record price of about 23 1-3 cents established in the New York market in 1920.

The lack of agreement between the Dutch planters in Java, and the Cuban planters, traders feared, placed the Chadbourne world curtailment plan in jeopardy. The Chadbourne plan has been hailed as the salvation of the sorely depressed raw sugar producing industry, although there is some opposition to it among New York sugar traders.

DRY GOODS.

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Cotton goods buying continued in moderate volume today with gray goods remaining fairly steady, and finished cloths selling chiefly for early shipment. Rayon dull lustre yarns continued in steady demand for weaving purposes. Silk goods are in fair demand. Prints and plain shades leading. Burlaps were steady and quiet. Dress goods and women's worsted coatings are selling well for spring.
